

King and President Join in Peace Pledge; 750,000 Cheer as Capital Greets Royalty

Heat Fells 200 In Greatest D. C. Welcome

Many Take Up Eight-Hour Vigil
Before Dawn Along Parade Route
To Watch Royal Progress With Biggest Crowd in Washington History

By Hedley Donovan

A Capital city 140 years old and a crown whose traditions are woven through 13 centuries yesterday added to their histories a common chapter of unforgettable brilliance.

Sharing with George VI and Elizabeth the vivid memories of day-long pageantry are three-fourths of a million people, who stood for hours on Washington's hot streets to welcome to their Capital a King and Queen from beyond the sea.

For the city the story began before dawn as the vanguard of the greatest crowd ever gathered in Washington took up an eight-hour vigil on curbstones bordering the royal route from Union Station to the White House.

When the royal arrival at Union Station was signaled by the steady thud of a 21-gun salute, carried on still air the length of Pennsylvania avenue, the waiting crowd was swollen to nearly half a million.

They had waited quietly through the stifling heat—200 were prostrated—but it was the calm before the storm—a storm of tumultuous cheering that thundered along the parade route at 5 miles per hour, as Washington took its first look at the King-Emperor and his smiling Queen.

The cheering, not the Army tanks, was the real escort for Their Majesties as they moved through the heart of the Capital. It was robust and good-natured. It carried all the flavor of the America the King and Queen are seeing for the first time.

But the city had not spoken the last word of its welcome to the royal visitors. When the King and Queen set out late in the afternoon for the British Embassy their path looked like another channel cut through a solid mass of shouting Americans.

Dupont Circle might have reminded the sovereigns of a rustic sort of piccadilly circus. Scientific instruments, tuned to catch the volume of cheering, couldn't have proved that it wasn't.

Police estimated the total crowd, from the White House to the Embassy, at 250,000. No one tried to count the thousands who gathered at every point along the route of the informal sightseeing tour taken by Their Majesties earlier in the day.

Firemen and police reporting at 8 a. m. to their posts for the morning parade found a host of hardy citizens already deployed along Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues.

Hawkers' Business Brisk
Hawkers were doing brisk business in British and American flags, souvenir badges and medals, ice cream, pennants and balloons which blew up into miniature blimps, revealing "A Welcome to the King and Queen."

One salesman optimistically offered badges featuring the colors of a dozen Eastern universities and medals advertising the New York World's Fair. Peach baskets, at 25 cents a piece, were peddled for chairs.

Along sidewalks and pavement
See CROWD, Page 8, Column 1.

Lost and Found: 5 Youngsters at Royal Reception

Five lost youngsters added to the troubles of the First Precinct police in yesterday's reception to the British King and Queen.

Bobby Davis, 6, of Arlington, Va., knew where he lived but didn't know how to get there after becoming separated from his parents. He was taken to the Traffic Division until his father arrived to claim him.

Attendees at the first aid station at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue discovered Robert Watts, 8, of 502 D street southeast, wandering around in search of a familiar face and turned him over to police. He was later "rescued" by his mother.

Three other children were held at the First Precinct station for several hours until parents arrived. They were Thomas J. Dube, 10, of Takoma Park; Bernice Johnson, 7, of 811 Second street northwest, and Carter Robinson, 4, of 1734 U street northwest.

Sidelights Of Capital's Epochal Day

Queen Reneges, Wears
Sheer Suit; First Lady
Swelters in Wool

Observers, who saw Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt start out in an attractive blue dress in smiling anticipation of a visit with Queen Elizabeth yesterday morning, may have wondered at a certain quietness and soberness that she displayed within the following half-hour. Some thought it related to a little matter of dress.

Queen Elizabeth has in her possession a dress of American wool. Mrs. Roosevelt actually wore one made of English wool, and had several times mentioned at her press conferences that when the two met, each would be wearing wool dresses made with fabrics from the other's countries.

In spite of yesterday's warmth, Mrs. Roosevelt carried out her part of the arrangement. But when Queen Elizabeth stepped from the train she had capitulated to the weather, and wore instead a sheer ankle-length suit of powder mauve.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, who led the parade in a big white car, received almost as many cheers as Their Majesties. He returned the greetings with snappy salutes and a big grin.

Saddest story of the royal reception was the fate of an unidentified youngster who rubbed his hands raw, clawing his way to the top of a wall adjacent to the Senate Office Building. He had one of the best spots from which to see the parade—if he had stayed there. But when the first blast of the 21-gun salute went off, so did he. The noise frightened loose his grip on an ice cream stick, and in grabbing for it he fell off the ledge. Before he could scramble up again, the King and Queen had passed.

The pilot of that big Army bomber did a neat job of shooting the Goodyear blimp away from the Union Station area just before
See SIDELIGHTS, Page 5, Col. 1.

King Is Grateful For Good Wishes

The following statement was issued yesterday by the State Department at the request of George Steward, press relations officer of the royal party:

"On the occasion of his official birthday and on his arrival in the United States, the King has received so many messages of congratulations from citizens of the United States and from all parts of the world that His Majesty finds it impossible to reply to them individually.

"He would, however, like the senders to know how greatly he appreciates their good wishes and would be grateful for the courtesy of the press in making this message known."

A Lovely Lady Is Curious About a Girl Scout's Medal

A moment that Leah Burket, Girl Scout of Linden, Md., will remember the rest of her life is pictured here as Queen Elizabeth asked to see the medal she wears. King George leans to see, too. Leah presented to Her Majesty the bouquet of flowers on behalf of the 3,000 Girl Scouts Their Majesties reviewed at the White House. See also Pages 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10 and 11.

60 Girl Scouts Faint Awaiting Royal Review

1,000 Persons Treated
As 94-Degree Heat
Harries Throngs

By Howard F. Wentworth.

Sixty Girl Scouts dropped exhausted on the south lawn of the White House yesterday while awaiting the King and Queen, ending a day of tumultuous events which left one dead, scores injured in minor mishaps and more than 200 cases of heat prostration.

Coroner MacDonald estimated that altogether about 1,000 were treated or forced to relinquish their places in line.

A blistering sun beat down on the welcoming throngs and sent the mercury to 94 degrees at 4:15 p. m.—one degree short of the year's record.

No Room to Fall

Along the parade route from early morning until long afternoon, emergency first aid services were taxed to the limit. A man selling baskets at Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue collapsed just before the royal party passed and was dead on arrival at George Washington University Hospital. He carried no marks of identification.

The dead man was described as 45 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing 145 pounds, with blue eyes, reddish hair and wearing a white shirt and black trousers.

The sun, which shone throughout the parade fought bravely through clouds which brought a torrential rain almost as soon as Their Majesties
See CASUALTIES, Page 5, Col. 1.

Woodrings Park Children Where They'll Get Look

When Secretary of War and Mrs. Woodrings went down to the Union Station to greet the royal couple they took their three golden-haired children as far as the door.

"Now, be sure to get a good look," Mrs. Woodrings urged as she and the Secretary went into the State Suite, leaving the three in the automobile with their nurse.

Melissa, Marcus and Cooper—wide-eyed and dressed in white—looked at everything in sight and then were driven away in a long line of official automobiles until their parents returned 30 minutes later. They were the only children in the parade.

Garner Slaps King's Back at Garden Fete

Sovereigns Greet 1,500 at Largest Party for Them Here; Have Tea
With Select Group on Embassy Portico

By Hope Ridings Miller.

At the biggest party on their Washington schedule, King George and Queen Elizabeth yesterday afternoon mingled with 1,500 hand-picked officials and social notables from all over the United States.

On separate tours across the sloping lawn of the British Embassy they shook hands and chatted briefly with Cabinet members, Senators, internationally known financiers, social celebrities and representatives from every State.

Later, they had tea with a select group, including Vice President and Mrs. Garner, J. P. Morgan, international banker; Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham, whose late husband was Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, and a number of others especially invited to sit with them briefly before their departure shortly after 6 o'clock.

Watching the royal tea-drinking scene were "big names" in both official and private circles, including Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Admiral Richard E. Byrd, Ambassador and Mrs. Hugh Wilson, Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

"Lindsay luck" that has summoned clear skies for many an al fresco fete at the Embassy, Massachusetts avenue, brought the sun out from beneath lowering clouds just in time for the history-making event that has had Capital society in a dither for six weeks, and will be its chief topic of talk for years to come.

Around 1,000 local residents and almost 500 out-of-towners, arriving between 4 and 4:30 o'clock, almost filled the neatly manicured gardens that bring the Buckingham Palace atmosphere to the heart of Washington.

Expected at 5 o'clock, Their Majesties appeared on the portico at 5:20. Shortly after their arrival was announced by the stirring strains of "God Save the King," played by the British naval band from the Exeter, of the West Indian squadron, the royal couple moved from group to group under the portico as a small top layer section of their guests was presented.

Vice President and Mrs. Garner, Speaker and Mrs. Bankhead, Secretary of State and Mrs. Hull, Postmaster General and Mrs. Farley, R. Walton Moore, of the State Department
See EMBASSY, Page 3, Column 2.

Sovereigns' Schedule

TODAY

10 a. m.—King George and Queen Elizabeth will leave the southwest gate of the White House grounds for the British Embassy. They will ride south on Seventeenth street to Constitution avenue. After driving out Constitution avenue to Waterside drive, they will go out Rock Creek parkway to Massachusetts avenue which they will follow to the Embassy.

10:10 a. m.—Arrival at Embassy for reception of the British Embassy.

10:45 a. m.—Their Majesties will leave the Embassy for the Capitol. They will go east on Massachusetts avenue to Rock Creek parkway and will travel down the parkway to Constitution avenue. After driving east on Constitution avenue they will go south on New Jersey avenue to the Senate steps of the Capitol.

11 a. m.—Arrival at Capitol for Congressional reception.

11:45 a. m.—Departure for Navy Yard. The route will be south across the Capitol plaza to New Jersey and Independence avenues; east on Independence avenue to Pennsylvania avenue southeast; down Pennsylvania avenue to Eighth street and via Eighth street to the Navy Yard.

See TIMETABLE, Page 9, Col. 1.

Stars Sing At White House For Royalty

Marian Anderson
And Kate Smith
Among Entertainers

By Scott Hart.

The tiny thundering of mountaineers' hard-soled shoes filled the ears of Britain's royalty last night and the songs of Marian Anderson, Lawrence Tibbett, Alan Lomax and Kate Smith rang through their ears into their hearts.

The White House went to the grand opera stage, the concert platform and brought out the big names for the King's pleasure at the musical party last night. It went to the mountains of North Carolina and brought out the Soco Gap Square Dancers—farmers, mechanics, school teachers and housewives—eight couples in all—who dug their hard-bottomed shoes into the White House floors in wild, careening spasms of "Dive and Shoot the Owl" and "London Bridge."

It was something for a King, particularly one who never had before seen American mountaineers rip a little whoopee to pieces.

Marian Anderson, about whom a tempest seethed when efforts were made to have her appear in Constitution Hall here several months ago, stood before the rulers of the vast empire on earth and sang "Ave Maria," "My Soul's Been Anchored in the Lord," and "Tramping."

Lawrence Tibbett's barytone rang in "The Pilgrim's Song," "Sylvia," and "If Love Hath Entered Thy Heart." Kate Smith brought out her trademark, "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," "Marian Anderson, about whom a tempest seethed when efforts were made to have her appear in Constitution Hall here several months ago, stood before the rulers of the vast empire on earth and sang "Ave Maria," "My Soul's Been Anchored in the Lord," and "Tramping."

See MUSICAL, Page 8, Column 4.

Bail Ordered For Republican Irish Army Head

Shortly before the King and Queen of England reached Washington yesterday morning, the Labor Department telegraphed orders to Detroit to release Sean Russell, head of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, whose arrest in Detroit while the British sovereigns were just across the border in Canada was reported to bring relief to Scotland Yard.

The order was sent after the arrival in Washington of a $5,000 bond covering Russell's appearance in Detroit for a court hearing on Saturday. The technical charge, on which he was taken into custody, was that of over-staying his visa for visiting the United States, which made him subject to deportation.

Roosevelt Holds Example Up to Rest of World

Chief Executive Praises Methods
'Divorced From Aggression' as Way Out in Disputes; George,
'Deeply Touched,' Prays for Amity

By Edward T. Follard

Across a horseshoe table that glistened with the Monroe gold service, President Roosevelt and King George VI last night exchanged toasts and voiced hope for a world at peace.

The ceremony, in which 80 guests raised their glasses, took place at a brilliant state dinner in the White House that brought to a close what was perhaps the most memorable—certainly the hottest—day of the royal tour.

President Roosevelt sat at the head of the horseshoe. At his right sat Queen Elizabeth, a diamond tiara gleaming above her dark hair. Opposite the President sat King George, and on His Majesty's right was Mrs. Roosevelt.

The President raised his glass, smiled at the tanned young British monarch across from him, and in his toast held up as an example to the world the "methods of peace, divorced from aggression" which the United States and the British Empire have followed in their relations with each other.

As if pointing to the bitter tension that prevails along many European borders, Mr. Roosevelt said that if the British-American example "could only be universally followed, relations between all countries would rest upon a sure foundation, and men and women everywhere could once more look upon a happy, a prosperous and a peaceful world."

King George, responding to the President, said that he and Queen Elizabeth had been "deeply touched" by the way Washington had received them. And then echoing the sentiment of Mr. Roosevelt, he said: "And I pray that our great nations may ever in the future walk together along the path of friendship in a world of peace."

Whirlwind Day
The state dinner, held as lightning ripped the sky and a violent down-pour lashed the White House, topped off a whirlwind day for King George and Queen Elizabeth—a day even more grueling than any they spent in their 7,500-mile tour of Canada.

The arrival at Union Station and President Roosevelt's "Well, at last I greet you," the dazzling parade up Pennsylvania avenue with its tanks, cavalry, artillery and bombers overhead; the sightseeing trip; the British Embassy garden party—all of this was a prelude to the dinner and to the serenity that must have come to Their Majesties and their hosts when the last guest was gone.

There were 82 places set for the state dinner last night. The King and Queen of Great Britain were guests; the President of the United States and Mrs. Roosevelt were hosts.

On the table between them were the great epergnes of President Monroe, dripping with their clusters of golden grapes.

A Feast for a King
The ministrations of White House chefs and the selections of White House stewards had made it a feast for a King and Queen.

There was clam cocktail and calf's head soup and terrapin with cornbread. The main course consisted of boned capon with cranberry sauce, peas and buttered beets, followed by simple salad and dessert courses. Each guest was served wine, champagne and a liqueur.

Members of the Cabinet, Army and Navy officers, members of Congress and of the State Department were most of the guest list.

At the table were two women whose husbands once fought each other in a Presidential campaign.

See TOAST, Page 3, Column 7.
See KING, Page 4, Column 3.

Index of Today's Post

	Page		Page
About the Showshops	6	Harlan Miller	2
Alice Hughes	17	Ida Jean Kain	21
Amusements	6, 7	Luella Parsons	7
Classified Ads	29, 30, 31	Off the Record	13
Comics	32, 33	Pegler	19
Congress	23	Pictures	10
Editorials	12	Radio	23
Ernest Lindley	13	Shirley Povich	23
Federal Diary	32	Society	29
Financial	29, 30	Sports	29, 34, 35
		The Post Impressionist	12
		Woman's Page	31

Over the Coffee

By Harlan Miller

SONS OF 38,030,707 IMMIGRANTS DEAR MR. DIES:

When you and the other members of your committee were very young, there were still organ-grinders trudging the streets with small monkeys, and men pushing peanut and banana carts, and red-cheeked musicians of the revving German brass bands, and sad-faced peddlers selling gaudy plaster busts and statuettes from big wicker baskets.

Some of the small boys in your town thought there was something both sinister and comical about these alien faces. You and your colleagues of the committee, of course, knew better, even when you were in short pants. You saw nothing menacing in a foreign name or a foreign face; you knew that all men are brothers.

But your colleague, Mr. Thomas, from New Jersey, can remember when his small playmates used to yell "mick" or "sheenie" and run away, with the mingled ruthlessness and fear of childhood. Mr. Dempsey, of your committee, has heard the arches in Brooklyn in the next block cry "wop" or "kike" at some small storekeeper.

"yesterday's organ-grinders"

Probably your Mr. Starnes remembers the words "bohunk" and "squarehead" used so glibly and "down in Alabama, and Mr. Healy knows that "dago" and "limey" were not tossed around as compliments in Boston. Out in California Mr. Voorhis has heard "greaser" and "Dutchman" flung at the foreigner scornfully. Mr. Mason has heard small boys in Illinois yell these names, too.

Most of the small boys who yelled these epithets have grown up, and know better now. The men they tried in their boyish ways to insult have grown older and more Americanized, and their sons and daughters are quite American, and play baseball and golf, dance the shag, too, the saxophone with the best of us. They love and revere the flag, too.

But you and these gentlemen of your committee have had the rare privilege of listening lately to a number of small boys of long ago who never quite grew up; Moseley, Deatherage, Campbell, Gilbert, et al., who still feel chills running up and down their spines when they see a foreigner or one who seems to have a face not exactly like Tyrone Power's or Jack Oakie's.

Well, Mr. Dies, I have a letter from William Lane Austin, Director of the Census, informing me that in the last 100 years exactly 38,030,707 immigrants have been admitted to the U. S. A. With his letter is a table showing that almost two-thirds of our population consists of these people or their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

"today's DiMaggios"

In the long run, it might be simpler to fingerprint and deport Gen. Moseley, "Capt." Campbell, Deatherage and Gilbert and their ilk than to let them continue to molest, scold, insult and defame the majority of good Americans who are better patriots than their defamers.

From the 38,030,707 immigrants of the last 100 years have come honorable names like Stettinius, Knudsen, Steinmetz, Roosa, Rickensacker, La Follette, Greenberg, DiMaggio, Sarnoff, Lindbergh, Gershwin, Weismuller, McGillicuddy, Sarazen, names now as American as Smith or Jones or Roosevelt or Dewey. They do not need to ask Berlin for advice about how to be patriotic Americans.

Americans can trust the wit and resourcefulness of you and your colleagues, when you let peculiar gentlemen testify before your committee, not to let them use the Capitol as a hallyhoo megaphone to spread some of the cheap poison gas as they pursue a few filthy dollars and a moment in the limelight.

F. S.—Incidentally, that was a swell speech of yours at Houston; you sounded like the young Lincoln. I'd like a copy of it.

SPECIAL NOTICES
BOYD CHARTERS ARE FAST, SAFE, time, money, efficient, small classes, RAPID progress. Position graduates—opening hours. SHORTHAND, Touch Typing, Bookkeeping, Sealing, English, Accounting, Calculating Machines, Civil Service. START TODAY—BOYD SCHOOL (Est. 30 Yrs.), 1225 P St. N.W., N.E. 3240.

FALSE TEETH REPAIRED
PRIVATE WAITING ROOMS.
Robt. B. Scott, Dental Technician (formerly Emergency Dental Laboratory), Rm. 201-202 West 14th St., 14th and P. Phone 605 1415 at N.W. MR. 1833.

LEARN SPANISH THIS SUMMER
Intensive Course—Reduced Rates
Vacation Refund Method Available Only at THE DEBILIT SCHOOL
3115 Conn. Ave. N.E. 9770

The Gallup Poll

Vice President Garner and Senator Robert Taft, of Ohio

Garner Slightly Ahead of Sen. Taft, Tops Vandenberg in 'Trial Heat' Survey

By Dr. George Gallup,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

New York, June 8.—With friends of John N. Garner this week formally launching a campaign for the Presidency on his behalf, a national survey shows that if Garner ran on the Democratic ticket against Senator Robert A. Taft on the Republican ticket, a majority of voters with opinions would prefer Garner at the present time.

The survey, one of the American Institute of Public Opinion's series of "trial heats" between Presidential candidates, is the third test in recent weeks of Garner's popularity against various Republicans. The two earlier "trial heats" pitted Garner against Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, and Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, respectively. The results of the three surveys give a comprehensive picture of the veteran Texan's vote-pulling power today in relation to three outstanding Republican contenders.

How Voters Say They Would Vote at This Time

Hypothetical Race Between:
Garner.....	54%
Taft.....	46%
Garner.....	48%
Dewey.....	52%
Garner.....	57%
Vandenberg.....	43%

In all three hypothetical races, approximately one voter in every four said he had formed no opinion at this time.

The results indicate clearly that,

Pension Bloc Demands U. S. Increase Old-Age Benefits

By Robert C. Albright

A bi-partisan pension bloc of 100 members yesterday organized for a fight to force the Federal old age assistance into the pending Social Security amendments when the House meets today.

The House Civil Service Committee then asked the House to approve retirement benefits for members of Congress contained in a rider on a bill liberalizing the Civil Service retirement system.

Agreement on the Colmer amendment, requiring the Government to put up $4 for every $1 supplied by the States for old age assistance up to a $20 total Federal contribution, obtained a coalition caucus of 68 House members.

Colmar Organizes Bloc
Representative Colmer (Democrat), of Mississippi, leader of the movement, organized the bloc into a pension "steering committee," and last night announced the membership had increased to 100.

When the House starts voting on the Administration's Social Security amendments today, Colmer said he will offer the plan as a substitute for Ways and Means Committee action increasing the Federal old age assistance outlay from $15 to $20, where States match that amount on a 50-50 basis. The pension bloc proposes instead an 80-20 "matching" basis on the first $20 of Federal money, enabling States raising only $5, to pay $25 pensions.

The Congressional retirement rider on the Civil Service retirement bill meanwhile reported by the House Civil Service Committee would bring members of Congress for the first time in line for Government retirement benefits.

Like other eligible Government employees, members of Congress would contribute 5 per cent of their salaries, and be eligible for benefits on retirement after contributions were paid for five years.

Would Increase Contribution
Revising the existing law to provide for optional retirement after 60, after 30 years of service, the bill increases salary deductions toward retirement from the 3 1/2 per cent now required to 5 per cent.

RUG CLEANING
Of Unmatched Quality at Popular Prices
DUSTING, WASHING, REPAIRING, STORING
Our cleaning process brings new brilliance to your rugs and prolongs their life and beauty. Estimates cheerfully given without obligation. Full insurance protection at no extra cost to you.

Phone NA. 3912
Neshan G. HINTLIAN
Established 1917
1128 Connecticut Ave.

Senate Votes Double USHA Lending Power

Wagner Bill for Rural Aid Wins By 48 to 16

The Wagner bill doubling loan authorizations of the United States Housing Authority to $1,000,000,000 and paving the way for a new program of rural housing was passed yesterday by a Senate vote of 48 to 16.

The measure, which now goes to the House, also authorizes additional Federal contributions of $45,000,000 annually, raising the total yearly housing subsidy of the USHA to $73,000,000.

The comprehensive rural housing program was provided for in an amendment offered from the floor by Senator Wagner (Democrat), of New York, and carried by standing vote.

Reductions Rejected
Opening up the possibility of housing projects in agricultural areas similar to those under way in cities, the amendment gives promise of Federal assistance to public housing agencies that will "rent or sell rural housing to farmers." The rural program is to be carried out in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture.

The Senate turned down by a vote of 28 to 20 a proposal of Senator Taft (Republican), of Ohio, that the additional annual contribution be reduced to $30,000,000, and that the added loan authorization be cut to $40,000,000.

King Fears "Distortion"
Winding up the three days' debate on the bill, Senator Wagner asserted that the number of new units being constructed by USHA is equalled by the number of slum units eliminated. The New Yorker added that USHA projects are being built in 29 States, and 10 more States have applied for them.

Senator King (Democrat), of Utah, declared he was afraid the act was being "distorted" into a "building program" from its original purpose as a slum-clearance program.

In offering a proposal—which was defeated—by a joint Congressional investigation of the Government's housing activities, Senator Taft suggested that Majority Leader Barkley's opposition was due to his not wanting a co-ordinated policy in Federal housing.

Barkley Retorts
Barkley shouted that he wished to see how the various housing agencies function under the President's recent reorganization orders, and he added that the Ohio Senator "seems to want the last word on everything."

Proponents of the USHA expansion bill maintain that its net annual cost to the Federal Government will be $30,000,000, in addition to the program's present net annual cost of $23,000,000. These figures take into account a profit the Government makes on the difference in the interest rate at which the USHA borrows and lends money.

Burial for Mrs. Lamore, Silver Spring, Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Roxey Hart Lamore, 90, a resident of Silver Spring, Md., for 33 years, will be held at Hyson's funeral home at 2 p. m. Saturday. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Lamore died Wednesday at her home, 1218 Grace Church road. A native of Chesterfield, Mich., Mrs. Lamore was survived by two sons, Irving W. and Walker F. Lamore, both of this city.

Esther James, Veteran Nurse, Dies in Cambridge

Cambridge, Md. June 8 (AP).—Esther LeCompte James, 63, who served 24 years in the U. S. Navy Nurses Corps, died today at her home of a cerebral hemorrhage. She had the rank of chief nurse when she retired in 1915. Funeral services will be held Saturday.

New Faces in Congress

By Sotio

Rep. JAMES SECOMBE
Republican
FORMER MAYOR OF CHICAGO, 1932-38; BORN IN MINERAL CITY, OHIO, MOVED TO CHICAGO AT THE AGE OF 10 WITH HIS PARENTS WHO WERE OF ENGLISH DESCENT. ONE OF THE FIRST TO BELIEVE IN THE OUTBREAK OF THE WAR; SAW ACTIVE OVERSEAS SERVICE, 1918-19; HIS BROTHER, 6'2" TALL, 375 LBS., ACTIVE MEMBER AMERICAN LIGON AND U. S. SENATE CO-REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, 1932-38; CITY COUNCILMAN, 1930-32; 32' W. DEGREE MASON AND A SHIRNER, ELK, EAGLE, MOOSE AND OTHER FRATERNAL ORGANIZATIONS. MARRIED, HAS TWO CHILDREN, DOROTHY 17, AND JAMES JR. 15.

Monday—Representative Anton J. Johnson (Republican), of Illinois

House Sub-committee Approves Wide Shake-up in WPA

By Cecil B. Dickson
International News Staff Writer

Ignoring President Roosevelt's request to continue the present WPA setup, Democrats on a House Appropriations sub-committee yesterday tentatively approved a bill calling for a complete shake-up in the organization's relief program.

It may lead to the removal of Col. F. C. Harrington as WPA administrator and his replacement by a board of three men to be appointed by the President, subject to Senate approval.

Decision to make drastic changes in the allotment of relief funds also was made. Out of the $1,750,000,000 requested, around $125,000,000 has been awarded to the FWA for heavy construction projects.

WPA Restrictions Sought
This sum will be taken from the $1,477,000,000 requested by the President to finance the WPA in the coming fiscal year. The motive behind this is to permit the WPA to handle all projects involving more than $25,000 each, and to restrict WPA to smaller projects, since hearings have shown the Government has suffered huge losses on large WPA projects.

In addition, two of President Roosevelt's pet projects, the Farm Security Administration and the National Youth Administration, felt the pruning knife. Mr. Roosevelt asked $125,000,000 for each. Pending a final decision, the FSA's appropriation has been cut $40,000,000 and the NYA $25,000,000.

The Democrats met secretly to whip their bill into shape and to formulate a report on findings in the relief investigation after suspending hearings yesterday. They informed Republican members that they would ask for $200,000 to continue the investigation of WPA, since the $25,000 appropriation made

SPECIAL NOTICES
"DON'T GIVE UP THIS EAR!"
The birthplace of Captain James Lawrence is now offered for sale to the highest bidder. Documentary proof of its authentic history is filed at Library of Congress. For particulars, write Mr. Morris, 459 11th St., Burlington, New Jersey.

WEST
SIDNEY WEST, Inc.
14th and G Sts.
DOBBS
SEA ISLANDER

The pork pie crown, the broad brim and the narrow cord band are distinguishing Dobbs touches applied to a hat that is winning fame as a heat-beater. Note "wide open" weave. $5

Sidney West, Inc., 14th & G
EUGENE C. GOTT, President

COOL OFF IN A
BURMA

Hickey-Freeman has fashioned this British cloth into a summer suit that is stylish and cool. Burma will keep you well dressed, regardless how humid the weather, and will keep its press and fresh clean look for prolonged periods. Enjoy cool summer comfort without sacrificing appearance.

$65
Other Hickey Freeman Suits $55 to $100.

GOLDHEIM'S
1409 H STREET

A. S. BECK SHOES
MADE BY THE WORLD'S FINEST ARTISTS

LET'S GO TO AMERICA'S BIGGEST SHOW OF

White

ONLY AT A. S. BECK FOR

ALL THE PRICE

match with your shoes with FASHION HANDBAGS 94¢ RINGERS 49¢
HOSIERY

A. S. BECK

22 OF A. S. BECK'S NEW YORK STORES
SURROUND THE WORLD'S FAIR

Nearby Stores: 1315 F STREET, N.W. In Chicago: A. S. Beck Shoes at 8 Cutler Stores
BALTIMORE RICHMOND (AIR-COOLED)

106 A. S. BECK STORES IN 40 CITIES

Sovereigns See Washington In a Hurry

Royal Autos Sweep By Lincoln Memorial; Crowd Waits Long

The King and Queen of England yesterday swept their eyes, fleetingly, upon the Gothic-Grecian memorial to Abraham Lincoln as they saw Washington—in an hour and a half.

They drove rapidly past the great white temple to America's Civil War President in the early afternoon, passing a throng of people along the edge of the driveway. Some of the crowd was there as early as 1:30 p. m. They all wondered whether the royal party would ascend the steps and face the great stone statue—the figure of a man who in life struggled against drawing England into an American civil war.

Guards Move Crowd

The guards edged the crowd from the steps so that when the King did appear he might see the memorial in its clear lines. The motorcycle escort, 13 in number, rounded the curve in front of the memorial, and the King passed behind them, in an open automobile. He sat beside the President.

The car moved rapidly, through a cheer from the crowd. Directly in front of the Memorial the President gestured with his hand and the King's eyes, dreamily fixed on the Monument, swept the doorway of the Memorial. Then he turned a swift glance down the vista to the Monument. The car sped by, followed by a carload of Secret Service operatives. It was over as quickly as that.

The Queen's car, a suave one with a convertible top, passed as swiftly. Beside the Queen sat Mrs. Roosevelt. Several cars of the entourage swept past. The crowd that had stood more than two and a half hours in the sun dissolved.

Tour Six Minutes Late

The drive by the Lincoln Memorial was a highspot on a formal tour for the royal party. It began from the White House at 2:36 p. m., heavily surrounded by Secret Service men. The movement was six minutes behind schedule. All 100 of the clerical and domestic help in the White House saw the party off with applause.

Mrs. Roosevelt was in the same attitude that she wore to the Union Station to meet the royal party. The Queen, however, had changed to a light blue dress and a blue felt hat, upland in front. She wore pearls and white gloves.

The King changed into a dark blue suit and a gray felt hat. The President and Sir Ronald Lindsay dressed in blue. The President wore a Panama hat. The King was bareheaded as he passed the Memorial. The tour went through 31 miles of Washington, much of it along the shaded roads of Rock Creek Park. This was planned to relieve the visitors of such a sun as they seldom, if ever, experience in England.

Bishop Wears Vestments

Several thousand persons crowded into the shade about the Washington Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul in hopeful expectation that the tour would pause there. Bishop James E. Freeman wore his purple and red vestments.

But the cars passed by, on a street beyond the grounds, heading toward Georgetown.

But the British rulers saw the high spots—the Tidal Basin and the cherry trees; the new Washington Airport, now under construction; Army and Navy flying fields, the Army War College and the site where the memorial to Thomas Jefferson will be erected. The party retraced a part of the route on the way to the garden party at His Majesty's Embassy.

Anglers Unaware

Everywhere the crowds poured to the curbsides as the motorcycle escort signaled the party's approach. The King smiled at them and sometimes he gestured. Generally, the crowds whooped back.

Only once were the visitors overlooked. As they skimmed the edges of the Tidal Basin a group of fishermen sat watching their lines, unaware of their nearness to the Nation's No. 1 fisherman, President Roosevelt, and the English royalty.

Everywhere the President seemed to be leaning backward so that all eyes could fasten on the King. The King and Queen returned to the White House for a brief rest. They emerged to step into an up-roar of acclaim.

Pause by Fountain

This was en route to the garden party at their embassy. During a pause in one of the roads of the south grounds, by a frisky fountain, 5,000 Boy Scouts and 3,000 Girl Scouts sent up the roar. The boys and girls went to the royalty, bearing gifts.

Royalty Has Tea in British Embassy Gardens

Sovereigns Greet 1,500 at Party

EMBASSY, from Page 1.

ment, and his sister, Miss Jennie Moore; Pierpont Moffat, chief of the European division, State Department, and Mrs. Moffat; Gov. and Mrs. James H. Price, of Virginia, and Gov. and Mrs. Herbert O'Connor, of Maryland, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Davis were in the "portico contingent" that met Their Majesties before the latter descended the broad steps and mingled with the crowd in the garden.

Mrs. Moffat Curries

Still others awaiting the royal couple on the portico were representatives of Great Britain's dominions beyond the seas. The Minister of the Union of South Africa and Mrs. Ralph William Close were there; also, Lady Marler, wife of the Canadian Minister. Both Mrs. Close and Lady Marler made deep curtsies on being presented. Only one other in the entire group, Mrs. Moffat, did.

Under completely democratic circumstances and in a completely democratic manner, the other introductions were negotiated, and it all the men on the portico had not been turned out in cutaways and top hats and all the ladies in their flossiest finery, the get-together would have had all the car-marks of a usual garden party at the British Embassy.

While the King, who looks much younger than his photographs, and the Queen, who is twice as pretty as any of her pictures, mingled with their guests on the portico, others who had come to see them, stood silently, hopefully, watching every move. Many of the feminine eyes weighed Her Majesty's gown in the balance and found it more than satisfactory. Flounced and full, it was fashioned of white net with embroidered panels, edged with ruffles, and horizontal tucks giving it a quaint, Victorian effect.

Gown Touches Grass

Hanging in soft folds and touching the grass, it was set off with a sash, trimmed with a narrow band of embroidery and a ruffle. Tiny white buttons down the front panel, and three two-inch ruffles running around either side of the crinoline-effect skirt were other fashion accents on one of the prettiest frocks ever seen in Washington.

A wide-brimmed white hat, trimmed with embroidered net to match the dress and a bouquet of white blossoms on the front, was jauntily tilted over the Queen's dark hair, and she wore long white gloves and carried a white parasol.

The King in a superbly fitted dark cutaway with matching trousers was escorted through the gardens by the British Ambassador and several members of his entourage. The first person presented to him when he stepped onto the grass was Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. A handshake, a smile, a brief chat between the two—and the King moved on through a throng that crowded in close, sewed up the path behind him and followed on his heels.

Meanwhile, Her Majesty was making her tour in another direction under the aegis of Lady Lindsay and the latter's social secretary, Miss Irene Boyle. Bowing to right and left with every step, smiling, always smiling, she made her way slowly along the shaded walks—stopped frequently to chat with guests and completely won the hearts of everybody around.

Harris & Swine.

Queen Elizabeth and Lady Lindsay (foreground) are shown surrounded by crowd in the garden of the British Embassy yesterday, where 1,500 attended a garden party. The Queen wore a gown of white net, Victorian in effect. Lower—King George is shown having tea with J. Pierpont Morgan (right), financier.

The question of whether one should curtsy is still unsettled for many an onlooker not fortunate enough to be presented yesterday. Some did; more did not. Some bent the knee low; others barely dipped. A few shook hands, and the Queen seemed to like that best of all. The King extended his hand to virtually every person presented.

Very much a center of attention and one of the few persons not on the portico in the beginning who made his bow to both the King and the Queen was J. P. Morgan, who divided sartorial honors for the afternoon with James Roosevelt and the Rumanian Minister, Radu Irimescu.

Morgan Chats Longest

Morgan chatted longer in the garden with the Queen than any other presented. He had another chance to talk with her and with the King later on the portico when Their Majesties drank a cup of tea with a very select group.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, of New York, whose fondness for royalty is not exactly a secret, talked with the King for five minutes, fluttering her gold fan and smiling from ear to ear. He smoked a cigarette as they stood together in the sun, smiled only twice, and then moved on.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd was another who held His Majesty's attention longer than most of the others presented. Their chat lasted three minutes, and even then the King seemed unwilling to walk on.

Woodrings Presented
Others "lapped" for presentation to the British monarch included Secretary of War and Mrs. Woodring, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Aldrich, of New York; Miss Mabel Boardman, of Washington; Senator and Mrs. James J. Davis (the Senator also was presented to the Queen and was among the few chatting with the King over tea cups later); Senator and Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge; Justice and Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, and Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone.

Among those who were presented to the Queen were Mrs. Nicholas Longworth (Princess Alice), a girlhood friend of Lady Lindsay and one of the most popular persons at the party, who did not curtsy to the Queen but engaged her in animated conversation for almost two minutes.

Senator and Mrs. Peter Goetzl, of New York, and Mrs. Robert A. Taft, Senator and Mrs. Warren Barbour and Senator and Mrs. Millard Tydings also said "How do you do" to Her Majesty. Mrs. Tydings being the only Senator's wife in the group who bent a knee.

Still others presented to the Queen included Mrs. Ogden Reid, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Gen. Malin Craig, Army Chief of Staff, and Mrs. Craig; Admiral and Mrs. William D. Leahy; Mrs. Robert Low Bacon; Mr. and Mrs. Philip O. Coffin, and the latter's sister, Donna Julia Brambilla; Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Mr. and Mrs. James Clement Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Acheson, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Bingham and the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. George Messersmith.

A few drops of rain, probably approximating what Lady Lindsay terms "a nice Scotch mist," sent Their Majesties back to the portico and the crowd after them. But members of their entourage and the British Embassy staff politely but firmly invited the throng to step back, shower or no shower, while the royal couple and a few hotables had tea.

Seated with Her Majesty at first were Mrs. Garner and Mrs. Bingham. At the same time, a few paces away was the King and a coterie of notables, including the Vice President, who upon being presented earlier not only shook hands with His Majesty but also gave him a reassuring pat on the back.

Watching from the sweeping green lawn were hundreds eager to miss nothing of the royal scene and a number who were still in a glow from having spoken to Their Majesties. In the latter group was Representative Matthew A. Dunn of Pittsburgh, who with his blind wife and a couple of women escorting them had stepped forward to be presented to the Queen.

When Lady Lindsay hesitated on the introduction, he effected it himself, announced who he was and presented his wife and Mrs. Gertrude Booth and Mrs. Margaret McChesney, both of Pittsburgh.

Their tea-time over, their meeting and mingling with the hundreds of garden party guests finished, and their chats with a select few having drawn to a close, Their Majesties stepped once more to the center of the portico. The Queen waved to the crowd; the King bowed; and without further ceremony while the crowd cheered, they turned to leave the party by way of the embassy, as the white-helmeted band played "God Save the King."

Crowd Lingers

For half an hour longer, the crowd lingered in the garden, devoting attention for the first time to the 25,000 specially grown strawberries of uniform size that were ready to be served throughout the afternoon, and to the frappes, ice creams and fancy cakes, featured on the tempting menu served up beneath the marquee at the foot of the sloping lawn. Over glasses of sapphire punch, many a story of what the King did and said, and of comments from the Queen went the rounds.

Parade Yields 150 Tons Of Paper

Clean Up Brigade Does Record Job of Clearing Streets of Debris

District street cleaners had their biggest, fastest workout on record yesterday.

In the wake of the royal parade, and the thousands who saw it, 103 men, 18 trucks and 19 water tanks were rushed into Pennsylvania avenue, under direction of William Xanten, head of the District refuse division.

Out of the streets they gathered more than 150 tons of the paper which had floated down from office buildings in a welcoming "snow-storm" a few minutes earlier, and a collection of fruit baskets, butter tins and packing crates that had sold at "boom" prices in the morning.

Aided by a brief thunderstorm shortly after 1 p. m., the cleanup brigade pushed collection of the debris, and had the parade route cleared by mid-afternoon. Final cleaning touches by the water wagons were ordered for the evening.

Toasts: By King George And President Roosevelt

TOAST, from Page 1.

between all countries would rest upon a sure foundation, and men and women everywhere could once more look upon a happy, a prosperous and a peaceful world.

The King Is Toasted

May this kind of understanding between our countries grow ever closer, and may our friendship prosper. Ladies and gentlemen, we drink to the health of His Majesty, King George VI.

The King's response—

The visit which the Queen and I are paying you today is something which has been in our minds for many weeks, and if we have had our moments of anxiety they have served to make us realize how intensely we have been looking forward to the present occasion. I wish, therefore, in the first place to thank you for your kind invitation and for your still kinder welcome. We have been deeply touched by the manner in which Washington has already received us; and we expect to enjoy every minute of our remaining time in the United States.

From Canada which we have just left and whither we shall soon return, I bring you today the warm greetings of a neighbor and a trusted friend. From my other dominions, from the United Kingdom, and from all my empire I carry to you expressions of the utmost cordiality and good will. As I drink a toast to you, Mr. President, I wish you every possible health and happiness. I trust and believe that in years to come the history of the United States will continue to be marked by that ordered progress and by that prosperity which have been theirs in the past. And I pray that our great nations may ever in the future walk together along the path of friendship in a world of peace.

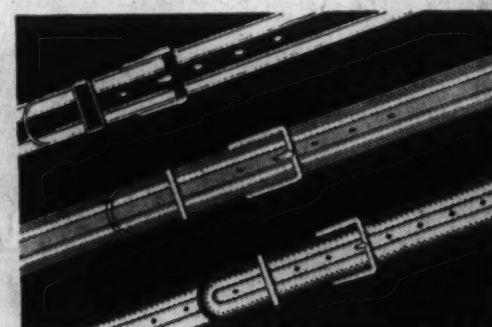

THE AIR-COOLED SUIT THAT WON'T GET THAT WILTED LOOK—IT RESISTS WRINKLES

IMPORTED
Coronado

Coronado is more than just a good-looking cool suit. Coronado will keep you as smart-looking at the end of the day as when you put it on. It's superbly tailored of an amazing British fabric that has a "frothy feel" and a resilient weave. It keeps you cool and immaculate, no matter how hot and humid the day. Correct models for business and sports in light or dark shades.

$29.75
Coat and Trousers

*Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Cool New Styling in New Effects in White Sports Belts
By HICKOK By PIONEER

Shown, Top to Bottom:—

Ventilated Belt, by Hickok.....$1
Pigskin on White Cowhide, by Pioneer..$1.50
Black-and-White Calf Belt, by Pioneer..$1.50

RALEIGH HABERDASHER

WASHINGTON'S FINEST MEN'S WEAR STORE

1310 F Street

START YOUR LESSONS IN JUNE AND SPEAK A FOREIGN LANGUAGE BY FALL

BERLITZ SUMMER COURSES
IN FRENCH GERMAN SPANISH

4 hours weekly $45
8 hours weekly $90
12 hours weekly $125
16 hours weekly $160
20 hours weekly $200
REGISTRATION FEE $10 (Valid 1 year)
CLASSES LIMITED TO 15 STUDENTS. S. A. R. 1939. 10% discount on courses paid by 2 weeks.

Enroll now!
• The famous direct "Berlitz Method," always successful.
• Is available only at the—
BERLITZ SCHOOLS OF LANGUAGES
1115 Conn. Ave., N.W. 0270

A good tip for your hat!

HAVE IT CLEANED AND BLOCKED AT ARCADE

Arcade is famous for its superior hat cleaning wherever well-dressed men and women gather—famous because Arcade employs the finest cleaning system known in the industry plus the same factory methods and equipment used in making the hat originally. Have your summer hat cleaned and blocked at Arcade—friends will think it's a new hat.

• Panama Hats Cleaned & Blocked, 75c
• Felt Hats Cleaned & Blocked, 50c

LINE PASSE 3000

ARCADE SUNSHINE

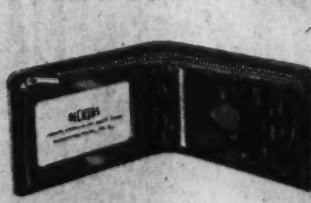

Washington's Complete Cleaning Institution

GILBEY'S
the GIN that made the Pickney famous

THE "INTERNATIONAL GIN" DISTILLED BY GILBEY IN THE U. S. A. AS WELL AS IN ENGLAND... CANADA... AUSTRALIA
90 Proof—made from 100% grain neutral spirits
National Distillers Products Corporation, N. Y. C.

1.50
Others $1 to $3.50

Man's top-grain cowhide fitted traveling kit in black or brown. Equipped with ten useful fittings.

5.00
Others $3 to $50

Completely
AIR COOLED

2.00
Others $1 to $10

One of these Becker bill-folds is sure to make a hit with the young man graduate. Choice of ostrich, seal, buffalo or goatskin with or without zipper.

3.00
Others $1 to $25

BECKERS
1314 F ST. N.W.

Roosevelt Grin Britain's Monarchs Ride to White House With Tank Escort

Breaks the Ice In Greeting

Says, 'At Last I Greet You;' King Replies, 'It Is, Indeed, a Pleasure'

Four friendly people in the state suite of Union Station yesterday made history with a smile and a handshake.

In the midst of the most formal and impressive reception ever staged by the United States, suitably marking the unique historical occasion of the only visit to these shores by a British ruling couple, King George and Queen Elizabeth stepped before the President and First Lady with the pomp and protocol of sovereignty banished by the famous Roosevelt grin.

Reassured, they stepped forward for the climax of their tour. The King, with a quiet, open smile, clasped the President's hand.

"At Last, I Greet You"

"Well," said the President, "at last I greet you."

The King replied, "It is, indeed, a great pleasure for Her Majesty and myself to be here."

His Majesty turned to Mrs. Roosevelt, smiled again, and shook hands with her and the President's aide, Col. Edwin Watson. The Queen then extended her hand to the President, Mrs. Roosevelt and Col. Watson.

The spontaneous informal interlude vanishing as quickly as it began, Their Majesties moved to the President's right, Mrs. Roosevelt to the Queen's right, and the dignified ceremonial presentations began.

Arrive On Dot

The royal couple reached Washington on the dot of 11 a. m. The train of blue and silver coaches, curtained in gold and bearing the royal lion and unicorn seal, had scarcely come to a stop when Secretary of State Hull and British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay dropped from a coach three cars behind the second coach carrying the sovereigns.

The royal entourage stepped to the platform, so brilliant in gold, crimson and blue uniforms that paled the King's sober admiral of the fleet uniform, blue with gold braid and fore-and-aft hat. The King, one of the last to reach the platform, was followed by the Queen, who stepped lightly into the broiling sun, looking cool in a pearl gray ensemble.

As Her Majesty's foot touched the ground, Marine drummers beat the traditional "ruffles" and the buglers blew "the colors." Queen Elizabeth moved her right arm in an open-handed gesture of entreaty, smiling uncertainly. In her left hand she carried an orchid bouquet.

Travel-weary Look

Conquering a dogged, travel-weary look on his face, the King gave a half-smile. As the procession, led by Hull and Sir Ronald, moved down the platform between the light lanes of Marines at present arms, the King waved three times to the station crowds.

Except for the roar of a blimp and a large transport plane buzzing overhead and the clicking of newspaper cameras, no sounds greeted Their Majesties. The 100 or more newspaper and radio men, photographers and official railroad families gave only an initial gasp of recognition and silently soaked up the realization that they had held ringside seats for the first round of an historic visit.

As the procession moved farther along down the concourse into view of the thousands who had jammed the station since 8 a. m., a mild burst of handclapping arose. But the crowd's reactions, too, were awestruck and intent.

Once into the state suite, newly decorated in blue and gold and banked elaborately with flowers, the British rulers were introduced by Secretary Hull, a pace behind them.

He said, "Mr. President, I have the honor to present their Britannic Majesties."

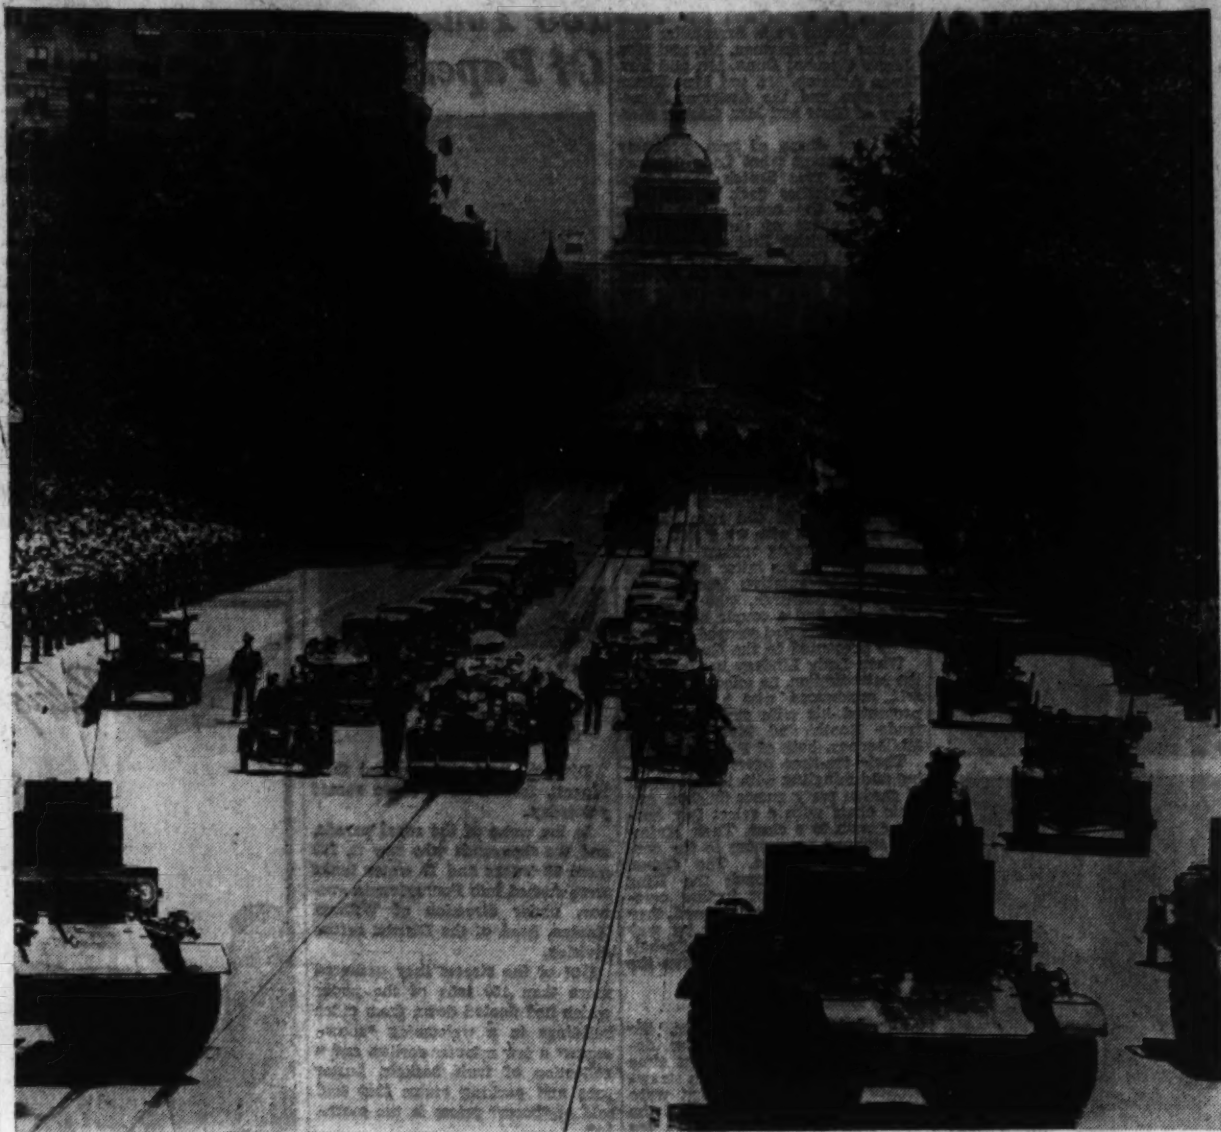

Guests Presented First

Earlier, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, plus the Cabinet and Cabinet wives, military officials and a few other notables had been ushered into state suite. The President, Mrs. Roosevelt and Col. Watson stood with their backs to a long mahogany table, covered with silver bowls of flowers. They faced the concourse entrance to the north.

First to be presented were the Vice President and Mrs. Garner, the Speaker and Mrs. Bankhead and the Cabinet and their wives, beginning with Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and continuing by rank to Commerce Secretary Hopkins and Secretary of Labor Perkins. Senator Pittman (Democrat), of Nevada, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Mrs. Pittman; Representative Sol Bloom (Democrat), of New York, acting chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and Mrs. Bloom followed. After them came the three commanders of the military forces. Illness prevented the scheduled presence of Chief Justice Hughes and Secretary of the Navy Swanson.

Sir Ronald, a picture of happy poise and obviously enjoying his day in the sun, next presented Lady Lindsay and the embassy staff. As the line filed by, Americans were given a first-hand demonstration of how the British greet their sovereigns. Shaking hands with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the staff bowed and curtsied, according to sex, to the royal couple.

Each movement was letter perfect, from the flat-forward thrust, of the palms, of the men, to the dainty crook of the toes of the curtsying ladies.

With the Capitol in the background, a symbol of democracy, rulers of a third of the world's peoples rode down Constitution and Pennsylvania avenues yesterday to the White House as a record-breaking crowd of Americans cheered approval. Heavily guarded car bearing King George and President Roosevelt is shown as it turned from the Avenue at Fifteenth street. Queen Elizabeth rode behind them in a car with Mrs. Roosevelt.

None of the American women, previously presented, had curtsied. The men had inclined slightly, but not in a full bow.

Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, who accompanied the royal couple with Mrs. King, presented Canadian Ambassador and Lady Marler. Sir Herbert Marler, in turn, presented his staff. Then the Minister of the Union of South Africa and the Minister of Ireland did the same. Finally, the King and Queen's entourage, so breath-takingly clad as to meet Sir Ronald's full approval, passed in line.

Only once during the ceremony was a slip-up noted, and that at the end and by the Queen. She started to make a right turn when Mrs. Roosevelt, touching her on the arm, led her to his left and out the main entrance of the state suite.

President Nervous

Suddenly the Navy Band struck up "God Save the King" and followed it with "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The King and those in uniform saluted, the others stood at attention.

Calmer of the group was the King. The President, however, was obviously nervous and Queen Elizabeth blinked rapidly during the anthems, lifting her hand to wipe her eyes. She was visibly affected.

After the music died away, the party stepped forward to the curb, to be greeted by the thunder of the 21-gun salute and the frantic clicking of hundreds of camera shutters.

When the President's car rolled up, Mr. Roosevelt preceded his guest, although the Queen entered the second automobile before Mrs. Roosevelt. All four sat on linen cushions, with light linen blankets over their knees. That for the Queen was a Scottish tartan.

Almost Saf on His Hat

greatest nations on earth stepped into the car, they had agreed to dispense with the solemnity that the occasion seemed to demand, and appeared to be joking with each other midway through the French 73's volleys.

When the Chief Executive entered his car, he almost sat on his top hat, which had been a chronic nuisance to him ever since the reception began. He whipped it out and put it on his head. The King grinned and climbed in.

In the car behind, the Queen took one wide-eyed look at Washington sunshine and opened her gray silk parasol. As she did, the crowd made an end to quiet oh's and ah's and for the first time burst into a full-throated roar of laughing approval.

Roosevelt, King Pledge Peace

KING, from Page 1.

Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. Chief Justice Hughes, who would have ranked the British Ambassador in precedent had he been there, was absent because of illness.

Toasts, of course, went back and forth across the board. The King, not so free to express what he thinks as an American President might be, responded to the President's toast with brief and courteous formality.

"And I pray," responded the King, the glass in his hand tossing back a million lights from the great chandeliers, "that our great nations may ever in the future walk together along the path of friendship in a world of peace."

Proposing the toast, the President expressed appreciation for "the bonds of friendship that link our two peoples."

"It is because each nation is lacking in fear of each other," the President said, "that we have unforgotten borders between us. It is because neither of us fears aggression on the part of the other that we have entered no race of armaments, the one against the other."

Full Guest List

The guest list included besides the King and Queen: H. E. the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

H. E. the British Ambassador and the Hon. Lady Lindsay. The Lady Nunburnholme. The Lady Katharine Seymour. The Earl of Eldon. The Earl of Airlee. Capt. Alan Lascelles.

Surg. Capt. Henry White, R. N. George F. Steward. Capt. Michael Adeney. Lieut. Col. the Hon. Piers W. Leigh. Commander E. M. C. Abel-Smith, R. N.

A. D. P. Heeney. The Vice President and Mrs. Garner.

Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

The Speaker and Mrs. Bankhead. The Secretary of State and Mrs. Hull.

The Minister of the Union of South Africa and Mrs. Cloze. Lady Marler.

The Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Morgenthau. The Secretary of War and Mrs. Woodring.

The Attorney General. The Postmaster General and Mrs. Farley.

Mrs. Claude A. Swanson. The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ickes.

The Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Wallace.

The Secretary of Commerce. The Secretary of Labor.

Senator and Mrs. Key Pittman. Senator and Mrs. William E. Borah.

Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom. Mrs. Sam D. McReynolds.

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers. Gen. and Mrs. Malin Craig.

Admiral and Mrs. William D. Leahy.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas Holcomb. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen T. Early.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Edwin M. Watson. Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Welles.

Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum. Rear Admiral James O. Richardson.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Ross T. McIntire.

Capt. Daniel J. Callaghan. George T. Summerlin. Miss Marguerite LeHand. Frederic A. Delano.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parish. G. Hall Roosevelt.

Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr.

Miss Malvina C. Thompson. Mrs. James Meredith Helm.

From the standpoint of crowds, the trip over the Canadian-American border meant no let-down in the history-making royal tour. Always in Canada Their Majesties arrived in a town or city to find its population swelled to unprecedented proportions, and so it was here.

Crowds Are Friendly

In Canada the King and Queen could look out and see men and women with tears in their eyes—the kind of happy tears that one sees at a wedding. But up there they were moving among loyal subjects, men and women who saw in them all that an American sees in the Stars and Stripes.

The crowds here were friendly, and after they had seen the British sovereigns pass by—he in his admiral's uniform saluting, and she waving from beneath her parasol—they appeared to be even more friendly.

"That's right, she's certainly prettier than her pictures," spectators could be heard to remark along the route of the parade.

The magnificence of the King's uniform, with its gold braid and the great array of decorations, also caused some eye-popping along the crowd-packed lane.

After the presentations at Union Station, after the booming of the 21-gun salute and the playing of the national anthems, the President and the King on the one hand, and Mrs. Roosevelt and the Queen on the other chatted amiably before the drive over the flag-lined parade route.

One delightful touch, showing the effect of palace training and man's ability to forget himself in devotion to his job, came just before the parade started.

The Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt had just taken their seats in the big White House limousine when one of Their Majesties' footmen stepped forward and placed a blanket over their knees.

Riding in an open car from Union Station towards the great-domed Capitol, the President and the King-Emperor—followed in another car by Mrs. Roosevelt and the Queen—saw the first target of British torches in the War of 1812.

A mile further west, amid the serenity of oaks and elms and magnolias, they came to the mansion that was to shelter the first British sovereigns ever to visit the New World, a mansion that has been painted white ever since the Red Coats burned it in that same war, and sent Dolly Madison scurrying into Virginia with the silver plate and George Washington's portrait.

They Talk of Ships

In that mansion last night, after the great horseshoe table had been cleared and the guests were gone, King George must have had one of the best chats of his North American tour. He is a sailor, a veteran of the Battle of Jutland, and President is a man who wanted to be a sailor and became commander in chief of all the armed forces.

Once, in 1917, after he had crossed the Atlantic in a destroyer, President Roosevelt, then Assistant Secretary of the Navy, made a call on King George V, who also was a sailor King. The visit was supposed to last five minutes. They got to talking about ships and blue water, however, and it lasted nearly an hour.

That was one story that George VI must have heard last night.

PALM BEACH

NEW 1939 EDITIONS

Whites... Solar Weaves... Airtones... Bowsters... Shark-weaves...

you'll find them all at LEVITAN'S—in your size. Smart new fabrics for business and evening. New 36-ounce weights for sports.

$15.50

PALM BEACH BLAZES.....$4.75

Dollars Less in Price. Dollars More in Value.

Levitan's

Men's Wear

3044 14th St. N.W. Whatever a Gentleman Wears—It's Here!

Learn to say FLEISCHMANN'S—that's the spirit!

THE way to be sure you get the best gin in your gin drinks is to ask for it. Learn to say Fleischmann's. It's extra dry.

Distilled from American Grain. 90 Proof. Fleischmann's Sloe Gin gives added zest and color to your long cool sloe gin fixes and rickys. 65 Proof. Copyright 1939, The Fleischmann Distilling Corporation, Peekskill, N. Y.

AMERICAN FIRST GIN IS EXTRA DRY NOT SWEET

You'll have.... SMOOTH SAILING

In Selling Waterfront Properties If You Use Post Want Ads!

Real estate brokers as well as individual owners of Waterfront Property find that it pays to advertise in The Post. Hundreds of Post readers are looking for Waterfront Property, so our advice to you is to advertise at once... you'll be amazed at the results, and for proof read the result story below.

Sold on One Insertion

MUST BE SOLD! FIVE-ROOM cottage on a wooded waterfront lot; nice shade; attractive; fully furnished; 24-ft. power boat, 14-ft. sail boat, entire lot, $1,800; $200 cash, $150 monthly. To see—see by Routes 5 and 3 via Waldorf and Le Fila to Oak Island. See Resident Agent, Andrew Morris, on the island. THE MARYLAND REALTY 915 Tenth St. N.W. NA. 9085

Maryland Realty Investment Trust, Inc., sold a $2,300 piece of Waterfront Property with only one insertion of the ad. Interested prospects continued to inquire about the property long after it had been sold... proof that advertising in The Post really pays.

REGAL Cleaning Renews your RUG!

HERE'S A LIFE-SAVER FOR YOUR DIRTY RUGS!

And it's also a life-saver for yourself... because Regal's modern scientific method gives you your rugs a new lease on life and sweeps away the drudgery of beating and sweeping. Learn now that expert rug-cleaning can be as safe as well as economical... at Regal! Rugs are glued when necessary, and both the base and the nap are cleaned. Store your rugs safely at Regal's very reasonable rates.

PHONE NATIONAL 6171 6172-6173 AND 6174 For FREE Estimates

REGAL Rug Cleaners ONE OF THE LARGEST PLANTS IN THE EAST!

8 IS GOOD 10 IS BETTER

MARTIN'S V.V.O. 10 year old Scotch

Mellow • Richer • Smoother

Don't short change yourself on age ask for Martin's V.V.O.

MARTIN'S V.V.O. BLENDED SCOTCH WHISKY

100% SCOTCH WHISKY. BOTTLED IN SCOTLAND. IMPORTED BY HUSSEIN & BROS., INC., N. Y. C.

KENTUCKY'S BEST BOURBON

BOTTLED IN BOND QUALITY REVEALS

OLD FITZGERALD

KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKY 100 PROOF

BOTTLED AND BOTTLED BY STITZEL WELLS DISTILLERY CHICAGO, ILL.

Distributors: WY-MA BOTTLING CO., WASH., D. C.

Sidelights Of Capital's Epochal Day

Queen Reneges, Wears
Sheer Suit; First Lady
Sweaters in Wool

SIDELIGHTS, from Page 1.

Things began to happen. Apparently for the benefit of photographers aboard, the blimp was hovering over the plaza when the bomber appeared and started a series of maneuvers which evidently meant "Scram!" And "Scram!" it did—with the bomber in close pursuit.

One of the workmen assigned to roping off streets had forethought enough to provide himself with a bit of cold water. It was in a pall secreted (or so he thought) behind a tool shed. On his second trip for a dipper full, he found a line of nearly two-dozen persons and the bucket almost empty.

English and Canadian newspapermen, covering the royal arrival, expected more yelling, but were much impressed by the airplane display.

Lady Lindsay, the first member of the official and diplomatic set to arrive at the station, walked nervously up and down the entrance-way. She could not keep her eyes from the sky, and her thoughts were on the afternoon's garden party. It was observed that her fingers were crossed.

Queen Elizabeth, by using a parasol, crossed up people who had paid as high as $100 for a window seat to watch the parade. Persons standing in the street could see her well; those above saw the top of the parasol.

Never has a special train been so carefully guarded as was Their Majesties' coaches. From Buffalo to Washington stretched a line of 180,000 police and secret service men. They were stationed all night in the right of way 20 feet apart.

A special "United States" number of the London Times went on sale in this country yesterday, in observation of the royal visit. About 50,000 copies of the 32-page edition were sent here.

The House of Representatives decided to stay in session yesterday when Majority Leader Rayburn announced that "not enough members were called away" to warrant quitting early. The Republican leader, Representative Martin, replied, "So few Republicans were called away, I think we can keep a quorum."

Periscopes, which received their first wholesale introduction at the coronation of King George VI, were seen in Washington in large numbers for the first time yesterday. Advertising a brand of whisky, the supply disappeared as fast as the distributor could get them to the street. Some provident spectators had made their own of two pocket mirrors and a teakling stick.

The royal baggage—enough to fill four electric station platform trucks—was delivered to the White House less than 15 minutes after Their Majesties themselves. The truck into which the trunks and handbags were loaded was brought from the station to the Executive Mansion by a police escort, sirens screaming.

Americans wouldn't change jobs with the King of England if their life depended on it, to judge from comments overheard in yesterday's crowd. Even the police guarding the parade route preferred their own monotonous jobs. "The King has to go through this all the time. I'll bet it bores him to death," one of them sympathized.

Reporters who have been dogging Their Majesties throughout Canada, came into Union Station yesterday to learn that for the first time during the tour the royal train had preceded them into the station. The pilot train, on which correspondents rode, was held up for an hour and a half at Montgomery, Pa., at 4 a. m. yesterday by a "hot box" on one of the coaches.

American women need not curtsy to the King and Queen. If, instead, they give Their Majesties an old-fashioned handshake, they will be in the good company of Mrs. Roosevelt, who declined to bend her knee, but extended her hand instead when she met the King and Queen.

Long before the dawn's first light slanted its shadows over the Capitol dome, eight comely girls seated themselves on the cold, gray granite in front of Alexander Robey's statue at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue. The girls had painstakingly saved the proceeds of candy sales and amateur theatricals to finance their trip from Maryville, Tenn.

As far as railroad men are concerned, one pilot train is as good as another. When the regular pilot, carrying correspondents of the royal tour, was put out of commission, an emergency pilot went into service immediately and ran over the rails ahead of their Majesties' de luxe special just in case some one had mislaid a bomb.

As the royal party entered the White House, one of the first objects to catch the monarch's eye was the Stewart painting of George Washington, bearing the inscription: "This is the portrait saved by Mrs. Madison in 1814" when the British burned the White House.

Jerram, the King's valet, is sighing with relief during the four-day visit of his "gentleman" to the United States. One of Jerram's weightiest chores is to affix the King's decorations from foreign countries in just exactly the right spot on his chest—shifting from country to country—so that sticklers for form will find no "misfit." The United States gives no decorations to foreign rulers. Therefore, Jerram can't possibly cause a diplomatic "incident."

The manner in which the Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt answered the glaudits of the crowd formed an amusing contrast. The Queen made a slight backward motion with her right hand, palm extended upward—the epitome of queenly dignity.

Too Much Excitement for Her

Heat, plus excitement, plus crowd equaled a formula for faint and proved too much yesterday for this young woman who went with thousands to see the King. A nurse and spectators came to her aid in the park on Pennsylvania avenue, near Fifteenth street northwest.

Heat Fells Many Greeting Royalty

CASUALTIES, from Page 1.

Eight million school children, members of the Junior Red Cross throughout the United States, sent greetings to Queen Elizabeth in the form of a bouquet, made of white carnations with a red cross in the center made of red carnations.

A cab driver made $6 yesterday morning without moving his cab from its accustomed spot in the back stand in front of the postoffice at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue. Six men paid him $1 apiece to take the cushions from the seats, place them on the cab's roof and sit there to view the parade.

A first-aid tent was set up adjacent to the Capitol Plaza, with a Naval Hospital doctor and nurse in attendance. About half a dozen women and girls were treated for a combination of ailments—partly heat, partly excitement and lack of breakfast. And then there were two babies whose diapers had to be changed.

For the first time that can be remembered by old timers at police headquarters, the daily roll call and line-up were canceled yesterday. Detective Chief Bernard W. Thompson called it off because of the large details of men assigned to guard the King and Queen.

The presence of nearly 2,000 policemen and firemen, enough to place one on every 10 feet of space on Pennsylvania avenue, failed to halt the activity of pickpockets yesterday at the royal reception. Two men reported their wallets removed from their pockets while watching the parade.

Out of 750,000 spectators at yesterday's celebration for the King and Queen, only one aroused police suspicion enough to be arrested. He was a 21-year-old colored man who was taken into custody by Precinct Detective Irving Lubore at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He was booked for investigation after failing to give a suitable account of himself.

Assisting Coroner MacDonald, Dr. Roy Lymen Seaton, chairman of the first-aid division of the Red Cross; Dr. John Everett, Dr. H. C. House and Dr. W. P. McNeill, Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts numbering about 75 acted as stretcher bearers.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, whose last big chore before his retirement is the royal visit, had a job after his own heart yesterday in stage managing affairs in the Union Station State Suite presentation. One official, describing him, was at a loss for words—"He was cock-of-the-walk, he-he-he positively glowed!"

Newspaper Women To Meet Queen At White House

Newspaper women attending Mrs. Roosevelt's press conference at the White House at 9:30 a. m. today will be presented to Queen Elizabeth, the First Lady announced yesterday.

The Queen's first face-to-face encounter with reporters in America will take place in the Green Room on the main floor of the Executive Mansion, where there is standing room for at least 200.

Reporters, both men and women, will be received at Hyde Park, N. Y., by Mrs. Roosevelt at 2:15 p. m. Saturday. The First Lady said she would conduct a press tour of the first floor and grounds of the President's home before showing the picnic grove where Their Majesties will eat holidays.

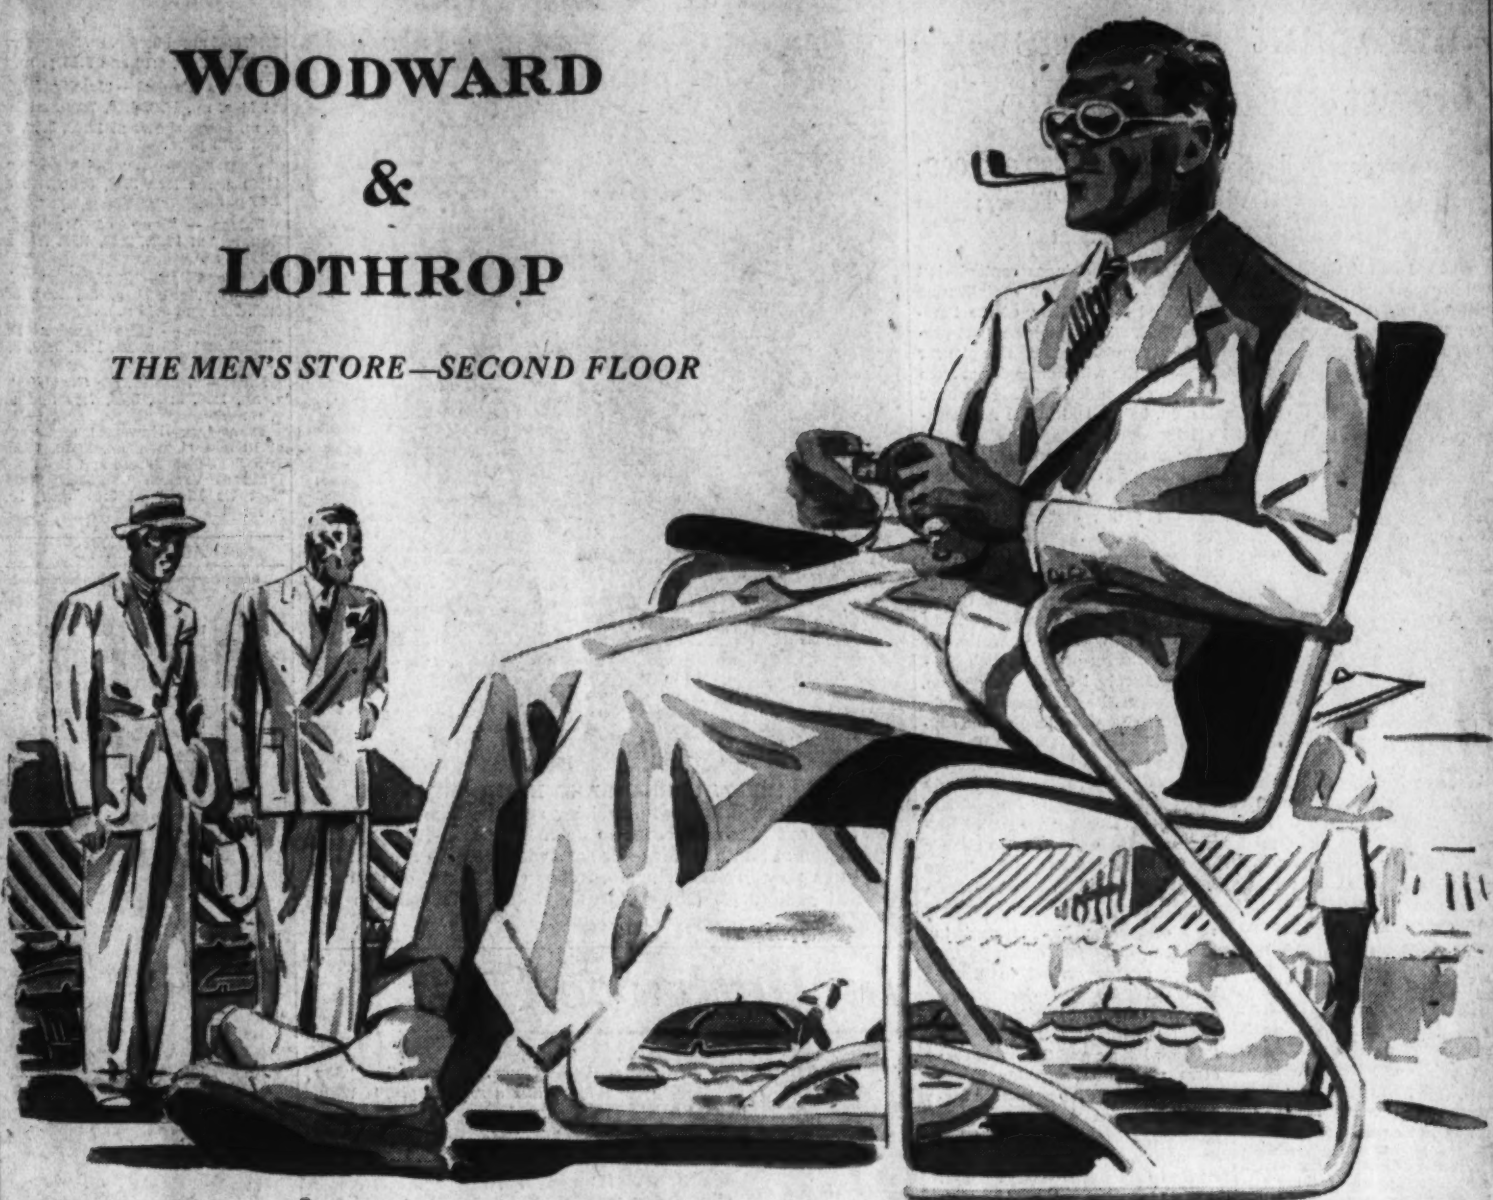

Mrs. McLean Opens Walsh Mansion For Royal Visitors

Halls which once resounded to the gayest of Capital social gatherings echoed again to laughter and party chatter yesterday when the famed old Walsh mansion at 2020 Massachusetts avenue was opened in honor of the visiting King and Queen.

Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, present owner of the house, played hostess to a group of friends invited to catch a fleeting glimpse of the royal party as it sped past, en route to the British Embassy. It was in this famous old mansion, built by the late Tom Walsh, "gold" millionaire of the last century, that Vice President and Mrs. Marshall entertained King Albert of Belgium and his Queen, Elizabeth, when they visited here in 1919. President Wilson was ill at the time and the Walsh house was loaned to Vice President Marshall for the reception.

WOODWARD & LOTHROP

THE MEN'S STORE—SECOND FLOOR

Cool, Smart, White

—for a man's cooler, smarter appearance all Summer long. The Men's Store paints a picture in white that will keep you cool mentally as well as physically... with a well-dressed comfort that makes a difference.

Hickok White Cowhide Belts—narrower in width in keeping with the trend toward greater comfort. Easily cleaned. Enameled buckle. $1.50

Other Summer Belts, $1 to $2.50

Light-colored Neckties in refreshing stripes and pleasing checks. Cool—washable—crease-resistant. All-cotton and wool mixtures. $1

Woodolothian White Shirts are cool and correct for all wear all Summer long. Fine high-count cotton broadcloth with easy-fitting "Parkwood" collar or neckband style. $2.50

Other White Shirts, $2 to $3.50

White Silk Socks spell foot-covering comfort when pavements and offices grow warm. Lisle top and sole for longer wear. Pair. 75c

Other White Silk Socks, 50c to $1

Osteo-path-ik White Shoes—"bare-foot" freedom and comfort from the very first, due to their flexible, nailless construction. The "Gothic"—white bucks in Oxford in medium toe style... $8.50

Cool White Palm Beach Suits have added smartness this year in the new fit of the collar and a new natural drape and set across the shoulders never before achieved in a washable Summer suit. Hard to wrinkle... sheds dirt... washes and dry cleans readily. Add to this new styles $15.50 and a new, lower price.

White Gabardine Suits are designed especially for men who like the style details and tailored fit of a slightly heavier-weight yet none-the-less comfortable suit for Summer. The coat worn with odd slacks makes a decidedly smart combination for informal Summer evenings. Two pieces $35

Ecuadorian Supernatural Panama Hat is the answer to lightweight head comfort from the sun's strong rays—the answer to the smartest thing to wear all Summer... $10

Other Panama Hats, $3.85 to $25

White Palm Beach for Younger Men—ages 18 to 22—with all the styling and fit of Dad's Palm Beach suits. The only differences lie in the sizes and in the price... $14.50

STUDENTS' CLOTHING, SECOND FLOOR.

National University Law School

Summer Term Begins June 15, 1939, at 6:30 P. M. Standard three-year course leading to degrees of LL.B. and J. D. Graduate course leading to degrees of LL.M., M. P. I. and S. J. D. All classes held at hours convenient for employed students.

School of Economics and Government

Degree courses of collegiate grade offered in Political Science, Government, Economics, Psychology, History, Finance, Statistics and Languages. Courses in Accounting.

Address Secretary NATIONAL 5617 212 1241 St. N.W.

Nelson B. Bell About the Showshops

Paramount Plans Its Biggest Year to Date

Production Budget Approximates $30,000,000;
Pictures of Royal Visit on Screens Today;
News Notes and Gossip of the Theater

A NOT SO VERY CONFIDENTIAL wire of voluminous content—but one which could not be released until this morning without "complicating my peasant life"—comes from our old friend Rufus Blair, of the Paramount publicity department on the West Coast, announcing the most pretentious production schedule for 1939-1940 ever undertaken by this pioneer company in the whole period of its existence. The wire comes direct from the annual sales convention of Paramount's world organization, being held in the Ambassador Hotel in Hollywood.

The plans for the ensuing production year embrace 38 feature pictures, 33 short subjects and 104 issues of the Paramount News. The tentative budget for this elaborate program approximates $30,000,000.

There are many items of high promise in the list of feature productions which Mr. Blair discloses in his Zigfieldian telegram, which runs four large pages in length. Prominent among them are "Beau Geste," William A. Wellman's remake of the famous story of the French Foreign Legion by Sir Percival Christopher Wren, co-starring Gary Cooper, Ray Milland and Robert Preston, with Brian Donlevy leading the support; "Jamaica Inn," starring Charles Laughton; "Geronimo," epic story of Apache depredation; "The Sign of the Cross," starring Helen Parrish and Nan Grey, two of Hollywood's most promising starlets, take advantage of time out between scenes to do a little leap-frogging on the beach at Santa Monica—or somewhere. Both are cast in pictures now in production—apropos of nothing, of course, except yesterday's temperatures and the universal yen to go swimmin'.

reel companies have turned in another job of fast action in the matter of the arrival in Washington of Their Majesties, the King and Queen of Britain. With definite assurance that Loew's Capitol, Palace and Columbia theaters will have complete newsreel coverage of yesterday's historic events on their screens this morning, I assume that the other downtown, first-run houses will similarly display the colorful events in their entirety—or almost. This even extends to the Mount Vernon, open-air, automobile theater, on the Richmond highway below Alexandria, where, Manager Shapiro assures me, the pictures of the royal reception also will be shown.

Announcement is made that the Earle Theater will open its doors this morning at the unearthly hour of 9:30 a. m., with the first showing of "Juarez," co-starring Paul Muni and Bette Davis, with Brian Aherne, leading the support, at 10. Owing to the length of the feature, early openings at the Earle will be the rule throughout the ensuing week. So now you know.

Following a succession of "name" bands that have lent luster to the week-end cruises of the S. S. Potomac, it won't be long now until the Potomac Nite Hawks will take up their regular stand on the rostrum and toot pretty tunes for the dancers. They will, as a matter of fact, succeed Johnny Johnson and his boys on the bandstand. The Nite Hawks, from time to time, will be relieved for special cruises by other "name" bands, such as Artie Shaw's, Paul Whiteman's, Fats Waller's, Sammy Kaye's and the many others that already have attracted attention to these moonlight sails on the Potomac—meaning both the river and the boat.

It seems that there has to be a cat or no "barn theater" season can be a success. One crawled up onto the stage at the Cross Roads Theater on opening night, scratched its ear with its hind foot and then made a graceful exit. Out at the Roadside, opening next Monday night with "The Pioneer's Daughter," there also is a tabby, who prowls all over the place and is apt to join the cast on stage any time. This one even went so far as to have a litter of kittens on the premises last year. There may be a dozen cats at the Roadside on Monday night—which might complicate things just a bit. These feline actors and actresses don't know it, but they are great unconscious comedians.

Pat-on-the-Bank Note
Congratulations, Mr. Weather Man. You did a grand job yesterday—all but the temperatures.

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

Yesterday Was a Fine Day for It!

HELEN PARRISH AND NAN GREY,

two of Hollywood's most promising starlets, take advantage of time out between scenes to do a little leap-frogging on the beach at Santa Monica—or somewhere. Both are cast in pictures now in production—apropos of nothing, of course, except yesterday's temperatures and the universal yen to go swimmin'.

In Hollywood

With Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Calif., June 8.—George O'Brien says you can streamline any kind of picture except a Western. The formula's just the same—wild, open spaces, where men are men. You can get by with a stagecoach, but they want no part of automobiles. Our Western cycle has kind of let up, while we go into a rash of doctor pictures, which started rolling with "Men in White."

HOPPER

Then "Yellow Jack," "Pastor," "Magnificent Obsession," "Dr. Critterhouse," gave it a new lease on life. Now we've had "Dark Victory," "The Citadel," "Pacific Liner," "Dr. Kildare," "Uncover Doctor," "Secrets of a Nurse," "Disputed Passage" and "Dr. Erlich." This is truly the Sorbonne era, reeking of disinfected. And just as hard to figure out when the phase will be over as a brain tumor.

George Raft could have killed the fan who ran out to him when he was tied up in a traffic snarl and asked for his autograph. No, kiddies, that's not the way to get 'em.

And George is so good in "Each Dawn I Die" that Warner's have given him two new scripts to read. That studio's also bought two of Errol Flynn's shorts. The one about shooting sharks with a bow and arrow is a killer diller!

Ingrid Bergman couldn't understand why people called her a "Cinderella Girl." She'd never heard about the glass slipper. She's a beauty, and, "m told, has great talent. And don't you love

Pat-on-the-Bank Note
Congratulations, Mr. Weather Man. You did a grand job yesterday—all but the temperatures.

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

AMUSEMENTS
TONIGHT, 8:00 P. M.
PIANO RECITAL
by students under
GLENN CAROW
Guest Artist, Fills Cole
Featured in the Saint-Saens Concerto
will be the 9-year-old prodigy
PREBLE EARLE DONOHUE
Barker Hall
Y. W. C. A.
1711 14th St. N.W.
ADMISSION FREE

Film Table

Earle—"Juarez," at 10 a. m., 12:30, 3:30, 6:45 and 9:45 p. m. Stage shows at 12:15, 3:15, 6:10 and 9:05 p. m.
Loew's Capitol—"Lucky Night," at 11 a. m., 1:30, 4:40, 7:30 and 10:30 p. m. Stage shows at 12:40, 3:30, 6:30 and 9:10 p. m.
RKO-Keith's—"The Mikado," at 11:40 a. m., 1:40, 3:40, 5:40, 7:40 and 9:40 p. m.
Palace—"Rose of Washington Square," at 12:20, 2:40, 4:35, 7:15 and 9:35 p. m.
Metropolitan—"Confessions of a Nazi Spy," at 11 a. m., 1:05, 3:15, 5:25, 7:35 and 9:45 p. m.
Columbia—"The Hardys Ride High," at 11:45 a. m., 1:45, 3:30, 5:50, 7:50 and 9:50 p. m.
Little—"Victoria, the Great," at 11 a. m., 1:05, 3:15, 5:25, 7:30 and 9:40 p. m.
Trans-Lux-Newreel and shorts at 10 and 11:45 a. m., 12:30, 1:45, 3, 4:15, 5:30, 6:45, 8, 9:15 and 10:45 p. m.
Mount Vernon (Auto Theater)—"Let Us Live," at 8:40 and 10:50 p. m.

AMUSEMENTS

Tivoli—"Mutiny on the Bounty," at 1:25, 4:55, 8:45 and 9:30 p. m.
Ambassador—"Juarez," at 1:25, 4, 6:40 and 9:30 p. m.
Uptown—"Mutiny on the Bounty," at 1:25, 4:55, 8:45 and 9:30 p. m.
Calvert—"Society House," at 1, 2:40, 4:20, 6:05, 8 and 9:55 p. m.

AMUSEMENTS
NOW KEITH'S
2ND WEEK...!
GILBERT & SULLIVAN'S THE MIKADO
IN TECHNICOLOR
D'OLY GARTY PLAYERS and KENNY BAKER ADDED
DONALD'S COUSIN GUS
Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. • Basil Rathbone in "The Sun Never Sets"

Louise's New Role

Brunette Louise Campbell, in real life the bride of Horace MacMahon, last week was playing the role of Bing Crosby's bride in the new Charles R. Rogers production of "The Star Maker."

AMUSEMENTS
TRANS-LUX
Short Subjects
Specialty Short Subjects

Confessions of a NAZI SPY

EDW. G. ROBINSON

HERE IS EXCITEMENT-PACKED DRAMA! HERE IS FREEDOM'S MIGHTIEST!

Here is blazing history written in the life-blood of a great nation! Here is strange conflict between a man without mercy and a woman tortured by love! Here is pomp, romance, struggle, glory, magnificently welded by Warner Bros. into stirring entertainment never approached by the screen before!

NEVER AN ACHIEVEMENT LIKE THIS!
NEVER A PERFORMANCE LIKE THEIRS!

MUNI DAVIS IN JUAREZ

A story so momentous that it required six Academy Award winners and 1186 supporting players, including
BRIAN AHERNE
CLAUDE RAINS • JOHN GARFIELD • DONALD CRISP
Joseph Calleia • Gale Sondergaard • Gilbert Roland • Henry O'Neill
DIRECTED BY WILLIAM DIETERLE

Screen Play by John Huston, Anson MacKintosh and Wolfgang Reinhardt • Based on a Play by Franz Werfel and the Novel, "The Phantom Crown," by Bertha Harding.
Music by Erich Wolfgang Korngold.

SEE IT NOW! YOU'LL REMEMBER IT ALWAYS!

Starts TODAY on Stage
"Summer Souvenirs"

Warner Bros. EARLE

'Rose' Wins a Second Week At the Palace

Reminiscent Musical Stars Power, Faye And Al Jolson

Like looking at some photographs of only a few years ago and hearing a couple of experiences today, the group about the Palace, the drinking days in "Rose of Washington Square," the Al Jolson-Allice-Faye-Tyrone Power film now in its second week at the Palace. From either hearsay or practical experience, you feel at home in the 1920 atmosphere of this place, when Al Jolson was singing "Mammy," when Fannie Brice chanted "My Man," and when Washington Square was in its heyday as Bohemia's American capital. It is a backstage story of hope and heartbreak and typical of the time. Al is a candy salesman in a third-rate theater trying the amateur nights for a chance at the big-time and Allice is his weary partner. They just don't seem to get the breaks. When Allice whips off to the country for a change, Al gets his big chance and makes the grade. When he is at the top, but Allice has fallen for a good-looking young fellow who is something of a parasite. And when she beats her way to success, the handsome fellow is there to pull her down. Familiar it is, but it is human as well.

Al Jolson Scores

The Jolson pipes are certainly not dimmed by time and it is a treat to see the old master put over a song, blackface and white gloves, bringing down the house. That the Faye girl is what the twentieth century "looker," everyone knows and her singing of "Rose of Washington Square" is in the accepted torch tradition.

And now a word for Tyrone Power. This young man has been widely trounced for much of his screen work, but his playing as the genial crook in "Rose" could scarcely be improved upon. It is a surprise to play a young fellow, with a baby face, perhaps, but with a weak and undesirable character; the sort of fellow whom some managers to love, even though they may not be worth it. Mr. Power gets the idea across.

"Rockabye Your Baby to a Dixie Melody," "Pretti Baby," "The Vamp" and "Ja-Da" are some of the songs that will titillate you and the scene of a Sunday night at the Winter Garden will bring back memories in a picture called "The Central Appeal" on a past that most of today's film-goers remember. William Frawley, Joyce Compton, Hobart Cavanaugh, Moroni Olsen and E. E. Clive are some of the more noted of the supporting cast and the Palace also continues its "Crime Does Not Pay" release. "Money to Burn," a colorful travelogue on central Europe, "Rural Hungary."

RKO-Keith's

"The Mikado" has done it again. In its latest incarnation, the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta began its second week at RKO-Keith's yesterday.

Best indication of the cinema "Mikado" success is the reaction of its audiences. When the filmgoer bothers to applaud a shadow play, there must be a reason for it. The excellence of this film's music recording seems to be one of its most effective qualities, with the cast and chorus largely filled from the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company and the London Symphony Orchestra playing the score, which the D'Oyly Carte group has the only authorized edition.

As is to be expected with the film version of any stage piece, there are some innovations in this tradition-haunted favorite. While the orchestra plays the rather lengthy overture, the camera is introducing the audience to Tiliptu. When Nanki-Poo sings "A Wonderful Minstrel," he sings it wandering about the town, paying his respects to a pair of lovers when he chants "If You're in Sentimental Mood" and hailing with a "Song of the Sea," some shore leave fellows, whose nets indicate they are sailors. When Ko-Ko remembers "Titi Willow," he sings not only to Kallista, but to a spreading willow and a Japanese brook. The alliance of sight with sound is charmingly made, with continual motion accenting the difference between the stage and screen versions.

Leads Admirably Played

Kenny Baker, of the American ether-lanes, is a surprisingly good Nanki-Poo, his tenor being light and limpid for the smooth-flowing Sullivan melodies. Two very familiar Savoyards re-created their noted Ko-Ko and Nanki-Poo for the screen. As the ward of Yum-Yum, Martyn Green prances about quite as he does on the stage, wiggling his toes, and as the pompous Poo-Bah, Sidney Granville rolls his bass notes with dignified relish. Jean Colin is the Yum-Yum and is particularly effective in the "Madrigal," one of the musical highlights of the film, and of the original work.

Technicolor adds much to the new brightness the old favorite achieves and if there is no "Little Live" patter or no "There Is Beauty in the Bellow of the Blast" in the piece, the reason must be that, were the entire work screened, it would be entirely too long for its new medium.

Keith's also continues its short on the U. S. Marines, "Soldiers of the Sea," and Walt Disney's latest trouble maker for por Donald Duck, "Donald's Cousin Gus," making this bright and merry bit one that will delight any filmgoer.

Sen. Brown to Talk To Law Graduates

Senator Brown (Democrat), of Michigan, will speak at commencement exercises for 187 members of the graduating class at Washington College of Law, at 11 tonight in Memorial Continental Hall. Henry A. Schweinhaut, special assistant to the Attorney General and member of the faculty, will award diplomas, and the Rev. George J. Greenow, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, Arlington, will give the invocation and benediction. Leigh E. Sanford is chairman of the reception committee.

Dr. Moulton Speaker
Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of Brookings Institution, will give the commencement address at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., June 12.

The New Yorker

By Leonard Lyons

SPEED: Eleanor Roosevelt, scheduled to make a broadcast at the NBC Studios, was asked to pose for a photo by Ray Lee Jackson, the studio's head photographer. . . . Because Mrs. Roosevelt's time was limited, a corps of page boys were assigned to hold a clear path leading from the broadcast studio to Jackson's office. . . . Mrs. Roosevelt completed her broadcast, rushed down the hallway to Jackson's office, opened the door and plunged into the screen and supports placed there accidentally. . . . She tripped and almost fell into the photographer's arms. . . . "My, my," said the President's wife, "what an entrance!"

KNOWLEDGE: Jerome Weidman, the author of "I Can Get It for You Wholesale," was in London last week and spent a week-end at the Surrey home of his London publisher. . . . Sir Philip Gibbs, who is writing a book about international affairs, lives abroad and phoned the publisher asking him to bring Weidman to his house to answer questions about American life. . . . Weidman obliged and spent two hours with Sir Philip. . . . The only question Gibbs asked him concerning American was: "Is it true that all of Shirley Temple's teeth have been extracted and she wears dental plates to make her smile photograph better?"

GREETING: Tallulah Bankhead saw Ted Husing, who greeted: "Hello!"—but Tallulah didn't respond. . . . When Husing asked her why this aloofness, the star explained: "Well, you cut me." . . . "But," Ted protested, "I did say 'hello'." . . . "I," returned the effusive Tallulah, "consider that a cut."

YOUTH: Pete Steffens, 12-year-old son of the late Lincoln Steffens, was taken to see the movie, "Having Wonderful Time." . . . His mother asked him about the movie later, and Pete confessed that he had missed some of the points. . . . "But mother, there's something about every movie we don't understand," the youngster asserted her. "Isn't that why they charge us half price?"

ENTERPRISE: The other afternoon a World's Fair visitor went to the General Motors exhibit. . . . He stationed himself at the end of the long line of people waiting to enter, and after a half hour he finally got in. . . . "You needn't have waited in line," he was assured by an embarrassed official. "Why didn't you come straight here?" . . . "Oh, but this is the way I prefer it," the visitor insisted. . . . He was John J. Raskob, director and principal stockholder of General Motors.

CHATTER: Meyer Luckman, who is serving a long sentence after a conviction in the notorious Druken murder case, was brought to New York to answer questions about the protection money he had paid in a well-known Manhattan restaurant. . . . Alice Masaryk, daughter of the founder of the Czech Republic, still craves America. . . . Michael Loring, T. A. C.'s star entertainer, has been signed by the Columbia Broadcasting System. . . . A West Forty-eighth street hotel is so disappointed at the lack of World's Fair trade that it has shut off four complete floors. . . . A lawyer whose initials are M. K. is expected to be Amen's chief witness against Assistant Attorney General Ullman.

AMITY: Last week Al Smith appeared as a character witness in two of the three bribery trials then current in the city. . . . He appeared for Judge Manton, who was convicted, and for Judge Martin, who was acquitted. . . . Smith almost made a clean sweep of testifying, because Edward S. Moran, Jr., the Assemblyman now being tried in the tax-legislation case, also asked him to be a character witness. . . . "You're okay," Smith declined, "but my character-witness career is over."

LAMENT: Thomas Wolfe, the novelist, met Mrs. Donald Ogden Stewart a few months before his death. He told her of his having returned to his home in the South and of the change he found there. Wolfe confessed that some new political convictions of his kindle were so objectionable that he no longer could speak to his brother. . . . "You can't go home again," Mrs. Stewart consoled. . . . Wolfe repeated: "You can't go home again, you can't go home again." . . . Wolfe repeated: "May I have that?" . . . "Of course," Mrs. Stewart agreed. . . . And so "You Can't Go Home Again" is the title of Wolfe's forthcoming posthumous novel.

CHANGE: The Windsor Theater on Forty-eighth street got its name during the period when Edward relinquished his rights to the throne King George and Queen Elizabeth make their visit to New York, that name is expected to come down. . . . If the current negotiations are consummated, the Windsor Theater will become Labor Stage. The new purchasers will be the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Va. Industrialists Protest Pay Scale Of Fair Labor Act

Richmond, Va., June 8 (AP)—Representatives from manufacturing centers of the State voiced protests against wage rate provisions of the fair labor standards act at an industrial conference called today by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce and the Virginia Manufacturers' Association.

Spokesmen for industrial groups said they did not believe that labor in Virginia should be had at the lowest possible figure, but contended that some distinction should be made between wage floors prescribed for highly industrialized metropolitan areas in the North and East and those for manufacturing areas in the South. . . . Representatives from Harrisonburg, Winchester, Lynchburg, Roanoke, Newport News and other manufacturing centers cited instances where wage minimums set by the act without consideration, they said, of regional differences, had forced industries to discontinue contemplated expansion in this area and in a few instances to come near to a complete shutdown.

Night-of-Thrills Pageant Today At the Stadium

The annual night-of-thrills pageant, sponsored by the Worshipful Masters Association and the Worthy Matrons of Patrons Association, will be held at Griffith Stadium today.

The program will open with a baseball game at 5 p. m., followed by military pageant, headed by the District National Guard, and a circus.

Louis Johnson, Assistant Secretary of War, will crown Miss Jean Carnahan as queen.

$20,000 Fire Razes Oil Dock at Hampton

Hampton, Va., June 8 (AP)—An oil dock and ship store, located at Armstrong Point between here and Newport News, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin last night. Damage of the property, owned by E. T. Lawson & Son, was estimated at $20,000.

Adventists Watch King

Seventh Day Adventists called off the program of the eighth day of the camp meeting of the Potomac Conference in Takoma Park, Md., so they could witness arrival of the King and Queen in Washington. The "Tent City" reopened with attendance of 12,000 persons last night to hear the Rev. F. B. Jensen, of Richmond, Va., preach on "Who Changed the Sabbath."

For Rent
WHITE
Single or double bedrooms, complete with modern necessities. All new tile, air conditioning. Also full kitchen, bath and shower. Call for Rent.

M. STEIN & CO.
1714 L St. N.W.
At Conn. Ave.
MA 2426

Louella O. Parsons

Close-Ups and Long-Shots Of the Motion Picture Scene

Hollywood, June 8 (INS)—You'll soon be seeing "Swanee River," Stephen Foster's immortal melody, in the movies. And you'll never guess who will play E. F. Christie, the greatest minstrel rouser in American history. Don't tell I told you, but Darryl Zanuck has Al Jolson all signed, sealed and ready to be delivered next month for the role.

Al, of course, will don his famous makeup and give us as near an imitation as his face is capable of. The man who created the blackface American minstrel as we know him today, Christie was actually the original of the street parade, the torchlight procession, the end man and in fact the whole minstrel show routine. Philip Dunne and John Raitor, who have written the screen play and Henry King has been assigned the direction—and, of course, it to be a musical.

John Garfield, who died in "Four Daughters," won't be resurrected in any of the many sequels planned. Whoever heard of killing an actor and bringing him back to life in the same character? The "Four Daughters" cast, Garfield, Jeffrey Lynn, the Lone Sisters, Gale Page, Claude Rains, Frank McHugh, Dick Foran and Philip Dunne, with the addition of Fay Bainter, have just finished "Daughters Courageous" and now with the serial idea still burning brightly, this last picture will carry on with "Four Wives" and later "Four Mothers." Phil and Julius Epstein, responsible for the dialogue in the previous screen plays, wrote the sequel.

Have you a bored baby in your home? No, I'm not kidding and

What's Going On And Where

Luncheon
Advisory Board D. C. Motor Club, American Automobile Association, Windsor Hotel, 12:30 p. m.
Christie, from Hamburg, Hotel Ambassador, 12 noon.
Dinner
Capital Radio Engineering Institute production dinner, Willard Hotel, 7 p. m.
Music
Olds Motor Works, Mayflower Hotel, 8 p. m.
Washington Round Table, National Press Club, 12:30 p. m.
Railway Labor Executive Council, Hotel Hamilton, 9 p. m.
P. O. E. District Department, Hotel Hamilton, 8 p. m.
Base
Central High School, Mayflower Hotel, 10 p. m.
Other Events
Dance for boys of CCC Camp, Benning, Md., Federal WPA Orchestra, 9 p. m.
Concert for patients of St. Elizabeth's, Center Building, by the Federal WPA Chamber Music Ensemble, 1:30 p. m.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.
Laconia, for Gothenburg.

Sailing Tomorrow
Columbus, for Cohn.
Ratis, for Hamburg.
Georgic, for Cohn.
Zaandam, from Rotterdam.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday
Eastern Prince, from Trinidad.
Volcania, from Trieste.
Washington, from Hamburg.

Arrive Today
Columbus from Bremen.
Ratis, from Hamburg.
New Amsterdam, from Rotterdam.

Arrive Tomorrow
9 Champlain, from Havre.
Drottningholm, from Gothenburg.

Sailing Today
American Farmer, for Plymouth.

Services Greet Royalty With Pomp and Fire

Cavalry Leads Way From Union Station; Tank in Flames

By John Gilbert Norris.

The Army yesterday displayed to the heads of the British Empire a fragment of the armed might that may some day turn the tide of the world for peace or war.

Down Pennsylvania avenue to the White House came an impressive array of tanks, artillery and cavalry, between lines of infantrymen, sailors and Marines, standing with fixed bayonets to salute the royal visit.

Overhead roared 52 of the Air Corps' latest-type bombers and pursuit planes.

Representative of the new modernized army of a Nation which moves on wheels, 31 tanks, weighing 10 tons and capable of speeds of 60 miles an hour, made up the guard of honor. But to many of the thousands along the route, the sweeping, even columns of prancing war-horses stole the show.

Bad Luck for Tanks

Bad luck dogged the rubber cleats of the Sixty-sixth Regiment of tanks from Fort George G. Meade, Md. One of the tanks would not start when the mechanical escort moved into Constitution avenue to join the royal procession and another of the rumbling movable fortresses caught fire at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue and dropped out of the procession to put out the flames from the caterpillar treads, blazing five feet above the turrets.

Even without these mishaps, military observers felt the platoons of high-powered black and white horses from Fort Myer, which followed the tanks, had more of the color necessary to a military show of the moment of yesterday's.

The cavalry, however, did lead the way from the Union Station, through the Capitol grounds, Troop F and the Color Guard of the Third Cavalry deployed out of a side street to a position in front of the east entrance to the station, just east of the Presidential party arrived to meet the royal guests.

With horses bobbing but keeping perfectly in line, they double-quickened into place forming a pathway for the trip across the plaza.

Sea Force in Salute

But it was the Nation's "first line of defense" that was the first to salute Their Majesties. Some 200 Marines and 50 seamen formed two lines ranging from the railroad platform across the concourse to the President's reception room. Under command of Col. Julian Smith, the Marine detachment arrived at the station at 9:50, and stood in formation until the King and Queen arrived.

The drum and bugle corps of the Marine Corps took position at the head of track 20, on which the royal train entered. As the King and Queen got off the train, the drums and bugles sounded four ruffles and flourishes, and then stood at attention as the royal party went between them.

The mounted color guard and the rest of the Third Cavalry followed. They had come direct to Constitution avenue from the Union Station along Delaware.

Next came the Sixteenth Field Artillery, following the Cavalry down Louisiana avenue. Officers of the Sixteenth rode at the head of each battery, leaning forward like jockeys, their sabers flashing in the sunlight. They then seated on the caissons, sat with folded arms along the whole march.

Bringing up the rear were the service trucks of the Sixty-sixth Tank Regiment and two of the tanks. Troops lined the Avenue and the south side of the Treasury up to the White House. They were the Fifth Engineers, from Fort Belvoir, Va.; Washington Headquarters Battery, from Fort Meade, and the Twelfth Infantry, from Fort Washington, Md., and the new camp across the river. Standing out among the khaki-clad men was one company of the Thirty-fourth, garbed in the new slate-blue field uniform. The Army Band was posted in Sherman Square.

Planes Give Salute

Brig. Gen. Arnold N. Krogstad, commander of the second wing of the General Headquarters Air Force, from Langley Field, Va., personally led a flight of ten "flying fortresses" and 42 pursuit ships, in an aerial salute to the British monarch.

Tank Blaze Quelled

Fireman E. J. Daigle, of Engine Company No. 31, put out the blaze of the tank with a fire extinguisher. The tank crew worked over the vehicle for a few minutes and soon had it started, declining aid from a fire truck.

Lieut. Col. Maurice D. Welby, commander of the Sixty-sixth Tank Regiment, said the fire was caused by gasoline on the outside of the tank igniting from an overheated exhaust pipe, and declared that no damage was done.

Record-Breaking Crowd Cheers Their Majesties

Part of the crowd of thousands that turned out yesterday for a glimpse of the King and Queen, is shown on Fifteenth street northwest, near the Treasury Department. Every inch of sidewalk on the Constitution and Pennsylvania avenue parade route was filled by the throngs.

Field Artillery, also from Fort Myer. Arriving early, two of the batteries of four French 75s were placed in inspection formation. The machine-gun troop, Tenth Cavalry moved from a side street into the inner curve of the plaza after the President arrived.

One thousand marines from the local barracks and Quantico, Va., were posted along both sides of Delaware avenue from Union Station to Constitution avenue along Constitution avenue from Delaware to New Jersey avenues and from First to Fourth streets.

Passing through the rows of Marines giving the rifle salute, with cavalry escort leading the way, the three leading cars of the column, bearing the King and President, Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt, and Secret Service men, entered the Capitol grounds. The remaining cars pulled up at Constitution avenue.

Making a circle in the Capitol plaza, around the Navy Band and between lines of blue-jackets, the procession returned to Constitution avenue. At Louisiana avenue the waiting mechanized escort took up the lead of the parade, half of the tanks going ahead and half behind the automobiles.

The tanks traveled two abreast and then one in the center of the street. Leaders of each section stood erect in one of their two turrets, wearing padded and goggled helmets. Just before the car bearing the King and President were two Cavalry scout cars, their anti-aircraft guns turned skyward. Two more of the scout cars followed the automobiles.

The mounted color guard and the rest of the Third Cavalry followed. They had come direct to Constitution avenue from the Union Station along Delaware.

Next came the Sixteenth Field Artillery, following the Cavalry down Louisiana avenue. Officers of the Sixteenth rode at the head of each battery, leaning forward like jockeys, their sabers flashing in the sunlight. They then seated on the caissons, sat with folded arms along the whole march.

Bringing up the rear were the service trucks of the Sixty-sixth Tank Regiment and two of the tanks. Troops lined the Avenue and the south side of the Treasury up to the White House. They were the Fifth Engineers, from Fort Belvoir, Va.; Washington Headquarters Battery, from Fort Meade, and the Twelfth Infantry, from Fort Washington, Md., and the new camp across the river.

Standing out among the khaki-clad men was one company of the Thirty-fourth, garbed in the new slate-blue field uniform. The Army Band was posted in Sherman Square.

Planes Give Salute

Brig. Gen. Arnold N. Krogstad, commander of the second wing of the General Headquarters Air Force, from Langley Field, Va., personally led a flight of ten "flying fortresses" and 42 pursuit ships, in an aerial salute to the British monarch.

Tank Blaze Quelled

Fireman E. J. Daigle, of Engine Company No. 31, put out the blaze of the tank with a fire extinguisher. The tank crew worked over the vehicle for a few minutes and soon had it started, declining aid from a fire truck.

Lieut. Col. Maurice D. Welby, commander of the Sixty-sixth Tank Regiment, said the fire was caused by gasoline on the outside of the tank igniting from an overheated exhaust pipe, and declared that no damage was done.

750,000 Cheer Royal Progress

CROWD, from Page 1.

shimmering in the heat wealthy businessmen brushed elbows with relievers.

Girders Are Seals

Steel workers perched on soaring girders of the unfinished Mellon Art Gallery, Senate clerks jockeyed for vantage points on the roof above their Capitol Hill Office Building. Fashionable hotel windows were packed.

Streets all through the city took on the look of Sunday afternoon in Wall Street as school children, department store workers and Government workers converged on the parade route.

An hour before the sovereigns' arrival at Union Station blue-jackets, soldiers and marines quietly filed into position, bayonets gleaming. The first surge of excitement gripped the vast crowd when sun-burnished motorcycle headlights, moving out of the West, announced the progress of President Roosevelt and his reception committee from the White House to Union Station.

"Here They Come"

The American dignitaries drew a cheerful greeting. Six to 20 deep for 2 miles, the crowd's ranks then hardened for the last lap of the long wait. Heads were projected from the withering heat by panama hats, parasols, folded newspapers and handkerchiefs.

Some said they felt a suspicion of breeze as the silvery propellers of army planes churned overhead. There was only one thing that could make the silent crowd forget the heat and it happened a few minutes sooner than most expected—the electrifying cry, "Here they come."

The crowd's answer was a mighty volley of cheering, followed in almost every sector of the parade route by the same spontaneous comment from hundreds of lips, "Isn't she lovely?"

Some Stampedes

With the royal automobiles fading from view, heads bobbed back and forth like those in the gallery at a fast tennis match, as spectators tried to identify the other figures in the motorcade.

At several points along the route there were wild stampedes as men, women and children rushed ahead for a second view of the royal guests. Thousands who had their first look between Union Station and the Senate Office Building raced across the Plaza for another greeting to Their Majesties.

The crowd held its ground along most of Pennsylvania avenue until the last caisson had rolled past. Police lines breached, they then turned the Avenue into a huge promenade. Street cars resuming service moved west on both tracks, nudging ahead of them the broken ranks of the District's greatest crowd.

200,000 Letters Here Will Receive Royal Cancellation

At the insistent demand of stamp collectors, the Postoffice Department rushed into operation yesterday morning at the Union Station—advertising a "royal train cancellation" on all letters mailed from its improvised office under the concourse.

With three clerks in operation, business moved swiftly. More than 200,000 pieces will be dropped into the box before the office closes this afternoon, officials estimated. All will be brought into the City Postoffice and taken to the royal train on trucks. They will be run through the cancellation machine there, but will be transferred to other trains for delivery.

King, Queen Hear Singing Stars

MUSICAL, from Page 1.

cushion" and "These Foolish Things." Alan Lomax, of Washington, discoverer of the folk-singing of Lead Belly and compiler of thousands of folk songs, let the King and Queen have "Whoopie, Ti Yi Yo," "Gitt Along Little Doggie" and "The Old Chisholm Trail."

The North Carolina Spiritual Singers appeared in "De Ol' Kirk's A Moving," "Wade in the Water" and "I Don't Feel Noways Tired," the latter an expression of the Negro's hope of heavenly reward despite trials and tribulations.

Then the Coon Creek Girls from Coon Creek, Ky., four of them here to give an audience a sample of "How Many Biscuits Can You Eat" and "Cindy" should be sung. They were Rosie Ledford, 23; her sister, Lily May, 22; Violet Koehler, 23, and Daisy Lange, 19. Lily May says that she keeps making raffles in her violin to improve the tone.

Royalty, in this novel program, got the cream of the several graces of American music. They saw the dancing as the mountaineer knows it and does it when, in the cool of mountain evenings, he descends to the mountain hot spots with the shakles in his feet that won't be quieted until morning. And this from the famed (locally famed, at least) Soco Gap team, that was formed 12 years ago when Bascom Lamar Lunsford started Asheville's mountain dance contest and Mountain Music Festival.

RESORTS

AT BEACH
AT BEACH, 100 Rooms, 50 Baths, European Plan. Rates from $2.00. Write for Reservations.

Ocean City, N. J.
THE JEFFERSON
Free Bath & Park. Am. Plan. J. Hamilton.

Ocean City, Md.
THE SHOREHAM
On the Boardwalk. Phone 31. Write for Reservations.

Ocean Front
MAJESTIC
Daily, $12.50, $10.00 and $7.50 weekly room and bath. Free parking.

Ocean Front
HASTINGS HOTEL
Private Bath. Parking Space. Special June Rates. $15.00. Write for Booklet.

Ocean Front
ROOSEVELT HOTEL
On Boardwalk at Division St. American Plan. Phone 42 for Rates.

Ocean Front
COMMANDER HOTEL
Modern—On the Ocean. Special June Rates—Double Room & Bath. Write Mrs. J. H. Hamilton.

Ocean Front
MARYLAND INN
All rooms running water. Private baths. Central location. Good food. Write Mrs. J. H. Hamilton.

Ocean Front
LANKFORD
On Boardwalk. Phone 31. Write Mrs. J. H. Hamilton.

Ocean Front
BREAKERS
On the Boardwalk. Modern Conveniences. Phone 31. Write Mrs. J. H. Hamilton.

Ocean Front
SPOTSWOOD ARMS
On the Boardwalk. Phone 31. Write Mrs. J. H. Hamilton.

Ocean Front
NEW WAVELEY HOTEL
First Surf Bathing—Golf—Tennis—Billiards—All sports. Ocean Front Hotel. Every convenience. Write for Booklet.

Ocean Front
WAGONER'S HOTEL
Outfitted for fishermen and vacationists. On the beach front. Ocean of Amenities. Bathing—Boating. American and European plan. Write for rates. Phone Hampton 7799. C. B. WAGONER. Rockport Beach, Va.

TRAVEL
TRAVEL BARGAIN
All Teachers, Students, Govt. Empls. Private Bath—Shower—Refrigerator. $299.00 all-expense. July 25th thru August 22nd. Reservations made made. Gretchen McGowan, Room 2303 at Box 699, Post.

News of Capital Night Clubs

"WASHINGTON POST MARCH" GOES MODERN: Thursday, June 15, will be the fiftieth anniversary of the first performance of Sousa's famous "Washington Post March." On that evening you'll hear the "Washington Post March" at every night spot in town. You'll hear it played "straight," you'll hear it swung high, wide and pretty in modern dance rhythm. You'll hear it played as a double-piano number and on the accordion also in Hawaiian style. The only reason you won't hear it sung is because Director Sousa didn't write lyrics for it.

P. S.—The Washington Post was the first business organization in the country to have its own theme song in this great Sousa march. This away back in 1889, before the invention of radio.

OFF TO THE ROYAL GARDEN PARTY via the Shoreham Lounge, the new Lady Isabel P. Moore, in orchid organ and an all-flower hat; Mr. and Mrs. Gerard B. Lambert, she in beige chiffon and a black picture hat; Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, in a hurry.

Flash! The Persian Adagio Trio will join the Shoreham Terrace floor show next Monday.

TIP—TOP NEW ORCHESTRA: Harold Vee's new orchestra, due to make its bow on Saturday eve at Maryland Club Gardens, promises to be of the finest. Harold has played a sweet violin at the Mayflower for several seasons. Balance of the unit includes most of the top talent at the Troika during the winter.

"A NIGHT IN HONOLULU" will be celebrated in the Hi Hat next Monday evening when the Aloha Native Serenaders, directed by Bill Holt, will begin a summer engagement. Hon. Samuel W. King, delegate from Hawaii, will be guest of honor.

ROAMING CAMERA: Mayflower Lounge Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, greeting many friends in town for the British royal festivities. Ditto for Amos Carter, Texas newspaper publisher. Rainbow Room: Two big tables of smartly uniformed Annapolis cadets, awaiting their turn to participate in Washington's reception to the King and Queen.

Mayfair: Representative Elmer

Senate Chaplain Offers Prayer For Royal Guests

A special prayer for the health of Their Majesties and for closer Anglo-American friendship yesterday was voiced on convening of the Senate following arrival in Washington of the King and Queen.

The Rev. Zebulon T. Phillips, Chaplain of the Senate, said: "Eternal God, ruler and guide of the destinies of nations, our everlasting Father in whose heart are found the springs of all parental tenderness and grace: We thank Thee for the manifold blessings bestowed upon us as a Nation; for the ideals of government, of liberty and justice, so largely inherited from the mother country to which today America pays loving tribute as she welcomes to her shores the British sovereign and his gracious Queen."

"Preserve them in health and strength; may Thine everlasting arms encircle them, and may their happy journey in our midst be to us, to them, and to their people a source of blessed understanding, as together we face the problems of tomorrow in the spirit of closer friendship and deeper consecration to our God. We ask it in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord and Savior. Amen."

Lounge Riviera
HOTEL 200 SIXTEENTH
Pete Macias
At the Piano and His ORCHESTRA
Support Dancing
From 9:30 to 1:30
Singer, Dancer, Pianist
OWN FROM 12 NOON
Air-Conditioned

PIRATES BEA
3135 16th St. N.W.
JOLLY, HOT, WILD, IN A COLOR
LAST TWO NIGHTS
(Until September 15)

AIR CONDITIONED
METROPOLITAN FOLLIES
PAUL HANE & HIS
Band—Cameo
DICK & SYLVIA
BARCLAY
JERRY BARRY
JOEL SHERMAN
& Others
Shows at 1, 7:45 P. M. & 10:15

FINEST DRINKS IN TOWN
TILL 1 P. M.
Only $2.00
Whiskey and in all mixed drinks
ENTERTAINMENT TILL 3 A. M.
No Cover—No Minimum
at Any Time

TASTIEST FOOD
Special Luncheon 55c
7-Course Dinner $1.00
Served in the beautiful Ambassador Room
WASHINGTON, REEST 20-ROOM DOWNTOWN HOTEL
Completely Air-Conditioned
14th & K Sts. N.W.

MADRILLON
Special Luncheon
Friday
Service From 11:30
Lunch at the
Madrillon
Served at the
Madrillon
14th & K Sts. N.W.

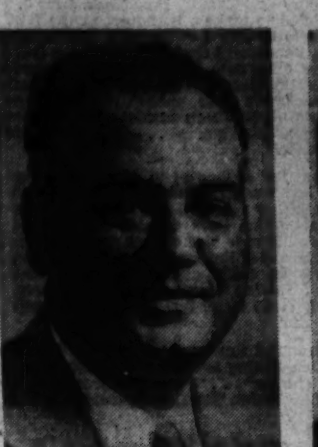

HOTEL HAMILTON
14th and K Sts. N.W.
RICHARD S. BUTLER, Mgr.
FREE PARKING

Featuring
MAY DAVIS at the
HARRISON NOVATON
Cocktails—Dinner—Supper
Major Davis
Pianist
Bachelors Room
Whisky
Dinner and
Supper Dances

MONDAY, JUNE 5 THRU SATURDAY, JUNE 17
WEEK NIGHTS 9-12

WAGNER'S HOTEL
Outfitted for fishermen and vacationists. On the beach front. Ocean of Amenities. Bathing—Boating. American and European plan. Write for rates. Phone Hampton 7799. C. B. WAGONER. Rockport Beach, Va.

TRAVEL
TRAVEL BARGAIN
All Teachers, Students, Govt. Empls. Private Bath—Shower—Refrigerator. $299.00 all-expense. July 25th thru August 22nd. Reservations made made. Gretchen McGowan, Room 2303 at Box 699, Post.

Proprietor Tom O'Donnell, of Griffith Farms Tavern

Ryan, of Minnesota, with his charming dance. Representative James Secombe, of Ohio.

MAESTRO'S PECCADILLOES: Wally Stoeffer (whose orchestra is currently starred at Glen Echo) likes horseback riding, swa food and fried chicken. He's superstitious about yellow, never wears a hat and combs his hair every hour.

HOT NUMBERS IN COOL PLACES: The "adagio rumba" being done at the Lotus by Brent, De Wald and Madeline. The boys toss Madeline around like a rubber doll. "Quick, Please," as sponsored by the Roger Smith Powhatan roof garden. Russ Cullen supplies the shushing and the rest of the lads do the rumba.

Any blues number, providing Evelyn Knight gives it that deep indigo touch from her perch atop the bar of the King Cole Room.

The sleek and slippery rumba being done in Bamboo Gardens by

Landon Breaks 2 Ribs in Maine

Rockland, Me., June 8 (P).—Alfred M. Landon, Republican Presidential nominee in 1936, slipped and broke two ribs in disembarking here late today from the ketch Blue Moon.

Hospitalized briefly for X-ray examinations, Landon returned to the ketch and continued the cruise. Lying in his bunk aboard the craft, owned by Arthur B. Smith, South-west Harbor, Landon said he had slipped in getting from the ketch into a small boat.

DICK'S GRILL
2121 15th St. N.W.
Entertainment Nightly
PINKAM MADDIE
an entertainer
Soup—French Fried Potatoes—Sliced Tomatoes, Bread, Butter. 55c

PIRATES BEA
3135 16th St. N.W.
JOLLY, HOT, WILD, IN A COLOR
LAST TWO NIGHTS
(Until September 15)

AIR CONDITIONED
METROPOLITAN FOLLIES
PAUL HANE & HIS
Band—Cameo
DICK & SYLVIA
BARCLAY
JERRY BARRY
JOEL SHERMAN
& Others
Shows at 1, 7:45 P. M. & 10:15

FINEST DRINKS IN TOWN
TILL 1 P. M.
Only $2.00
Whiskey and in all mixed drinks
ENTERTAINMENT TILL 3 A. M.
No Cover—No Minimum
at Any Time

TASTIEST FOOD
Special Luncheon 55c
7-Course Dinner $1.00
Served in the beautiful Ambassador Room
WASHINGTON, REEST 20-ROOM DOWNTOWN HOTEL
Completely Air-Conditioned
14th & K Sts. N.W.

MADRILLON
Special Luncheon
Friday
Service From 11:30
Lunch at the
Madrillon
Served at the
Madrillon
14th & K Sts. N.W.

HOTEL HAMILTON
14th and K Sts. N.W.
RICHARD S. BUTLER, Mgr.
FREE PARKING

Featuring
MAY DAVIS at the
HARRISON NOVATON
Cocktails—Dinner—Supper
Major Davis
Pianist
Bachelors Room
Whisky
Dinner and
Supper Dances

MONDAY, JUNE 5 THRU SATURDAY, JUNE 17
WEEK NIGHTS 9-12

WAGNER'S HOTEL
Outfitted for fishermen and vacationists. On the beach front. Ocean of Amenities. Bathing—Boating. American and European plan. Write for rates. Phone Hampton 7799. C. B. WAGONER. Rockport Beach, Va.

TRAVEL
TRAVEL BARGAIN
All Teachers, Students, Govt. Empls. Private Bath—Shower—Refrigerator. $299.00 all-expense. July 25th thru August 22nd. Reservations made made. Gretchen McGowan, Room 2303 at Box 699, Post.

WAGNER'S HOTEL
Outfitted for fishermen and vacationists. On the beach front. Ocean of Amenities. Bathing—Boating. American and European plan. Write for rates. Phone Hampton 7799. C. B. WAGONER. Rockport Beach, Va.

TRAVEL
TRAVEL BARGAIN
All Teachers, Students, Govt. Empls. Private Bath—Shower—Refrigerator. $299.00 all-expense. July 25th thru August 22nd. Reservations made made. Gretchen McGowan, Room 2303 at Box 699, Post.

Patient Sees All From Ambulance

Nothing—not even broken bones and a very recent attack of pneumonia—could keep Mrs. May Hunt, of Corning, N. Y., from participating in yesterday's welcome to the King and Queen.

Confined to Emergency Hospital since March 12 when she was struck and injured seriously by a taxicab, Mrs. Hunt yesterday arranged to watch the parade from an ambulance parked in a gasoline station at Second street and Constitution avenue.

On Sale at Your Favorite Bar or Package Store

National Distillers Products Corporation, New York

AIR COOLED

SUMMERTIME REVUES
7:30-11:30 P. M.
The Lotus features a beautiful Broadway Chorus and complete service through the summer months.

THE WALK
MADEIRA
International Adaptation
JAY JASON
Singer, Dancer
WILL STRICKLAND
Diplomatic Song Band
BUDDY SHANER
No Cover Charge
Lunch, 45c (Sat., 50c)
Dinner, $1.00 (Sat., $1.10)
Completely Air-Conditioned
14th & NEW YORK AVE. N.E.

THE LOTUS
14th & NEW YORK AVE. N.E.

A Jolly Port of Call
ANCHOR AWAY IN THE ANCHOR ROOM
ENTERTAINMENT
MATT WINDSOR at the Piano and American
Lounge Riviera
Singer, Dancer
Cocktails from 2:30
HOTEL ANNAPOLIS
17th & 12th Sts. N.W.

ROGER SMITH
(POWHATAN)
Cool breeze as you dine and dance with the
"who's who" of
Washington!
Week Days 11:30-1:30
Sala, 25c
Singer, Dancer
De Luxe Dinner
Dance Dinner Includes Cover Charge
Coke, Change, Wash, Tip, 50c.
Sala, 25c, 50c, $1.00.
Dancing every night, except Sunday.
Don't let the weather keep you away
—It is showers we'll carry on in the air-conditioned Cafe Caprice.
Reservations: Phone National 2740.
ROGER SMITH HOTEL
PENN. AVE. at 16th ST.

AIR CONDITIONED
METRONOME ROOM
SUPER DANCING 10-12
THE PENGUINS
JONES BY BERRY
No Cover Charge
Lunch, 45c (Sat., 50c)
Dinner, $1.00 (Sat., $1.10)
Completely Air-Conditioned
14th & NEW YORK AVE. N.E.

WARDMAN PARK HOTEL
Conn. Ave. at Woodley Rd.

HALL'S
(Since 1893)
RESTAURANT AND GARDEN
7th & K Sts. S.W. off the Water Front
LUNCH 45c
FROM 12 TO 2 P. M.
SOFT SHELL CRAB OR FRIED SHRIMP
French Fried Potatoes Tea or Coffee Green Vegetables
Seafood Platter 75c
Troy Platter 75c
Imperial Crab 75c
Whole Broiled Live Lobster $1.00
Chilled Steaks, Chops, Chicken
Mixed Drinks—Imported & Domestic Wines & Liquors
AMPLE PARKING SPACE
FRANK HALL, Prop. Stirling 8580
DINE OUTDOORS IN OUR GARDEN

HALL'S
(Since 1893)
RESTAURANT AND GARDEN
7th & K Sts. S.W. off the Water Front
LUNCH 45c
FROM 12 TO 2 P. M.
SOFT SHELL CRAB OR FRIED SHRIMP
French Fried Potatoes Tea or Coffee Green Vegetables
Seafood Platter 75

Boy and Girl Scout Thrill at Royal Greeting

Two Shake Hands Of Majesties After Presenting Gifts

King George and Queen Elizabeth gave a Boy Scout and a Girl Scout a lifetime thrill yesterday. Leah Marion Burkett, 15, of Linden, Md., the Girl Scout, presented the Queen with a bouquet as the royal party left the White House yesterday for the garden party at the British Embassy.

King Receives Scroll

Fred D. Carl, 18, 3502 Rodman street northwest, Eagle Scout and assistant scoutmaster of Troop 15, presented the King with a scroll and a box containing two necker-ties, one made of walnut that came from Mount Vernon and another made of cedar with a fossil shark's tooth set in it.

While more than 4,000 Boy Scouts and about 2,000 Girl Scouts looked on, the British sovereigns held up the motorcade to chat with Leah and Carl about scouting. The scouts were drawn up along the South driveway leading to the West Executive Avenue gate.

"When I gave her the bouquet," Leah said, she asked me about one of the badges I was wearing and I told her it was the bookbinder badge. "She asked me to shake her hand and said I was to shake her left hand. I did so."

"The Queen said her daughter, Elizabeth, was working for badges. I said, 'I know you are proud of her.' I didn't know what else to say."

Queen Asks Questions

The Queen continued to ask questions about Leah's badges, and Leah explained that they were not her badges. It seems that the uniform she ordered for the occasion was not the right one, and she had to borrow the uniform of Nancy Griffin, Silver Spring, Md.

Leah curtsied when she presented the bouquet, which consisted of lilies of the valley, forget-me-nots and sweet peas. She said she was so excited she could not have fainted, as many of the other girls did because of the heat.

Carl made a thoroughly memorized speech in presenting the scroll and neck-ties to the King. He was questioned both by the King and Queen. The King held out his left hand in the manner of international scouts and Carl shook his hand.

"It was the happiest moment of my life," Carl said. "He seemed just like a regular American citizen."

Main Hall Coat Closet Convenient for Family

A coat closet in the main entrance hall of a home will be found to contribute much in convenience to the entire family.

The size of the closet will necessarily depend on the individual requirements and the space available. The floor should be of material that is easily cleaned, as the closet will also be a storeroom for overcoats and dripping umbrellas.

College of William and Mary Sends King A Scroll in Token of oLng Relationship

Holds He Exemplifies Extension of English Thought Beyond Rule

In token of the long relationship between the British Crown and the College of William and Mary, in Virginia, the institution today will present a memorial to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth at Mount Vernon.

A parchment scroll, illuminated in color with the coat of arms conferred by the Royal College of Heralds after King William and Queen Mary granted their charter in 1693, will be tendered the sovereigns by Secretary of State Hull and the British Ambassador.

The ancient college, standing in Williamsburg, which was restored to its Colonial condition by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., salutes the King as "one in whose person is exemplified the spiritual concept that has extended the realm of English thought beyond the realm of English rule."

In Pine Box

Tied with the colors of the college, the scroll is contained in a box of Virginia pine wood. The memorial's text states:

"The visit to Virginia of Their Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, signifies the natural and continuous bond existing between the United Kingdom and the first permanent English colony in the New World."

"That kinship has been peculiarly marked at William and Mary. Founded by King William and Queen Mary in 1693, this was the second institution of higher learning in America, the first to receive a royal charter, and the only one to receive a coat-of-arms from the College of Heralds."

"The act of incorporation provided rents, revenues and lands. The college for its part trained ministers of the gospel, lawyers, teachers and public servants, of whom three became President of the United States."

A Lasting Force

"The western lands called to the English settlers, and they answered with homes and mastery; but a more lasting force, than territorial expansion, was at work. That force, the genius for self-government, found articulate expression in the College of William and Mary."

"Richard Bland, trained at this college, anticipated by 106 years the Statute of Westminster in his assertion that the essential bond of the British Empire is not Parliament but the King. Sure confirmation of this truth is given by Their Majesties' visit."

"Wherefore the president, the rector and the board of visitors of the College of William and Mary in Virginia take this happy occasion to offer and present this address of welcome to His Majesty, King George VI, in whose person is exemplified the spiritual concept that has extended the realm of English thought beyond the realm of English rule."

It is signed by John Stewart Bryan, president, and John Hardy Dillard, rector.

Post Staff Photo.

President John Stewart Bryan, of William and Mary College, Va., is shown reading the historic scroll, bearing the coat of arms conferred on the college by the Royal College of Heralds after King William and Queen Mary signed the school's charter in 1693. It will be given to King George when he visits Mount Vernon today.

Royal Time Table

TIME TABLE, from Page 1.

12 noon.—Arrival at Navy Yard to board Presidential yacht Potomac.

1:30 p. m.—Arrival of Potomac at Mount Vernon.

1:45 p. m.—King George will lay a wreath on the Tomb of George Washington.

2:30 p. m.—Departure from Mount Vernon. Their Majesties will ride to Fort Hunt, Va., via the Memorial boulevard.

2:40 p. m.—Arrival at Fort Hunt for visit to CCC Camp.

3 p. m.—Their Majesties leave Fort Hunt. Their route to Arlington Cemetery will be over the Mount Vernon boulevard to the Memorial Bridge and through the Memorial Gate to cemetery where the King will place wreaths on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and on the Canadian Cross.

3:45 p. m.—The King and Queen leave Arlington. En route to the White House they will pass through the Memorial Gate, across the Memorial Bridge, around the Lincoln Memorial, down Constitution avenue to Seventeenth street; up Seventeenth street to State place and in the southwest gate of the White House grounds.

7:55 p. m.—The King and Queen will leave the White House for the British Embassy.

8:05 p. m.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt will leave the White House for the dinner at the British Embassy.

10:45 p. m.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt leave the Embassy for the White House.

11:30 p. m.—Their Majesties, accompanied by their suite and American aides, will entrain at Union Station.

Fallen State's Envoy First To Greet King

Falk Konitz, of Conquered Albania, Takes Precedence.

Ironically, the Minister presented first to the King and Queen yesterday when the Capital's Diplomatic Corps was received at the White House represents a country no longer independent and whose King and Queen are in exile.

He was Falk Konitz, of Albania, chosen first not because Albania tops the alphabetical order, but because the scholarly, diminutive diplomat has been stationed here longer than any but two of the Ministers. They are Marc Peter, of Switzerland, who is ill in Emergency Hospital, and W. Rostum, of Sweden, who sailed for home recently.

Representatives of the British dominions, Canada and the Union of South Africa, were not presented since they had been previously presented at Union Station.

Order of precedence in the presentations was as follows:

The Ambassador of Peru.
The Ambassador of the Argentine Republic.
The Ambassador of the Turkish Republic and Mrs. Eriksen.
The British Ambassador and Countess van der Sitron-Ponten.
The Ambassador of Mexico and Señora de Castillo Valera.
The Ambassador of Poland.
The Ambassador of Ecuador.
The Ambassador of Cuba.
The Ambassador of the French Republic.
The Ambassador of Colombia and Señora Dona de Lopez.

The Chinese Ambassador.
The Japanese Ambassador and Mrs. Horinouchi.
The Ambassador of Brazil and Mrs. Martins.
The Ambassador of Venezuela and Señora de Rosales.
The Royal Italian Ambassador.
The Ambassador of Panama.
The Ambassador of Chile and Señora de Ochoa.
The Ambassador of Spain.

The Ambassador of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and Mrs. Omskaya.

The Minister of Albania.

The Minister of Guatemala and Señora de Restos.

The Minister of Denmark and Mrs. Westergaard.

The Minister of Portugal and Mrs. de Menezes.

The Minister of Hungary and Mrs. Fekety.

The Minister of Uruguay.

The Minister of El Salvador and Señora de Castro.

The Minister of Greece.

The Spanish Minister and Mrs. Abisael Rahamendi.

The Minister of Lithuania and Mrs. Sadauskis.

The Minister of Yugoslavia and Mrs. Petic.

The Minister of Latvia and Mrs. Bilmanis.

The Minister of the Dominican Republic and Señora de Pastoris.

The Minister of Bolivia and Señora de Castro Beaza.

The Minister of Czechoslovakia and Señora de Gostalla.

The Minister of Ecuador and Señora de Gostalla.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

The Minister of Paraguay.

Mrs. McLean Opens Walsh Mansion For Royal Visitors

Halls which once resounded to the gayest of Capital social gatherings echoed again to laughter and party chatter yesterday when the famed old Walsh mansion at 2020 Massachusetts avenue was opened in honor of the visiting King and Queen.

Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, present owner of the house, played hostess to a group of friends invited to catch a fleeting glimpse of the royal party as it sped past, en route to the British Embassy.

It was in this famous old mansion, built by the late Tom Walsh, "gold" millionaire of the last century, that Vice President and Mrs. Marshall entertained King Albert of Belgium and his Queen, Elizabeth, when they visited here in 1919.

Smith Hearing Postponed

Hearings on the dismissal of Dr. Carrie Weaver Smith as head of the National Training School for Girls, scheduled for today, will be held on Monday at 10 a. m., it was announced yesterday by Commissioner David McCoach, Jr.

Mosquitoes Keep You Awake Nights?

Here's what to do. Before retiring, close the bedroom doors and windows. Use a good sprayer and fill the room with a mist of Bee Brand Insect Spray. Let the room stay closed for 15 minutes. When you go back, the only mosquitoes will be dead ones on the floor. Don't confuse Bee Brand Spray with other sprays. It has no nasty burning smell—only a clean cedar fragrance that soon disappears. And Bee Brand really kills flies, mosquitoes and other flying insects quick—no if's, and's, or but's. Get Bee Brand and get rid of flies, mosquitoes, and other annoying insects. Bee Brand Insect Spray—in the red and yellow cans. It's sold with a guarantee of satisfaction or your money back. 17 1/2 oz. 29¢; 3 1/2 oz. 49¢.

NOTE: You can also kill flies and mosquitoes, as well as roaches and ants, with Bee Brand Insect Powder. Read directions on can.

This Sunday—June 11
1-DAY EXCURSIONS to New York via "The Direct Route" to the WORLD'S FAIR!

$4.00 ROUND TRIP IN COACHES TO NEW YORK

Sunday, June 11

Le. Washington 12:55 P. M. or 7:25 A. M.
Ar. New York (Penn. Sta.) 8:30 P. M. or 12:25 A. M. (Monday).

1-DAY $4.95 EVERY WEEKDAY EXCURSIONS (except Holidays) Round Trip in Coaches to New York

Le. Washington 12:55 P. M. or 7:25 A. M.
Ar. New York (Penn. Sta.) 7:25 P. M. or 12:25 A. M.

WEEK-END $5.85 Round Trip in Coaches to New York

Go every Friday or Saturday—Return Saturday or Sunday noon.

Le. Washington Fridays 4:55 P. M.; Le. Saturdays 12:55 A. M., 7:25 A. M.

Returning Le. New York (Penn. Sta.) 7:25 P. M. Saturdays 12:55 A. M. or 8:30 P. M. Sundays or

Washington Saw History Made at This Meeting Yesterday

President Greet British Monarchs

In a beplumed admiral's hat, King George VI smiled, stepped from the royal special with his Queen at Union Station and was greeted by President Roosevelt with an informal handshake. His Majesty came as the King of Canada to visit the Capital of the United States informally, and as Washington looked on yesterday, tomorrow's history was written in their meeting. At right, the camera records the historic moment. Left to right, King George, President Roosevelt, Brig. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, Presidential aide and secretary; Mrs. Roosevelt and Queen Elizabeth

Post Staff Photo by Arthur Ellis.

As the Capital Made the Nation's Curtsy to George and Elizabeth

Post Staff Photo.

Correspondence on the Curb

This lady spectator at yesterday's parade arrived early for a choice seat on the curb and passed the time waiting for King and Queen to go by in writing post cards home

Post Staff Photo.

Protected From the Heat

Mercury rose to 94 yesterday and caused many parade spectators to faint before they saw Their Majesties, but not this trio. Angeline Vetterel, Rose Ann Lucas and Evelyn Chappell covered their heads with newspapers

Post Staff Photo.

Storm Over White House

Camera caught a flashing streak of lightning over the White House last night as the state dinner was in progress for the King and Queen. A soldier stands guard in foreground

Post Staff Photo.

Cavalry Guard

Mounted troops from Fort Myer, Va., made picturesque spectacle pranced in parade

Associated Press Photo.

'Stepping Out' to King's Dinner

Smiling Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., son of the President, and his wife, the former Ethel du Pont, are shown leaving Washington Hotel for state dinner for King and Queen at Executive Mansion

The Washington Post

Registered in U. S. Patent Office.
An Independent Newspaper.
(Published every day in the year.)
Eugene Meyer, Publisher.
Floyd R. Harrison, Comptroller.

The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to use for reproduction of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and local news of spontaneous origin published herein. Rights of reproduction of all other matter herein are also reserved.

New York Office: 270 Madison Avenue
Chicago Office: 360 North Michigan Avenue

DELIVERED IN WASHINGTON
Daily, Sunday, 1 yr. $7.50
Daily, Sunday, 1 week, 10c
Daily only, 1 yr. $5.00
Daily only, 1 week, 10c
Sunday only, 1 yr. $2.50
Sunday only, per copy 5c

BY MAIL—MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, WEST VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA
Daily and Sunday, 1 yr. $7.50
Daily and Sunday, 1 week, 10c
Daily only, 1 yr. $5.00
Daily only, 1 week, 10c
Sunday only, 1 yr. $2.50
Sunday only, per copy 5c

OTHER STATES, MEXICO AND CANADA
Daily and Sunday, 1 yr. $11.00
Daily and Sunday, 1 week, 10c
Daily only, 1 yr. $7.00
Daily only, 1 week, 10c
Sunday only, 1 yr. $3.50
Sunday only, per copy 5c

Entered at the Postoffice, Washington, D. C., as second-class mail matter.

TELEPHONE NATIONAL 4300.

Friday, June 9, 1939.

Child Welfare Funds

Conferees on the District appropriations bill will be confronted by a number of specific questions of great importance to the Capital. Should a start be made toward replacement of Washington's obsolete school buildings? Should relief funds be granted to alleviate the more acute distress among the unemployed who are able to work as well as among chronic charity cases? Should a scientific program of child welfare be inaugurated?

Congress, as well as Washington residents, is thoroughly familiar with the need for a modern educational plant and for additional relief funds. Those issues are so clear that the conferees seem to have no reasonable alternative to acceptance of the Senate bill. Less is known of the proposed reorganization of child welfare services in the District for which funds are also included in the Senate measure. But it can scarcely be said that this item is of less importance than the other two.

A scientific survey of child welfare activities in Washington was completed last year. Numerous deficiencies in the present set-up were found. With the expert advice of Jacob Kepcs, the investigating committee recommended a consolidation of all child welfare activities as well as an extension of service in various instances. While the increased funds voted by the Senate will not permit inauguration of the full program, a good start can be made if the conference committee approves the Senate bill and that judgment is sustained in the House.

The Senate added nearly $55,000 for personal services in this field, including an assistant director of public welfare who will be co-ordinator of child welfare services. That fund would assure unification of all child welfare activities under one head, in line with the most scientific practice. It would also permit the inauguration of a unit for protective and preventive work. In the Kepcs report it was pointed out that the prevention of undesirable home environment affecting children "is a significant factor in preventing the need for removal of children from their homes."

Part of the fund would be used for extension of home-finding activities of the child welfare division. If the conference committee approves all of the Senate's changes in this section of the local budget, only a fraction of the program recommended by the Kepcs report can be put into operation. But the items already approved by the Senate constitute a notable start toward a worthy objective. It is of the utmost importance to children who are in the care of the District that this start be made.

Courting Retaliation

The struggle that has been going on in Shanghai between Japan and the western powers has now entered a new and acute stage.

Japan's campaign of attrition against foreign rights and interests in China has undoubtedly made headway in the period since the undeclared war began. Foreign residents and enterprises in Shanghai and other Chinese cities have been hampered at every turn by the obstructionist tactics of the Japanese. Yet Japan has by no means been satisfied with the results of that campaign.

Despite all that has happened, foreigners continue to maintain a foothold in many places in China. That is notably true of Shanghai where the foreign stake is greatest and where, also, the Japanese have made their most ambitious efforts to compel the British, American and other foreign residents to submit to Tokyo's domination.

Pin-pricks having failed, the Japanese militarists now seem determined to resort to bayonet thrusts. This is the only reasonable interpretation that can be placed on the outrageous warning issued by a Japanese spokesman to the foreign residents of Shanghai this week.

He said that foreigners whose acts are considered dangerous to Japanese forces in the occupied areas of China would be subjected to "summary action," including indefinite imprisonment and even execution. What makes the warning more pointed is that it followed close on the heels of the killing of a British resident by Japanese marines.

The circumstances surrounding this tragedy are not at all clear. The victim apparently met his death when he tried to prevent Japanese marines from entering a British-owned mill where he was employed and where a strike was going on. The British are convinced that the strike had been instigated by a Japanese. And there is also a strong suspicion that the murderous assault on the employee of the mill was cold-blooded and deliberate. In other words, the episode may have been part of the long-continued Japanese effort to make the situation untenable for British-owned industries in China.

Whatever may have happened in this case, however, the Japanese threat of "summary action" against foreigners in China who meet with their displeasure cannot be tolerated. Should an attempt be made to carry out such a program, immediate and drastic retaliatory action would be in order. Certainly there is no reason why the western powers, including the United States, should continue to supply Japan with essential raw materials to carry on a war, one goal of which is the destruction of the rights and interests possessed by these powers in China.

Sincerity

In a spontaneous and memorable outburst of true friendship Washington yesterday took to its heart the British King and Queen. The elaborate preparation, the military display, the pomp and ceremony of the occasion—all this was submerged and rendered secondary by the surging good will of the popular welcome.

There were police precautions, of course, and there was all the formality appropriate to a diplomatic event of obvious international importance. But the outstanding characteristic of the day was a festivity which even unfriendly weather could not dissipate. That cross-section of the American populace which is Washington was out en fête. And the people who thronged the curbs and sidewalks, the windows, roofs and doorways, were there because that was where they sincerely wanted to be.

Here was none of the regimented and ordered demonstration characteristic of the dictatorships. Here were no threats, no coercion, no calculated governmental dragging of the masses to create the effect of popular enthusiasm. From early morning until late at night the crowd in Washington was out because such was its desire. The welcome given by the Capital, like all the publicity which preceded it, was wholly voluntary, wholly democratic and wholly sincere.

Certainly this did not make it less demonstrative. With a surge of emotion the more intense because of the critical nature of the times, the citizens of the District cheered King George and Queen Elizabeth as ambassadors from a fellow democracy. The roar of welcome which swept along Pennsylvania avenue yesterday will long have echoes throughout the English-speaking world. Far more than treaties, alliances or formal protestations it attested a true community of ideals.

That common outlook on vital issues will be furthered by the visit of the King and Queen. In their modest way, and by the tribute to America's tremendous importance which is tacit in their presence here, the royal couple have done much to further Anglo-American co-operation. It is a co-operation the more effective because likely to remain voluntary for both parties, binding on neither.

In Europe two nations recently at war have formed an "axis" to forward their respective ambitions. All that these nations have in common are dictatorial governments and common passions of envy, frustration, hate and fear. They make, on the surface, an imposing combination. But, as its authors know, the Berlin-Rome alliance is a giant with feet of clay. It is a marriage of convenience, possessing none of the factors which guarantee either real harmony or permanence in time of test.

Among the great nations of the English-speaking world there is no alliance. There is, in the formal sense of the word, no axis. But the peoples who have been reared in the Anglo-Saxon tradition do not need to ally themselves in order to assert their essential unity. Their characteristics and their temperament are opposed to ties which would be both superficial and irksome. Where there is real community of feeling it need not be protested.

The vital strength of the Anglo-Saxon tradition is not found in tanks or bombing planes or battleships, though these today are obviously necessary adjuncts. It lies in the hearts of men and women to whom freedom is indispensable; to whom dictatorship is anathema. Because they cherish individualism and democracy such people will never surrender their liberty of action, unless it be temporarily for the larger end of national preservation. But this independence means that the ties between those who think alike are more, rather than less, real.

To ask what sort of reception Hitler or Mussolini would have had in Washington yesterday is to define the meaning of the welcome accorded the man and woman who reign but do not rule in Britain. That welcome was as sincere as the desire of King George and Queen Elizabeth to visit us. And in the community of nations, as in that of individuals, it is sincerity which creates the ties on which men count.

Short-Sighted Tactics

The foreign countries participating in the New York World's Fair are said to be deeply resentful of the treatment to which they have been subjected by the local labor unions. Having been officially invited by the President and Congress to take part in the exhibition, foreign nations naturally expected that they would be permitted to carry out their plans without outside interference. Indeed, it seemed reasonable to assume that they would be permitted to enjoy most of the privileges of extraterritoriality inside their reservations.

Instead, they have been exasperated by the cavalier attitude of the Fair authorities, who have dealt with them as if they were commercial participants. And they have also been forced to employ members of the local trade unions, thereby adding greatly to the cost of the construction and equipment of their pavilions.

In some instances foreign workmen were brought over to do special kinds of skilled work that American labor was unable to execute. Nevertheless, Dr. Neil Van Aken, president of the Foreign Government Commissioners Club, asserts that under such circumstances local unions insisted that their members be hired at full union rates, although they could only stand idly by while foreigners performed the work.

In other cases, it is alleged, the unions put more workers on jobs than were needed. Furthermore, jurisdictional disputes and strikes hampered construction work seriously and caused the expense accounts of foreign government to rise accordingly. When the unions encountered resistance to their demands, they frequently resorted to vandalism, according to Dr. Van Aken.

There is no validity to the claim that the employment of foreign workers undermines union wage standards and takes jobs away from union members; because foreign labor employed by the foreign participants is really engaged on work for the home governments. The evidence indicates that the local unions simply saw an opportunity for creating jobs at good pay for their members. They have apparently succeeded admirably in "holding up" the foreigners who are not in a position to defend themselves effectively. But if the disgruntled exhibitors should refuse to continue their participation a second year, as they threaten to do, the victory of the unions will be a costly one for New York City and for thousands of workers and small tradesmen who benefit indirectly from the trek of visitors to the Fair.

While some governments—notably Soviet Russia—submitted without a murmur to the trade union demands, the union methods certainly do not tend to foster that spirit of international good will which it was hoped the Fair would promote. One can only trust that in the world of tomorrow, which the Fair symbolizes, labor unions will learn that it does not pay to follow the tactics of some of the labor unions of today.

"Certain African tribes require that in order to be eligible to marry a man must be efficient in running, jumping, swimming and fighting."—Newspaper. These requirements are evidently listed in the order of their importance.

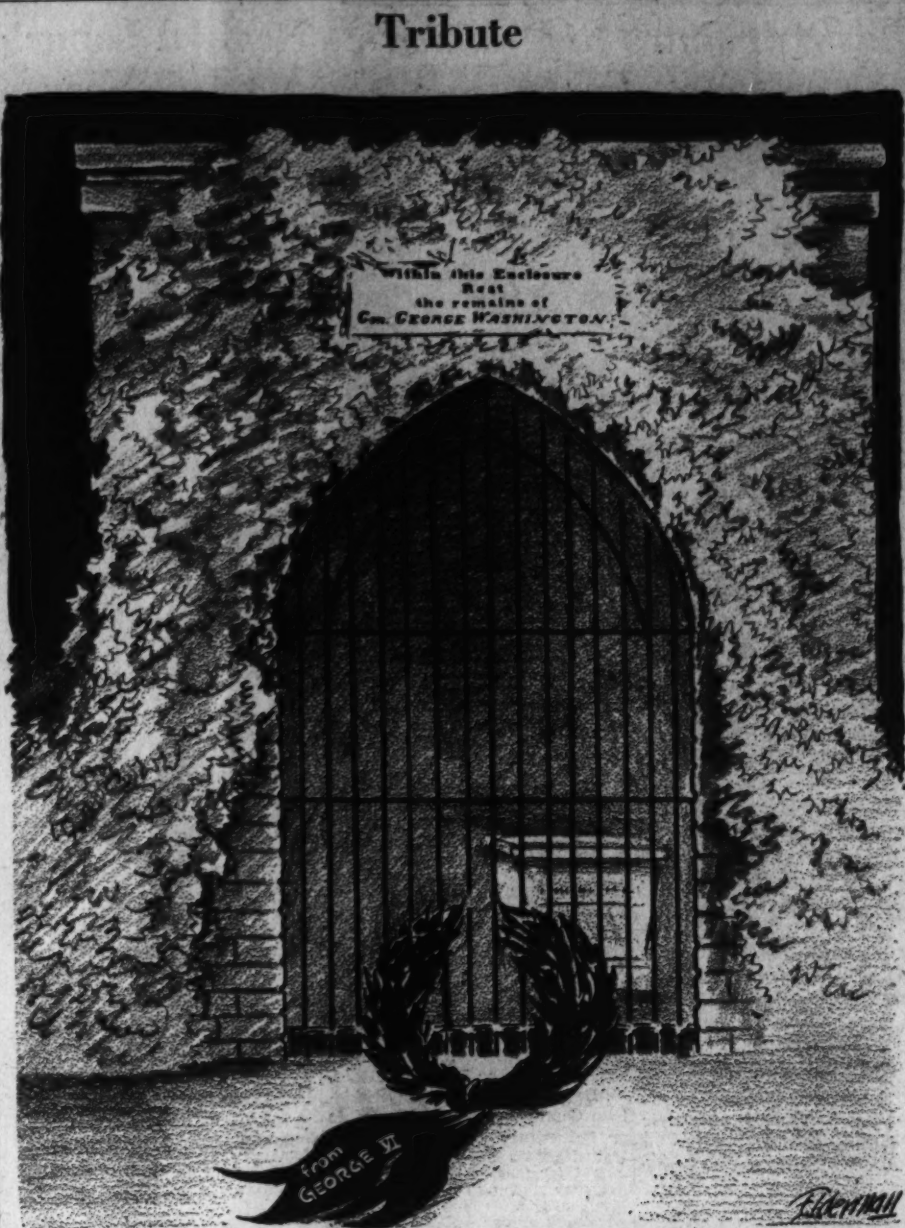

The Misunderstood Shark

From the Richmond Times-Dispatch.
Shark steak will be the piece de resistance at the annual banquet of the Society for the Propagation of the Truth About Sharks, which is soon to be held. The society includes no vegetarians in its circle, and, as far as we know, has not a single member who has any qualms about eating the fair game that is sought by the human species. It is chiefly concerned with reducing the sum total of human fear, by showing that the shark is far from being the frightful creature so often pictured by the human imagination in its mood of distortion.

Not a little of this fear of sharks is a pure psychological reaction. To be beautiful is to be good, and to be ugly is to be damned. The shark is not an attractive specimen for mounting, and because of its ugliness has too often been condemned as the frightful beast of the sea. If it were generally known that the shark which is commonly encountered in our coastal waters, while naturally timid, is a game fish on the line, and a toothsome dish on the table, would it not help its reputation?

P. H. Jackson, director of the Cape May, N. J., County Board of Freeholders and superintendent of the county's annual fishing contest, will this year offer a special award to the sport fisherman or woman landing the biggest shark by rod and reel.

The Cape May fishing contest chairman instituted the award for the shark specimen "as the result of many requests from men and women who habitually get a thrill out of fishing for them." After many years of effort, the Society for the Propagation of the Truth About Sharks feels that its efforts have not been in vain. Not when men go down to the sea after sharks—in search of thrills and a table delicacy.

Letters to the Editor

Peacetime

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: While we listened to the names of the dead in the sunken submarine Squalus, perhaps of relative or friend, we thought back of the efforts of some Senators and Congressmen who are trying to discontinue the re-enlistment allowances and do away with military preference in Government positions, to which all Navy men are entitled. They are the really true Americans at this time, as they are the guardians of our military secrets and protect our shores, for the safe-keeping of "Old Glory."

The U. S. S. Squalus, with 28 drowned, sank recently off the treacherous New England coast. The S-1 sank off Block Island, September 23, 1923, after being rammed by the City of Rome, burying friends I will never see again. Only three men escaped from the sunken submarine as it dove to the ocean floor.

The S-4 sank off Provincetown, December 17, 1927. Forty-four men were dead before divers, working four days in icy waters, under the splendid direction of Capt. E. J. King, U. S. N., succeeded in attaching hose lines through which life-sustaining oxygen could be pumped into the hull.

Thomas ("Tom") Eadie, first diver to reach the S-4, found that six men still were alive in the forward torpedo chamber. The hampered code messages from the men continued three days—then there was silence. Life was no longer aboard. And now we hear of the British submarine Thetis, which has sunk, leaving 99 dead in their "casket" of the deep in the hands of Davey Jones. Our sympathy goes to their loved ones and friends.

These dead seamen and officers are now beyond recall. Legislation can neither help nor hinder them. It is of the survivors we must think. As a decent and fitting memorial to the victims and as assurance to the survivors, the Government should give preference to "peace-time" soldiers and sailors as well as "war-time" fighters, knowing that all are ready to go down into the sea in ships that may never come up.

The business of fighting for one's country is the business of dying for one's country, one that brings wives and mothers hastening to a scene of tragedy to claim the body of a loved one. Should this be forgotten, then I say: "What price America?"

CHARLES W. SNEAD.
Washington, June 8.

Scores Pegler

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the Post of June 1 Mr. Pegler, whose column I read with pleasure and profit on many occasions, heads his remarks for the day "Artistic Slop." In those remarks he concerns himself with the tendency of certain artists or pseudo-artists of a radical slant, toward "frownsiness," "a dirty way of life," and a dislike for soap. He does all such to a turn, and with the customary punch of his powerful rhetoric sends them spinning and light-headed against the stone wall of their own unrespectability. It is all interesting reading.

In his opening paragraph he says that Dorothy Day, in her recent book, "From Union Square to Rome," asks herself if the old desire to be with the poor and mean and abandoned, knowing that all is a distorted desire to be with the dispirited. ("Chapter and verse would help a lot, here.") I think Mr. Pegler would not pick fault with the logic of anyone who drew the inference from that paragraph, that Dorothy Day, the editor of the Catholic Worker, is included by him among the bunch of "unwashed literati." If his logic and mine are keeping step on that point, may I have the favor of a few remarks?

No one who knows anything about Dorothy Day denies that she is a radical. St. Francis of Assisi was also a radical. It is hardly to be doubted that at times she lacks a proper supply of soap. St. Francis often did. She often lacks more important essentials than soap—food and clothing, for example. She may at times even be guilty of "frownsiness." It is not always possible to be a la mode in some one else's last year's cast-offs.

And as for "promiscuous sleeping around," if sleeping in some corner on the floor when someone in illness or in greater fatigue has need of her bed, well, she's guilty of that, too. Yes, she's a radical. But there are radicals and radicals.

Some are radicals like Dorothy Day, because they go to the "root" of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Such radicals believe that they have touched that root when they give all they have and all they are to those less fortunate than themselves—when they follow the advice of the late Pope Pius XI and "get down among the poor." These are a different brand from Mr. Pegler's radicals of the filthy attire and dirty fingernails who affect a militant attitude on the conditions of the poor, "and eschew soap" because they "don't give a damn for the opinion of complacent respectables." Let's be discerning in classifying our radicals.

LINDA MALEY O'HARA.
Washington, D. C.

"Conscience And Duty"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congratulations for the remarkably fine editorial on "Conscience and Duty," which appeared in The Washington Post just following the sessions of our Uniting Conference at Kansas City, Mo.

You have our deep gratitude for your clear moral insight and what we believe is a new insight into the nature of democratic and constitutional rights in your handling of the problem of the conscientious objector.

The editorial is the finest editorial on this particular subject that I have ever seen in any of our newspapers and I have been able to make good use of it since it was sent to me three or four days following the conference.

Among other things, I included it in the statement I presented to the Senate sub-committee on the war referendum before which I appeared on Thursday, May 18. At the end of my statement I requested that the editorial be included in the record which I presented to that committee on hearings, and Senator Hatch noted that this would be done.

In addition, I had read into the record the action of our Uniting Conference with reference to the conscientious objector and also the action of our Uniting Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church three years ago. I did this as evidence that the action of three years ago was not a flash-in-the-pan since the new statement of the Uniting Conference followed and probably slightly strengthened the statement which we then adopted.

Our commission, by the way, has been, for several years, registering persons who, being conscientious objectors, desired to be registered with our Commission on World Peace.

REV. CHARLES F. BOSS, Jr., Executive Secretary, the General Conference Commission on World Peace of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Chicago, Ill., May 26.

The Post Impressionist

Mountain Names

THE NAME in the book was arresting and she repeated it until like an echo it rebounded, bringing back to her the same name in clearer, stronger accents. Then she remembered: a sturdy mountain girl clad in stout homespun walking rapidly along a winding trail with a younger child jogging behind in a vain effort to catch up. That child was herself. One of the mountain girl's sun-brown arms circled a stone crock filled with candy-striped June apples; the other was crooked about a huge cabbage that unfurled fluted leaves like the petals of an incredible lotus against her faded blue waist. Sunshine and shadow barred her path, brambles laid detaining limbs across the way but the mountain girl strode on.

"Sepal! Wait for me!" But Sepal's long strides took her unrelentingly forward until a leafy angle of the trail hid her completely.

That was the name that conjured this scene, and it was a summer set like a gem in the blue ring of the southern Appalachians that held the memory, needing only a rub here and there, like Aladdin's lamp, to bring it clearly into being. From the beginning Sepal had fascinated her, not because of anything the hill girl said or did but on account of her "quar" name. With persistence strong as the native hickory she had tagged at the other's heels as if the unrelenting attendance would somehow aid in piercing the odd quality of the name Sepal.

The stairstep progeny of their nearest neighbor—across the creek—bore names that fell with equal strangeness on her ears but for some inexplicable reason she had accepted their names unquestioningly. That a family name of three ringing syllables, old in English history when the Tudor was new, linked the children was a significance that reached her only after years. For it is only the sensory appeal of names that engages the young.

On the occasion of their first meeting she had stood silently before the group while appraising stares were exchanged. True to their mountain heritage their first query had been "What's yore name?" She had told them unblinkingly, then in turn she questioned; what's yours? "Who wuz ya named fer," they wanted to know next. If they had found her own name odd their inborn hill courtesy restrained them from comment; though she had thought funny the name of one of the boys, Dorset, because it rhymed with corset. When she had laughed, he had sent her a glance from still imperious eyes, his face as secret as the depth of a mountain ravine. She never made light of the name again.

Clio was an older girl. "I war named fer pap's sister down on Piney," was the grave explanation to the outsider; and the child next in age was a boy, Robin. Though he was Rob to the children there were times when an old grandmother called him Rab, especially when she bade the boy "fetch a fresh drink" from the spring, with urgency in her cracked voice.

Evelyn was a "double-fust" cousin, pronounced Eve-lyn in the English manner manner instead of Ev-a-lyn; while a girl whose sunny curls made a halo round her head was Bridget. Once long before, in a highland inn the lasting beauty of such curls had been set on paper by Robert Burns in "The gowden locks o' Anna." Such hair must turn men instinctively to poetry. She remembered that her own father had murmured something about "thy hyacinth hair" when he first beheld the curls of this southern highland lass, though this was a remark as hard for her child-mind to decipher as the oddity of the name, Sepal.

But with the intervention of time, when looking back to the mountain summer, it was not of Sepal that she thought. Sepal had been quite forgotten until this chance discovery of the name in a book. No, it was the names of the others that had remained impressed in her mind. She knew that in those enigmatic hills, isolated for generations, dwell America's oldest stock, who still retained in crystallized form the essence of another age. Much of the speech and the customs of the mountaineer could be judged only by Revolutionary and pre-Revolutionary standards. So it was in this manner she conjectured about the names.

Perhaps, she reasoned, a pioneer girl-wife holding her firstborn in a mountain cabin of the New World eased her nostalgic heart by naming the child for the Dorset downs she would never see again. The name had passed from generation to generation until Dorset, the child she had played with, knew only that he had grandfater's name. And it was not impossible that some bold Elizabethan blade, on the eve of setting sail for the new land beyond the seas, beheld this change in an epochal light that it was fitting he should christen the infant, sleeping in his wife's arms, for Clio, Muse of History. But if anyone had asked "Aint' Clio who she in turn had been named for, it is more than likely the old hill woman would have knocked the ashes from her corn-cob pipe, settled herself in her split-hickory chair before replying in the selfsame words of her grandfather: "I war named fer my pap's sister."

But today it is of Sepal she is wondering, and who can trace that name?

LOUIE CAMERON.

Washington, June 1.

Police And First Aid

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I saw something on Memorial Day which was contrary to all my concepts of efficiency and training of our police.

Two little colored boys were drowned in the Potomac River. The rescue squad was called and appeared after a long lapse of time, which might have been unavoidable. But to come without a pulmotor; to watch civilians perform the act of artificial respiration and when trying it themselves showing obvious lack of knowledge and experience, this is avoidable.

I heard one of the arrivals ask a civilian whether he was performing correctly. I also heard a policeman state that he had not had a course in first aid in eight years and did not know if the proper methods of resuscitation were being used.

Perhaps these men were not members of the rescue squad, but this most necessary information, to my mind, is an important point in any policeman's knowledge. I am not condemning the men as individuals, but a system of training that allows such a condition to exist.

Were these men exceptions? Or are our police merely jobholders and not the efficient members of a government that the people have a right to expect them to be?

MILTON LIEBERMAN.
Washington, June 1.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler

The Fascist Trend

OF ALL the crazy contradictions that confuse and excite the common American intelligence these days the most baffling is the fact that the Roosevelt Administration is distinctly friendly to individual Communists and has the approval of the party but is unmistakably Fascist not only around the edges but at the core. Communists and fellow travelers in the Administration and out of it approve and work for measures and ideas which the Fascists of the country would themselves promote if they were in power. And those Fascists and their fellow travelers rant and bounce in dreadful alarm because they can't see the sameness of Communism and Fascism or realize that this Government is moving toward the common goal of both.

Just why this Administration favors Communists is not plain, but there is no doubt that Communists are welcome as New Dealers, and there is an unmistakable preference or sympathy for organizations which are either dominated by Communists or seriously troubled by attempts to establish such domination.

No Mandate Given

To The Communists

ON THE OTHER hand, persons and organizations of Fascist leanings are excluded from official positions and the semi-official circle of a Government which nevertheless is promoting their aims. The Communists received no mandate in either of Mr. Roosevelt's elections, and there was nothing in the vote of the people which could be construed as an invitation to them to move in. And if the Administration should be turned out next year its successor would have an equal right to say to say no right at all, unless it had faced the issue in the campaign—to show an equal preference for Fascists.

In this Government there is an attempt—sometimes outspoken, sometimes concealed—to create a personal following for a leader through the distribution of benefits, represented as gifts from the President.

Little Joe Goebbels of the Nazi regime has an approximate counterpart in Harry Ichter, who called Mr. Garner a back-stabber because Garner, more loyal to his country and his principles than to an individual, has the effrontery to become a candidate for President.

The Radio Has

No Independence

THERE HAS BEEN a persistent attempt to convince the whole people that private business is not only an evil but a failure, and the radio, being under Administration control and subject to coercion and censorship, has been officially extolled above the press, which is not yet conquered but might be threatened by subtle laws and economic pressure. This studied praise of the radio has had the purpose of discrediting the press because the press has criticized freely, whereas the radio has no independence, and the radio must behave or take the consequences except insofar as the press is able to defend its rival from intimidation and penalties.

If the time should come when the harassment of private business and the dependence of the Government should result in confusion, not to say disorder, the next step would be the grant of emergency powers to the President, whoever he might be at the time. And these powers may be anything, and certainly no Fascist would object to such a step, because the Fascists don't like restraints and constitutional guarantees. Huey Long had a few demonstrations that should be remembered, but they were laughed off as mere clowning.

New Deal Trend

To Fascism Seen

THE NEW DEALERS who resent the charge of Communism or sympathy with Communists are correct in their denial. The most influential of them are not Communists at all but Fascists at heart, and it will be noticed that most of those who write the New Deal's daily propaganda rarely trouble to explain what is to become of the established American way when the time comes to pay off the reason being that the answer would be too shocking for public consumption.

Naturally no Communist objects to anything that would destroy the American form of Government and substitute a dictatorship. They want a dictatorship here as in Russia and are willing to wait until the time comes to see who runs it, they or the American Fascists.

But the Fascists needn't be so hostile to the New Deal. After all, the New Deal is going their way.

Housewives Shame State

Into Cleaning Road

Nuremberg, Pa., June 8 (P).—A broom-wielding regiment of determined housewives took matters into their hands today and began sweeping away ashes the State had promised to remove from a dusty highway here.

The women barricaded the road for five hours yesterday and threatened another blockade today. The Highway Department finally consented to remove the ashes and oil the stretch.

Miss Hepburn's Shout

Unnerves Burglar

New York, June 8 (P).—Katharine Hepburn, the actress, disclosed today that she chased a burglar from her town house when he awakened her from a nap Monday evening.

Her about, "What the hell are you doing there?" so unnerved the man, she said, that he dropped a pearl necklace and a jewel case and fled.

Bridge

Books And Things

By Lewis Gannett

The Incomparable Lear

HE WAS Queen Victoria's drawing master; or at least, he gave her a dozen lessons. He was also a professional landscape painter, sufficiently competent to make a living at it; he wrote and illustrated half a dozen travel books; he was an intimate friend and correspondent of many of the most eminent Victorians, and is frequently mentioned in their memoirs. And, indeed, his own name is still a household word; yet those principal facts about him will hardly bring it to mind.

But he wrote some other books, trifies, more or less intended for the diversion of children. Nonsense verses, including an absurd kind of five-line stanza called a limerick. His name was Edward Lear.

The story of his life is told in "Edward Lear," by Angus Davidson (Dutton $3.75).

THERE REALLY was something extraordinary about the Victorians. No other period assimilated the bizarre into the commonplace with such dreamlike equanimity. The two great nonsense writers, Edward Lear and Lewis Carroll, did not occur by accident in that nineteenth-century world. They belonged in it; their genius was its flower.

In evidence, observe the early life of Lear. His mother and father were models of British middle-class respectability. That is to say, the elder Lear was of Danish extraction, and the young couple enjoyed matrimony by eloping. Being married, they produced 21 children in 25 years. Half a dozen of the offspring died in infancy, but that was to be expected. Young Edward came near the end of the procession. He was sickly and plain.

The paternal Lear was a stock broker and supported his family in luxury, with a big house, numerous servants, carriage and so forth. But one day father did not turn up at home, and the bailiffs did. Speculation had come to its usual end; the family was ruined, and the elder Lear passed the next four years in a debtors' prison, with his wife carrying him dinner every day and trying to clear his debts.

WEALTH never revisited the Lears. The father died soon after his release. Two of Edward Lear's brothers came to America, where they married, had large families, and wrote back continents for help from their relatives. A third brother went to West Africa as a medical missionary and returned with malaria and a Negro wife. That's the sort of thing the Victorians simply took in their stride.

Edward's oldest sister, who had inherited a small income, took care of him. But he began making a few pennies as a boy by "doing sketches, coloring prints, screens, fans; while making morbid diseases and drawings for hospitals and doctors."

THEN HE got a job to do a whole volume of drawings of the parrots at the Regent's Park Zoo. Thus his first published work was entitled "Illustrations of the Family of Psittacidae." One might think the matter would end there, but in fact it led to another position, doing turtles for the British Museum; and presently it landed him as resident artist in the private zoo of the Earl of Derby at Knowley Park. Lear was to draw and paint for four Earls of Derby in direct line of descent. Lear became hereditary. Earl after Earl found that Lear devolved upon him with the title. But it must be said they really liked him very much.

It was at Knowley that Lear wrote many of his famous limericks, simply for fun. The book was published in 1868. But meantime Lear had decided on landscape painting as a means of livelihood.

A minor mystery concerning the Victorians is the amount of art, good, bad and indifferent, they actually purchased for handsome sums. Much of it seems to have dematerialized since; but drawings and paintings by Lear may be found to this day in odd corners, probably including Buckingham Palace.

To the reviewer's eye, Lear's paintings are innocently academic, and his supposedly humorous drawings are simply bad drawing, not funny in the least.

BUT HIS LIFE—his rich and strange Victorian life—holds one with a charm; it has about it that eerie quality which crystallized in his immortal nonsense verse. The episodes are gorgeously unrelated. The hero is shown in virulent checked tweeds, a bowler hat, spectacles and a dense, unpruned growth of whiskers. That man traveled indefatigably in far lands, deserts and perilous seas, where he made correct little sketches which he took back and worked up into mild paintings for English drawing rooms. He sojourned in India as the guest of a Viceroy. He visited Jerusalem twice. He lived in Italy, where he upheld the Victorian proprieties in a neat cottage called Villa Emilly.

He was a close friend of the Tennysons; he adored Mrs. Tennyson as an angel. She, by the way, called her husband Ally. At one time Lear designed to do a painting of "Enoch Arden," 15 feet long by 9 feet high, which he intended to present to the laureate, and serve him right. Illness unhappily prevented this act of poetic justice.

Lear loved and lost by default; he didn't dare ask the lady to marry him.

Perhaps the most engaging anecdote in an altogether pleasant book is of Lear being shown a collection of fine miniatures by Queen Victoria. Lear exclaimed: "Oh, where did you get all these beautiful things?" The Queen replied: "I inherited them, Mr. Lear. Well, she could hardly say: 'Where do you suspect I got them?'"

Old Crates Go

Like Hot Cakes as

City Cranes Neck

Fruit, popsicle, and basket dealers did a land office business during the two hours preceding the royal parade.

Five thousand baskets and crates were sold at 10 cents each by drayage companies whose truck drivers otherwise would have spent an idle day.

Some of the baskets were sold and resold for as high as 50 cents each. Approximately half of them were left on the sidewalks and salvaged later by drivers.

Lewis Douglas

Named Head of Life Insurance Co.

New York, June 8 (P).—Lewis William Douglas, former director of the Federal budget, today was elected president of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, to take office January 1, 1940.

He will succeed David Franklin Houston, President Wilson's Secretary of Agriculture, who January 1 will become chairman of the board of directors.

Reorganization Plans

Signed by Roosevelt

President Roosevelt signed yesterday a reorganization plan which will permit his two plans for reorganization of the executive branch of the Government to go into effect July 1, start of the new fiscal year.

Under the reorganization act, the plans would have gone into effect 60 days after their submission to Congress, unless both Senate and House disapproved them. The Senate and House voted down resolutions of disapproval.

Hearing Set on New

Anchorage Areas

Establishment of new anchorage areas in the Anacostia and Potomac rivers, and proposed changes in the harbor lines on both banks of the Potomac, will be studied at a public hearing in the board room of the Chief of Army Engineers' office, Triangle Building, at 2 p. m. June 20.

Off The Record

By Ed Reed

Gen. Johnson: Straddler

By Ernest K. Lindley

His Spending Program

HUGH S. JOHNSON says he would "glory" in continuing the debate with this column about the spending policies of the Roosevelt Administration. He'd like to co-operate. The difficulty is that the general has begun by conceding almost every point I twitted him about.

He doesn't deny that he was the chief author of the speech he loves to quote—the one on economy which Franklin D. Roosevelt made at Pittsburgh in October, 1932. In fact, he picks out my assertion that he was the chief author of that "concentrate of economic bromides" as "unmistakable internal evidence" that my recent column on the subject was a "command" performance straight from the feed box.

He tacitly admits that like most other people who like to quote from the Pittsburgh speech of 1932 he ordinarily omits the passage in which Mr. Roosevelt said that he would not hesitate to leave the budget unbalanced to take care of the needy unemployed.

Admits Authorship

Of NRA Program

HE ADMITS that in the spring of 1933 he was one of the authors of the $3,300,000,000 spending program, which was authorized in Title II of a national industrial recovery act. According to my notes, Hugh Johnson's original draft of what became NIRA was a brief, simple affair: no codes, just a quick lift of fingers and a quick shortening of hours, plus a vast spending program to stimulate the heavy industries. His original idea—as either he or Ray Moley explained it to me at the time—has always seemed to me to have been much sounder than the NIRA which we actually got. Anyway, a great public works program was regarded by Hugh Johnson as an indispensable part of the NRA program. In his book, "The Blue Eagle, from Egg to Earth," he described how he was taken aback when the President signed the administration of Title II (the code system, etc.).

"Furthermore, I felt that, from that moment on, the whole program—at least as we had drawn it—was impossible," the general wrote.

As he feared, the public works program would glacially. The civil works program of small jobs had to be invented to get some money into action during the winter of 1933-34.

Title II Is Basis

Of Public Works

GEN. JOHNSON evidently is still proud of Title II of NIRA. He says it would be "a swell idea" for me to go back and read it. I thought it was a first-rate piece of legislation when I first saw it in 1933. After reading it again now, I understand even better why the general is proud of it.

It was the whole roster of useful public expenditures on construction: Public highways and parkways, public buildings, and "any publicly owned instrumentalities and facilities," conservation and development of natural resources, including development of water power and transmission of electrical energy; construction, alteration, etc., of low-cost housing and slum-clearance projects; hospitals, naval vessels, military airplanes, mechanized and motorized equipment for the Army, subsistence homesteads.

There isn't room here to enumerate more. In the last six years no New Dealer, so far as I know, has been able to think of any kind of useful construction which was not thought of and sanctioned in Title II of Hugh Johnson's NIRA.

All of these expenditures—$3,300,000,000 worth—under NIRA were to be paid for with borrowed money. The act put on additional taxes to pay interest and amortization charges on this vast public investment.

The general complains now that too much of this money went for "raking leaves." Here I am in full sympathy with him. I think he could have put a major public works program into action a lot more rapidly than Harold Ickes did. In the literal sense the leaf-raking period has long since passed. But, through WPA, the Government has been spending money on a great many projects of dubious utility. The main reason is that the Federal Government has been unwilling to spend, or invest, enough money to pay for the materials that go into more expensive public works.

On Wasting Money

By Too Little Spending

TO GET FULL value it must go back to the Hugh Johnson plan of 1933 for investing large amounts of borrowed money in useful additions to the national plant. Ap-

China's Economic Offensive

By T. Lowry Sinclair, Jr.

The Rise Of Guerrilla Industries

Special Correspondence of The Post.

Baguio, Philippine Islands. A KEEN, vigorous, extremely busy New Zealander, Rewi Alley, directs China's most inspired offensive along a 1,800-mile front—China's industrial co-operatives. He engineers an undercover campaign of guerrilla industry to keep China on her feet while she fights Japan.

How well China can fight her desperate economic battle to survive is as vital a question as whether Japanese economy can stand the strain of her offensive war. Seventy per cent of the Chinese industries were concentrated in the Shanghai-Wuhsu area when the Japanese occupied that section and seized the plants left intact after a large portion had been destroyed. Of 3,000,000 Chinese factory workers, all were thrown out of work except 300,000 employed in British and Japanese mills.

Japan's war strategy in China comprehends not only destruction of China's military defenses but also economic subjugation. Bombs are aimed to strike fatal blows at the growing Chinese industries. Rivers are closed to keep out foreign competition. Every month 2,000 Japanese merchants and industrialists are sent into China to work native labor in a monopoly of all Chinese trade. Already Japanese trade with China has increased over last year, while that of other nations has fallen off.

WHEN the highly industrialized Shanghai-Wuhsu area fell, Rewi Alley and other leading Chinese and foreign residents of Shanghai foresaw the disruption as leading to China's economic dependence upon Japan. If the war stopped the Chinese people would have to buy Japanese goods for the next five or ten years. Even if they wanted to buy Chinese goods they would find that there were no Chinese products to buy. China had to do something and do it quickly. While Japanese planes blasted Hankow last summer Mme. Chiang Kai-shek and Dr. H. H. Kung, with their staffs, crouched in a dugout and considered the plan the New Zealander had suggested.

They surveyed the nation and saw 60,000,000 destitute refugees and wounded soldiers drifting away from the spirit of national patriotism. Along the coast China's infant industries were being systematically wrecked or captured. Masses of laborers had the choice of economic ruin or the alternative of working for Japan.

In the north the Chinese were under Japanese economic thrusts and immediately saw the value of the co-operative movement applied to industry as well as to agriculture. Through his efforts the national government was prompt to see the need for such a project and appropriated $5,000,000 which it placed under his administration.

AFTER several months of preparation the program of China's industrial co-operatives was launched last August. There were many cynics and skeptics at first. But a staff of 200 engineers and co-operative workers has not been able to establish co-operatives fast enough to supply the demand.

The case of a Shensi town in the northwest is typically interesting. On the same day that notices of the movement were posted, a band of blacksmiths, wishing to start a foundry, organized the first co-operative last August.

Next, 30 Honan stocking knitters, who had made their way with machines from Sian, set up shop. Before the first week was up a dozen soap and candlemakers formed the third co-operative. Then 14 printers signed up. The town announced 40 co-operatives after two months and by December there were 80.

The organization of these units is simple and practical. A workers' group elects a chairman and committee of directors. Apparently the general agrees that the Federal Government has wasted money by not spending enough of it. For he says that after "six years of futile drunken-sailor extravagance," the Administration is just beginning to "sag back" to his 1933 public works plan.

The biggest spenders now in the New Deal are not willing to go quite so far as the general. All of them, so far as I know, think outlays for national defense should be charged to the regular operating budget and paid for out of current income.

So, to sum up, Hugh Johnson is proud to have been the author of the best features of (1) a drastic economy program and (2) a vast "borrow and invest" program. He still thinks both are right. He claims the Roosevelt Administration for (1) spending too much and (2) spending too little. This leaves him in a straddling posture to which, as a veteran cavalryman, he is accustomed. It makes me suspect he is getting ready to run for office.

basic units and many others in ten provinces not occupied by the Japanese. A central province in Chungking trains co-ordinating workers from each section in relay, and distributes money, men and materials to various parts of the country where craftsmanship produces best.

Three types of co-operatives form three lines of defenses, depending on the region in which they function. Just before the fighting line, the smallest and most mobile units are located. As a part of military strategy, these units are careful to keep clear of Japanese attacks and are ready to move at a moment's notice if necessary. Between the front and rear, larger and more complicated equipment is utilized. The third supplement is the production of large industry established in the interior by the government.

The plan is to organize 30,000 of these small co-operative centers as soon as possible to form an industrial "Great Wall," stretching in a semicircle 1,800 miles along the front. Already the transportation question is being answered by centers that build boats and mule carts. Coal and iron mining units are uncovering boundless possibilities as they explore new and untapped resources in the northwest. The whole industrial movement is co-ordinated by a nucleus of experienced engineers and co-operative workers.

Most of this force is Chinese, who are not less enthusiastic over the fundamental idea of co-operatives in China than Rewi Alley himself. This energetic foreigner, who speaks several dialects well, scurries about the countryside on a bicycle, synchronizing the movement. The government knew of his acquaintance with a wide variety of industrial processes when it asked him to take over the direction of the movement with K. P. Liu. Alley voluntarily resigned his position on the Shanghai municipal council in reply to the request, and K. P. Liu was the dynamic, American-trained finance minister of Kansu Province. Their staff includes several of Shanghai's ablest foreign-trained engineers. All are modestly paid, $200 Mex. being the maximum salary.

Credit for financing the plan goes to Dr. H. H. Kung, president of the Executive Yuan and minister of finance, who long ago had recognized the need for arming against Japanese economic thrusts and immediately saw the value of the co-operative movement applied to industry as well as to agriculture. Through his efforts the national government was prompt to see the need for such a project and appropriated $5,000,000 which it placed under his administration.

THE WOBURN division of the transmission department of the Boston Edison Co. received the Matthews valor award for service under extraordinary handicaps and danger incident to the New England hurricane last September. The crew comprised 37 men under leadership of G. C. McNeill.

Awarding the various prizes and discussion of technical subjects by several speakers brought the institute's annual meeting to a close.

Sabotage Scouted

In Sarabia Crash

Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, Mexican ambassador, yesterday described as "imbecile" rumors of sabotage against the plane of Francis Sarabia, Mexican flyer killed Wednesday in a crash in the Potomac.

The Associated Press reported 40 persons stoned the American school in Mexico City and guards had been placed to protect the United States Embassy against demonstrations feared because of Sarabia's death.

Complete Your Summer

Wardrobe with

NEWPORT

BY NETTLETON

For 'Round-the-Clock Smartness

Clever wardrobes will include Nettleton's Newport, wing tip oxford in all white buck or white with tan or black Viking clip trim. Whether for dress wear in town, country or at the shore, Newport interchanges perfectly with any ensemble, assures you of the correct footnote for any hour of day or night.

FATHER'S DAY NOTE

Dad would love to loaf his way through Summer in a pair of NETTLETON LOAFERS. In many styles from $5.45 to $8.95

RICH'S MEN'S SHOP
F STREET AT TENTH

At the Club

Cool on the sidelines, smart on the terrace, rayon crepe with a deal of scalloping, bubble buttons, leather belt. Blue or pink, those dusky shades that set off your sun-tan so effectively.

Misses' sizes$25

Gown Salon, Second Floor

FRIDAY-SATURDAY
SPECIALSThe POST'S WEEKLY PARADE of Bargains!FRIDAY-SATURDAY
SPECIALS

MILSTONE'S

ACME LIQUOR STORE

RETAILERS—WHOLESALE—IMPORTERS
927 Penn. Ave. N.W. Open Till 9 P. M.

"Home of Low Prices"

New Low Prices!

NOW IN FULL QUARTS!

Bit O' Kentucky

BOTTLED IN BOND

FIT FOR A KING

KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON

AND KENTUCKY STRAIGHT RYE WHISKEY

FULL 100 PROOF

Here is Kentucky whiskey at its best—it's full bodied with a smooth, rich flavor. We believe it's America's finest bonded whiskey at any price!

MADE TO SELL FOR $3.09

Friday
and Saturday
Only!STRAIGHT BOURBON
4 Years Old
$1.79
Full QuartSTRAIGHT RYE
5 Years Old
$1.99
Full Quart

SOLD ONLY AT MILSTONE'S ACME

CLEAN-RITE

925 VACUUM STORES 925
F ST. FREE PARKING F ST.
N.W. at 9th and G Place N.W. N.W.
Store Hours: 9 A. M. to 9 P. M.

REBUILT Electrolux

So thoroughly rebuilt they are like new Without risking a penny see for yourself how beautifully they clean and how much of your time they save.16.95
FULL
CASH
PRICE

Complete With Attachments—Easy Terms Arranged

1-Year Guarantee Bond for the same length of time as a NEW ELECTROLUX. Protects you against defects in material or workmanship.
Replacement or repairs.LIBERAL ALLOWANCE
FOR YOUR
OLD CLEANER★ PHONE METropolitan 5600 ★
For FREE HOME Demonstration
ASK ABOUT OUR 10-DAY TRIAL PLAN

A & N TRADING CO.

Formerly Named Army & Navy Trading Co. (Same Firm)
8th & D Sts.—RE. 2545—Our Only Store

Made to Sell for $3.95—Women's & Misses'

Jodhpur Pants or Jodhpur Shoes

Friday & Saturday Only

$1.99 Ea.Pants:
Slenderizing hi-waisted whipcord
Jodhpur Pants with leather reinforced knees, adjustable buckles at waist. Newest shades. All sizes. Also washable gabardine included.Shoes:
All genuine leather Jodhpur
Shoes, soft finish. Colors are tan and black. Sizes from 2½ to 10.
An exceptional riding value!Open Evenings 'Til 8 P. M.
Open Saturday 'Til 10 P. M.Free Parking a Few Doors Up
8th Street on Steele's Lot

The Young Men's Shop

1319-21 F STREET

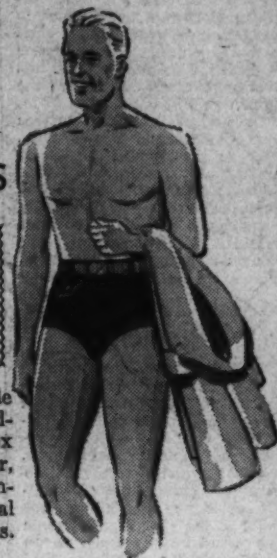

DIst. 6510

2 DAYS ONLY!

Famous Make

$3.00

Swim Trunks

$1.95Nationally famous for style and quality... 1939 models! All wools and latex trunks in garnet, silver, navy and royal with contrasting belts with metal buckle. Some with pockets.

BLACKSTONE, Inc.

1407 H St. N.W.

DIst. 1300

Week-End Flower
Gift Box

LOVELY SPRING FLOWERS—VARIED COLORS

Attractive Box of Beautiful, Fresh-Cut Flowers$1.75
COMPLETE

Phone Your Order and Charge It

Jewelers ROSS Opticians

Washington's Most Beautiful Jewelry Store

1331 F Street

NA. 0968

Repeat! New Shipment Just Arrived!

Hand Cut Lead Crystal
Salt & PepperThis Style Handle
Available, Too.IN A MODERN CHROME
STAND OF REAL CHARM39c
CompleteWe sold out last time
—we'll do it again.
Come early!A smart combination of hand-cut lead crystal
with black glass tops, gleaming against the polished chrome stand.If you don't want the stand—same price for Four Shakers!

MURPHY'S

At F and G, Between 12th and 13th

Ham That Has Everything That Ham Can Have—

Smoked Ham

BONELESS

AND

ROLLED

Entirely Skinless

Sugar Cured

30c
-lb.Packed by
KROGMAN
OR CUDAHY
Carnival Sale FeatureReady to fry, bake or boil. Each ham in a cellophane wrapper. One of these hams will furnish your entire family with ample hot or cold meals.★ NOTE: 2-DAY PRICES ONLY ★
★ MAIN FLOOR—CENTER—COUNTER 19 ★

ROYAL LINOLEUM CO.

Corner 11th & H N.W.

DIst. 7410

A Complete Floor of Armstrong's Inlaid for Any Bathroom or KitchenUp to and including 10 sq. yds.
LAID AND CEMENTED$12.85
Complete

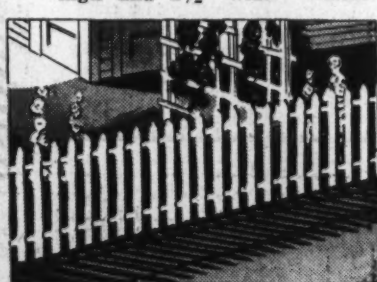

A Complete Job—No Extras!

This low price includes everything. Armstrong's Inlaid (choice from over 1939 patterns cut from full rolls) Royal—laid to your floor with Armstrong's cement and brass at doors
FREE. NO EXTRAS! Every Royal-laid floor is unconditionally guaranteed.Our Estimator will cheerfully submit samples and measure your room WITHOUT COST. District 7410-8342

HECHINGER CO.

Four Great Building Material Stores
MAIN OFFICE DOWNTOWN BRIGHTWOOD ANACOSTIA
12th & H N.E. 6th & C S.W. 5925 Ga. Ave. 1905 Nichols Ave.

Fence Pickets

Best quality, enduring Red Cedar. 4 ft. high and 2½" wide. Gothic design.Phone Orders
ATlantic
1400
•
Today
& Sat.Bring us a rough sketch of the place you wish to enclose and let us work out your exact needs.We Recommend Reasonable Carpenters for Any Work6½c
Each
Delivered

★ Largest Selection in Washington of Wooden Garden Furniture

HOFFMANN

UPHOLSTERERS and DECORATORS
CO. 5116 Custom Built Furniture CO. 5116

Quality Upholstering Specials

★ Orders given now will be stored and delivered at any later date—Without Extra Charge ★We'll Rebuild a 2 PIECE SUITECompletely reupholster it, with new springs, in cushions etc.,
where needed, for only $32.75.
Choose from a varied selection of materials, including tapestry, damaask and fringe, in your own home.Complete
With Labor $32.75
and Materials
Any Fireside Chair, $12.75Personalized
SLIP COVERSCut to fit directly on your furniture in your own home and finished with box pleats and French seams. Colorful selection of summer fabrics;
floral and chevrons included; all durable.2-Piece $17.95
Set CompleteOur estimator will cheerfully submit samples and give you expert advice WITHOUT COST—CO. 5116

MANHATTAN

AUTO & RADIO CO.

1706 Seventh Street N.W.

$3 for Your Old Tire

$3 FOR YOUR OLD TIRE regardless of condition when turned in on any new tire.
Choose from 5 nationally famous tire brands.Atlas, Goodrich
Commodore
Commerce
PerfectionNO MONEY
DOWN
Free MountingPay as Little as
50c
A WEEK

THE PIANO SHOP

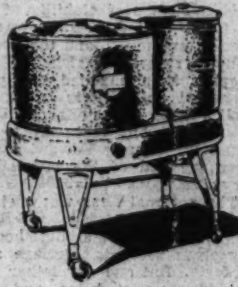

1015 Seventh St. N.W.

Republic 1590

Brand New Latest Model

Washers and Dryers

Regularly $99.50

$69.50Large size standard make quality spin dry machines that wash, dry and blue your clothes without your hands having to touch water. Have handy side controls. We agreed not to mention the maker's name but you'll recognize them
as machines that sell at
$99.50! CALL REPUB-
LIC 1590.10 DAYS TRIAL
Pay $1 Weekly

MURPHY'S

At F and G, Between 12th and 13th

Don't Say "Chicken"—Say "College Hill"

All "College Hill" chicken is cleaned and drawn—our own Plymouth Rock poultry, raised by ourselves.
A Carnival Sale Feature!

LEGS & BREASTS

47c
(When Bought Together)

FRYERS & BAKERS

33c
lb.There are a number of reasons why "College Hill" chicken is Washington's largest selling—but most important, it's because it's tastier, better—in every way!★ MAIN FLOOR—CENTER—COUNTER 19 ★
★ NOTE: 2-DAY PRICES ONLY! ★

HUGH REILLY CO.

Since 1888

Paint for every Surface... Glass for Every Purpose
1334 New York Ave. N.W. Phone NA. 1703

Billings-Chapin

Famous

DECK PAINT

OR

RAPID DRYING ENAMEL

Regularly
$3.50 Gal.$3.15
gal.An extremely durable deck paint which dries hard overnight with a smooth, pleasing lustre that withstands washing, scrubbing and the most severe conditions of wear and weather, or, a tough, smooth, rapid-drying enamel for exterior or interior floors of wood, concrete, stone, plaster or metal.

Billings-Chapin Drival Clear

Reduced from $2.50 Gal.

Drival Clear, a damp-proofing and stain-proofing material for limestone sandstone, artstone, concrete, stucco and brick. Does not change color or texture of surface to which it is applied.$1.99
gal.

MORTON'S

Seventh & D Streets N.W.

Morton's sells the newest fashions for CASH ONLY... no charges, no mail or phone orders, no deliveries!Clearance! 340 Better RAYON

Dresses

$1Spun Rayons Crepes
Bernberg Prints CombinationsA wide variety of early summer dresses that will cause a veritable riot. Both one and two-piece styles in smart prints or solid colors.

Sides 12 to 20, 22 to 32.

OPEN NIGHTS
Sat. and Thurs. 'Til 9 P.M.

Morton's Air-Cooled Basement

SPORT CENTER

Where Sportsmen Meet

8th and D Sts. N.W.

REpublic 2545

Washington's Largest Official Boy Scout Headquarters

35c and 50c Grade, Tough Cover

Bilt-Rite Golf Balls

Not re-washed, not re-painted, but newly re-covered!

Friday & Saturday Only

15c
EACH
($1.75 Dozen)Centers of standard grade 35c and 10c golf balls, re-covered with 10 yards of new rubber thread to insure liveliness, then recovered with tough balata. Real savings for the beginner and average golfer. Just the balls to fill up your practice bag, so stock up now for the rest of the season.Reg. $3 Hummel Tennis Racket
Restrings Job $1.75Open Evenings 'til 7 P.M.
Open Saturday 'til 10 P.M.

Parolee Held In Abduction Of Md. Pair

Hood College Girl, Escort Waylaid at Gunpoint; Ex-Inmate Of Asylum Confesses

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Hagerstown, Md., June 8.—A 29-year-old paroled mental patient confessed to police here today that he had kidnapped Miss Margaret Simmons, Hood College student, set her free after six hours, and then forced her companion to drive all night, hands tied to the steering wheel, to Shepherdstown, Va.

Sheriff Joseph D. Baker identified the prisoner as Joseph R. Smith, father of three children. He is estranged from his wife.

Miss Simmons and her escort, John C. Doub, 21, of Hagerstown, reported they were waylaid by the man last night while driving 3 miles south of Hagerstown. He threatened them with a gun, police said, and then forced the young couple to drive him "over 200 miles" on west Maryland roads.

The girl finally was released, unharmed, within a quarter mile of the home of her uncle.

A four-State police lookout went out immediately, and the parolee, still seated beside Doub in the latter's machine, was apprehended several hours later at Shepherdstown.

300 Churchmen To Meet Monday At Hood College

Frederick, Md., June 8 (P).—Preparations neared completion today for the arrival Monday of delegates from four States to the Synod of the Potomac of the Evangelical and Reformed church.

About 300 ministers and elders from Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania and North Carolina are expected to attend the Synod to be held at Hood College. It will close Thursday.

The conference, first of a series to be held at the college this summer, will open Monday night with an address by the Rev. Edwin M. Sando, of Hanover, Pa., retiring president of the Synod.

There are nine classes in the Synod, which extends from central Pennsylvania to North Carolina. It has 213 ministers, 228 congregations and a membership of 72,912.

Kathryn Barnes Crowned Queen of Potato Festival

Tasley, Va., June 8 (P).—Miss Kathryn Lawson Barnes, of Pocomoke City, Md., was crowned queen tonight of the fifth Eastern Shore Potato Blossom Festival.

The comely brunette, wearing her crown as "Queen Eastern Shore V," ruled the festival which drew a throng estimated at more than 4,000 for a colorful pageant tonight.

Herbert L. Rhodes, of Baltimore, State commander of the Maryland American Legion, officiated.

C. E. Wright Heads Va. Auto Dealers

Richmond, Va., June 8 (P).—The Virginia Automotive Trade Association at a meeting here yesterday reorganized with a nucleus of 101 dealers from throughout the State, heard several talks on various phases of the auto distributing business and elected the following officers:

C. E. Wright, Norfolk, president; John P. Hughes, Lynchburg, vice president; T. W. Campbell, Richmond, secretary, and W. Ashby Jones 3d, Richmond, treasurer.

Stanley H. Horner, of Washington, president of the National Automobile Dealers Association, told the meeting it was necessary for dealers to have a strong State organization because of proposed legislation likely to affect the industry.

3 Va. Military Schools Win U. S. Merit Rating

Staunton, Va., June 8.—The War Department has announced that Staunton Military Academy here, Augusta Military Academy, Fort Defiance and Fishburne Military School, Waynesboro, again have merited the honor military school rating, based on plant equipment and military training inspection given each institution in the early spring. The Secretary of War has sent his congratulations to each school.

Chambersburg Group Against Daylight Time

Special Dispatch to The Post.
Chambersburg, Pa., June 8.—Confusion resulting from the town being partly on daylight saving time and standard time resulted today in the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce petitioning the borough council to rescind its action of several weeks ago, fixing hours under daylight saving time. The committee had sponsored the move to have daylight time instituted.

Hunter Named Director Of Morgan Tomato Fete

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., June 8.—Jack M. Hunter, president of the Young Men's Business Club, has been named director of the third annual Morgan County Tomato Festival, to be held here as usual over the Labor Day holiday, it was announced today, in connection with opening of headquarters.

Parochial School Graduates in Nearby Virginia

The graduates of St. Charles Catholic School, Clarendon, Va., received their diplomas at commencement exercises held last night in the church. Front row (left to right)—The Rev. John A. Curran, pastor; Mary Virginia O'Brien, Viola Haller, Mary Frances Deppert, Katherine McCaffrey, Dorothy Nielsen, Barbara A. Bowers, Gerard Nielsen. Rear (left to right)—Teresa Burkley, Teresa Miller, Alice Murphy, Bernice Haller, Barbara Ann Lambert. Third row—Robert Betzler, Eugene Mulligan, Joseph Metzger, Howard Shaw, Thomas Burke. Back row—Louis Dougherty, William Hall, Charles Hall, Stadden Marshall and Joseph Madigan.

The graduates of St. Charles Catholic Sisters of the Holy Cross, Alexandria, Va., left to right (seated)—Mary Springman, Helen Struder, Rose Mary Weiners, Florence Burke, Kathleen Cousins, Mary Rita Greene, Helene Costello and Marie Hayden. Rear (left to right)—Helen Schelhorn, Agnes Vezina, Jessie Webster, Constant Thomas, Robert Montgomery, Cecilia Bond, Jean McCaffrey, Ann Randolph and Ellen Greenleaf.

Students at St. Agnes School, Alexandria, Va., who graduated Wednesday, are (front row, left to right)—Agatha Walker, Nancy Vest, Mary Simmons and Patricia Karig. Standing—Mary Plaskitt, Grace Richards, Sarah Marshall, Lela Payne and Alice Bryan.

Dr. Jenkins Speaks at Devitt

Dr. John G. Jenkins, of the University of Maryland, was the speaker last night at the commencement exercises of Devitt Preparatory School, 2935 Upton street northwest.

The 43 graduates were:

James Allen Andrews, Bernard Bennett, Steven Bennett, Wallace Macanley Booth, Robert M. Burr, John M. Collins, Francis J. Coppola, William H. Craven, John P. Crawford, Charles A. Dravo, Edward J. Dravo, Milton C. Dunn, Milton T. Fabisio, Arthur E. Farquhar, Max J. Fischer, Jack Fishman, Lewis H. Guntzler, Jr., William H. Hahn, Leo J. Holland, Arin S. Kaufman, James J. Kirby, E. James L. M. Logan, Bernard Sidney Lust, Edward P. Mathison, Bernard Kiers Molekani, Daniel Lejo Morris, Donald E. Murray, Don Dimick Williams, Robert Jeff Korman, Warren King O'Hall, Sam E. Pitzer, E. Charles P. Ruppert, George E. Ruppert, David A. Shonard, Morris E. Shaw, Jackson A. Steinmetz, Charles Ingram Stanton, Jr., Leonard P. Stanton, John A. Stevens, Edward A. Thibault, Robert G. Truett, Pauline Utriana, Marion Jack Walker.

Mount St. Mary's Confers Degrees on 72, Record Class

Emmitsburg, Md., June 8 (P).—Mount St. Mary's College in its 121st commencement conferred degrees yesterday on 72 graduates, the largest class in its history.

Honorary degrees of "doctor of laws" were conferred upon the Right Rev. Eugene J. Connelly, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Washington, D. C., and James J. Igoe, New York City, a member of the class of '06.

The Most Rev. Eugene J. McGuinness, Bishop of Raleigh, N. C., addressed the graduates and presided over the exercises. Three surviving members of the class of 1899 were present to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their graduation. They were Dr. Francis F. Greenwell, Leonardtown; Rev. Father John S. Sullivan, Albany, R. I., and James G. Swarback, New Orleans, La.

Doctor Is Held In Poison Deaths

Philadelphia, June 8 (P).—Dr. Horace D. Perlman, 52, physician, was held without bail with seven other defendants in the Eastern insurance murders case today after Police Capt. Kelly testified he had admitted taking $300 for falsifying a death certificate.

Arrested a month ago, he was accused of "furnishing poison and obtaining prospects" for the mass murder plotters.

Mrs. Rose Smigel Shenkman, chicken store proprietor free under bail during investigation of her first husband's death, was exonerated. "No poison was found in his body," Kelly testified.

Legion Head Urges U. S. to Set Example

Va. Members Hear Stephen Chadwick At Harrisonburg

By the Associated Press.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 8.—America can make its greatest contribution to the cause of peace in the world by making the success of its own form of government a shining example for other peoples to follow, Stephen Chadwick, Seattle, Wash., national commander of the American Legion, declared here last night in an address at the banquet of Rockingham Post of the American Legion, attended by Legionnaires from all parts of the Old Dominion.

Commander Chadwick said the American Legion insists upon an adequate national defense so that "we can meet the aggressor before he invades our citadel of freedom."

Commander Chadwick was introduced by Wilmer L. O'Flaherty, Richmond, Virginia national executive committee member, who said Chadwick has returned to Virginia for the twenty-fifth reunion of his class at Washington and Lee University.

Virginia Commander Fred W. Parks, of Abingdon, and other officers of the Legion, were introduced by Dr. George Williams, commander of Rockingham Post.

W. E. Ellifritz, of Strasburg, was elected Seventh District commander today to succeed Harold L. Schuer, of Berryville. Dr. George A. Williams, of Harrisonburg, was named vice commander. Robert J. Lane, of Shenandoah, was named delegate to the national convention and E. L. Klingstein, of Harrisonburg, was named alternate.

Wilmer O'Flaherty, of Richmond, national executive committee member, told the Legionnaires that America should care first for its own underprivileged children before caring for others, and that if this country opens its doors to refugees they should come from all nations instead of from only one.

Truck Driver Shot By D. C. Motorist After Collision

A Luray, Va., truck driver was shot through the chest last night by the operator of a Washington car, with which he collided 8 miles west of Warrenton, on route 211. The driver, Raymond Hughes, 24, had been helped from his wrecked truck, and was sitting on the running board, when, according to witnesses, he driver of the other car shot him through the chest. The wounded man is in Fauquier County Hospital in serious condition, and the Washington man and his woman companion are being held in Culpeper jail.

Hopkins May Buy Farm in Iowa

Secretary of Commerce Hopkins will attend the Grinnell (Iowa) Alumni reunion tomorrow and probably remain for commencement exercises on Monday, an aide said last night. Hopkins, a native of Sioux City, Iowa, was graduated from Grinnell and in 1935 was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree there. His aide said Hopkins was "seriously considering" buying a farm in Iowa and probably would study the matter further on his visit.

Lacked Money to Wed, Youth Kills Himself

Welch, W. Va., June 8 (P).—State Police Sergeant C. S. Wilson said today Thurman Schreder, 22, of Rockfield, whose wedding was set for July 10, killed himself because he lacked the money to marry. Wilson said Schreder left a note that "I would rather go this way than to stay here."

Headquarters for Trusses Elastic Stockings Anklets from $2.00 up (Lasts All Night) Liggett's, 14th & H Sts. N.W.

UNION SHOP PAINTING? For Quality Work SHILLIN - CHALDERER AT 1940 Bight Yards

LOANS 73 years of buying, selling and lending on diamonds, jewelry, etc. Liberal Loans at Lowest Possible Rates. CASH FOR OLD GOLD (Government License) E. HEIDENHEIMER Established 1866 LOAN OFFICE 506 K St. N.W. WASH. STORE 1215 H St. N.W. ATLA, VA.

RUGS 9x12 or 8x10 Scoured or Shampooed 2.75 Repairing FIREPROOF STORAGE Full Insurance Protection Capital Carpet Cleaning Co. 1216 Mt. Olivet Rd. N.W. 2985

Writers on Royal Train Entertained At Reception

Visiting newspaper correspondents on the royal train were entertained last night at a reception given in their honor by the Oversea Writers' Club, composed of former American correspondents in Europe, at the Mayflower Hotel. Also present were members of the Women's National Press Club. A luncheon was given earlier in honor of George F. Steward, chief press liaison officer for the royal party, and Stephen T. Early, White House secretary, at the Willard Hotel.

Cleaspring High Awards Diplomas

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cleaspring, Md., June 8.—A class of 35 graduates of the Cleaspring High School last night received diplomas at annual commencement exercises, which were featured by the awarding of the alumni prize for the highest scholarship over the four-year period to Miss Mildred Irvin. These graduates received diplomas:

Charles C. Downs, Victor A. Metrick, Jean I. Charles, Helen F. Correll, Ruth J. Devereaux, Charlotte J. Faith, Dorothy J. Grove, James P. Hull, Mildred V. Irvin, Virginia I. James, Kathryn A. Reid, Lella E. Starlinger, Dorothy J. Toston, Leroy E. Funn, Hilda I. Gerhart, Lavada L. Hull, Mildred L. Hoover, Julia T. Haulissa, Annette G. Miller, Nancy C. Robinson, Mildred V. Wishard, James W. Beard, Archie L. Hopkins, Fred T. Mason, Leola A. Tedrick, Jacob R. Truett, Earl S. Truett, Pearl A. Johnson, Rosemary C. Hollister, Charlotte Martin, Mildred M. Shupe, William F. Krieh, Leroy V. Shank, Daniel K. Seibert and Robert L. Vance.

Collections Are Good, Methodist Women Told

Westminster, Md., June 8 (P).—A report that 20 of 22 church branches had subscribed their quota of funds devoted to world service interests of the church brightened today's sessions of the Methodist Protestant women's eleventh annual convention.

The reports were made by delegates representing churches in all sections of the United States. The women, attending a four-day conference at Western Maryland College, held morning, afternoon and night services today.

$119,599,918 Asked To Meet Crop Losses

President Roosevelt requested Congress yesterday to appropriate $119,599,918 to cover losses and expenses sustained by the Commodity Credit Corporation, for the year which ended March 31, on crop loans, chiefly on cotton, wheat and corn.

Such annual adjustment of the corporation's fund is provided by an act of Congress. In addition to losses arising in loan operations, the items covers warehouse charges and other factors.

HAHN 14th & G 7th & K 3212 14th 4483 Conn. Ave

Visit the New Hahn 7th & K Store

FLORSHEIM Summer Shoes GET DOWN TO BUSINESS

If you're one of the many better-dressed men who wear cool Summer shoes for business, then it's more important than ever that you get Florsheim quality! Florsheims will look better longer and cost less per day of wear.

Genuine Buschshin Styles, $10 $8.75 Most Regular Styles

1,500 View Graduations In Arlington

Rev. G. J. Grewenow Gives Invocation: Students Honored

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST
Clarendon, Va. Tel. OXford 644.

Graduation exercises of Washington-Lee High School were held last night. More than 1,500 persons saw Superintendent Fletcher Kemp present diplomas to the class numbering 237.

Exercises opened with invocation by the Rev. George J. Grewenow, pastor of the Faith Lutheran Church. The address of welcome was delivered by the Rev. Walter F. Wolf, member of the county school board. Nancy Green delivered the salutatory.

Dr. W. A. Keesee, chaplain at the American University of Washington, made the commencement address.

Honor Students Listed

Proceeding the presentation of diplomas by Superintendent Kemp, Principal Claude M. Richmond announced honor students as follows: Helen Betty Duckson, Mary Nancy Green, Dora Kristine Oddson, Emma Jeanne Maiden, Margaret Elizabeth Bixler, Don Abbott Gaddis, Virginia Lee Middlethorn, Margaret Virginia Bennett, Ruth Mildred Hallock, William Eugene Payne, Jr., Elva Samson Davton, Elizabeth Mary Ann Poes, Edna Florence Wehrli, Elizabeth Virginia Andersen, Charlotte Henrietta King, Virginia Gertrude Markward, Carol Elena Lewis, Ruth Dean Brown, Eleanor Leeta Proctor, Charlotte Pauline Moore, Grace Elizabeth Tupper, Richard Alden Payne and Judith Swift.

Those receiving medals were: Mathematics and science—William Payne, Jr., given by the District of Columbia Chapter of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Alumni Association; citizenship medal—class of 1934 to Dora Oddson and Robert Howell; science medal—Agnes Humfeld; mechanical drawing medal—Roy Teller; second semester—Glendon Justice; medal for perfect attendance from the first grade went to Charles Walker. The list of scholarships, incomplete because many are not awarded until after July 1, follows:

George Washington University—Dora Oddson and Burton Betts; Benjamin Franklin University—Judith Swift; University of Virginia—Don Gaddis; Temple University—Virginia Middlethorn; scholarship offered by the Soroptimist Club of Arlington County goes to Ruth Hallock; Capital City College—half tuition—Virginia Markward and Doris Wark.

Diplomas were presented by County Superintendent Fletcher Kemp to the class of 237 students. The valedictory address was delivered by Dora Oddson and Helen Duckson.

St. Charles School Rites

Clarendon.—Graduating exercises of St. Charles Catholic School were held last night before more than 500 persons.

The Rev. Kenneth M. Rizer delivered the invocation. The address to the graduates was delivered by the Rev. E. F. Talbot, of the Catholic University in Washington. Diplomas were presented by the Rev. John A. Curran. Those receiving diplomas were:

Mary Virginia O'Brien, Viola Haller, Mary Frances Deppert, Katherine McCaffrey, Dorothy Nielsen, Barbara Ann Bowers, Gerard Nielsen, Teresa Burkley, Teresa Miller, Alice Murphy, Bernice Haller, Barbara Ann Lambert, Robert Betzler, Eugene Mulligan, Joseph Metzger, Howard Shaw, Thomas Burke, Louis Dougherty, William Hall, Charles Hall, Stadden Marshall and Joseph Madigan.

Barbara Ann Lambert received a scholarship to Holy Trinity College.

Promotion Class

Arlington.—The Rev. Peter Marshall, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church in Washington, will deliver the address to the second promotion class, numbering 114, at the Thomas Jefferson Junior High School today at 10 a. m.

The principal, Charles J. Walsh, presented medals offered by Thomas Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to the following students:

History: Barbara Baker; citizenship medals, Reed Halsted and Betty Klees.

Movie Party for Post Carriers in Arlington County

Post Staff Photo.

Post carrier boys in Arlington County, Va., were given a movie party yesterday at the Ash-ton Theater, Clarendon, by R. Wade Pearson, theater manager. The "gang" includes Bill Bland, Clyde Curtis, Elmer Curtis, Charles Mosser, Robert Marshall, Bob Wright, Leroy Gillette, Bruce Harney, Bob Hutchinson, Lawrence Glass, Marshall Thompson, Eugene Taylor, Estan Taylor, Eldridge Taylor, Stewart Bland, Hugh McCaffrey, Carlton Shoemaker, Rafiand Miller, George Rossan, Edward Bland, John Evans, Lewis Crossan, Lester Wilson, Ray Wren and Irvin Fox.

Falls Church School Board Rejects Survey

To Continue to Operate as Separate Entity, Despite Report

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST

P. O. BOX 344, Fairfax, Va.

Phone Falls Church 2883-M

The Falls Church Town School Board "will ignore the entire report of the State school survey committee and continue with its regular operation of the town school system," Samuel H. Styles, clerk of the board, declared yesterday.

Falls Church now operates as a separate school district from Fairfax County, maintaining both an elementary and high school. The survey committee appointed by the State superintendent of public education, Dr. Sidney B. Hall, made no objection to the elementary set-up, but termed the high school plant obsolete. The committee suggested the town should give up its identity as a separate school district and not attempt to build a new high school.

Styles stated yesterday the town school board would do all "physically and financially possible to better conditions at the Jefferson High School." When the survey was originally requested by his board, Styles declared it was intended only to cover the high school situation and not the whole system.

Hermidon.—The Woman's Missionary Society of the Woolf Memorial Methodist Church will hold a rummage sale today and tomorrow in the old Cooper Building on Main street. The sale will open at 9 a. m. Tomorrow, at 5 p. m., an ice cream and cake sale will be held in connection with the rummage sale.

Miss Estelle Holden, Miss Charlotte Chamblin, Mrs. Richard Kolliver, Mrs. J. K. Linkins, Mrs. Agnes Shaw, Mrs. Paul Powell and Mrs. J. H. Broome have charge of the sale.

Falls Church.—The Falls Church Band Association has elected Thomas Prober, Albert Lester, Capt. John F. Bethune, Charles Fenderson, W. A. Fray, Miss Mary Alice Anker, and James O. Martin as directors.

Permanent officers will be elected later this month. J. O. Martin is serving as temporary chairman. The next open-air concert of the band will be held on June 28.

Fairfax.—Carroll Norfolk, president of the Fairfax High School Student Body, was awarded the honor for loyalty, leadership and scholarship at the graduation exercises of the school. His name will be inscribed on the school plaque.

Vesper Breckinridge, of Oakton, was presented with the Fairfax Rotary Club award for improvement, and Wallace Jett, of Lorton, was given the Readers Digest scholarship award.

The annual citizenship medal given by the Fairfax County Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, was awarded to Helen Keyton, of Burke.

Cameron.—Principal G. C. Cox, of the Lee-Jackson High School, has announced the following awards to members of the graduating class: Hildegard Herfurth, award for loyalty, leadership and scholarship. Her name will be inscribed on the school plaque. Anna Scott was awarded the annual citizenship medal given by the Fairfax County Chapter, D. A. R.

Scholarships were given to Mary Griffiths, Temple Secretarial School; Hazel Bunce, Wood's Commercial School; Harvey Clapp, Emory and Henry College, and Albert Pettit, Textile Industrial Institute, Spartanburg, S. C.

STEINWAY PIANO
An exceptionally beautiful new Console type. Antiquing tone quality, volume, sweetness. Complete system.
$550
DROOP'S • 1300 G

RUG Beauty Our Duty
CLEANED AND STORED
Call Mr. Pyle NA. 1337
SANITARY CARPET &
RUG CLEANING CO.
106 INDIANA AVE.

Tin Roofs Wear Long If Painted

Tin roofs are one of the longest-wearing types on the market and offer no fire hazard. Adequate care of a metal roof will prolong its life up to a half century or longer. And a large part of the care is the application of good quality paint at least every three years—often if the coating shows signs of peeling before that time.

Before painting, clean the roof of loose, scaling paint with a wire brush—or even steel wool or sandpaper. Then wipe over the surface with turpentine. There is no good reason why a tin roof must be painted red. It may be any other color—even white, which reflects heat and would thus tend to make the interior of the house cooler. Any type of exterior house paint or metal paint is satisfactory for coating roofs if applied over a priming coat of red lead, zinc chromate or zinc dust.

At least three coats are recommended, applied in thin coats which dry for a full week before the next coat is applied. A new metal roof should be left to weather for two or three months before it is painted. This will allow the grease resulting from the tin plating process to be weathered away. Such weathering also serves to slightly etch the metal, enabling the paint to obtain better adhesion.

Old Plumbing Is a Health Peril

Plumbing of many older homes is obsolete and inefficient, introducing the family to a health menace and at the same time causing dissatisfaction with the home.

Owners of homes which were built 10 or 15 years ago should check the following points in their plumbing systems:

1. Clogged drains needing attention.
2. Leaky faucets requiring washers, tightening or new parts.
3. Defective flush valves in water closets requiring repairs or replacement.
4. Covering for water pipes or

5. Installing refrigerator drain-pipe and trap to replace pan.
6. Installing additional shut-off cocks and valves.
7. Installing water-heating equipment, water softeners, etc.
8. Replacing worn-out piping with more modern type.
9. Replacing old or worn-out fixtures with newer types.
10. Providing additional bathroom or lavatory and toilet.
11. Providing toilet and shower in basement.

Use Corner Cupboards

Attractive and utilitarian, the dining room corner cupboard is fast becoming an essential part of the modern home.

RUG CLEANING

For twenty years our business has been to look after the Great Rug in Washington—our superior service costs you no more.

All Rugs Insured
Repairing—Storage

Nazarian Bros.

1221 G St. NW. Dist. 3800
Phone: P. St. Near 24th N.W.

BROOKS

1109 G STREET

Floral Print

Chiffon Voile

in a smart

Button-Front Style

Gossamer sheer chiffon voile—to lure every summer breeze. Pastel floral print on a white background—to make you look cool and lovely. Soft unpressed pleats front and back—and done in the popular button-front style that is easy to wash and iron. Dainty lace accents. Sizes 12 to 28.

7.95

Summer Colony—Second Floor

Push the button—release a curl

A FINISHED CURL IN FIVE SECONDS

Presto and glorious curls are yours! The Push-Button Curler for the Push-Button Age. Indeed Presto-Matic does work like Magic! The most economical lifetime purchase your money can buy.

PRESTO-MATIC
A U T O M A T I C
BOB PIN CURLER

Now Being Demonstrated at MURPHY'S BOB PIN/IN
50c

At 7 & G Sts. between 12th and 13th N.W. COMPLETE

GIVE THE SILENT
Gas Refrigerator
THE "EAR TEST"

30 DAYS
FREE TRIAL

Electrolux is the Only Permanently Silent Automatic Refrigerator

Listen—and you'll be convinced of the complete silence of the Electrolux Gas Refrigerator. Behind this permanent silence are a host of other advantages not to be found in any other automatic refrigerator on the market. This different refrigerator operates without a single moving part in its freezing system—a tiny gas flame takes the place of all "machinery". Because there are no moving parts, there can be no noise, no friction, no wear. This means continued low operating cost and more years of dependable, carefree service.

Try the Gas Refrigerator for 30 days—at no cost or obligation to yourself. Any responsible person can just "say the word" and a brand new 1939 Electrolux will be installed right away. If you like it you can buy it at the lowest prices in Washington's history. Why not investigate this unusual offer by dropping into our showrooms today!

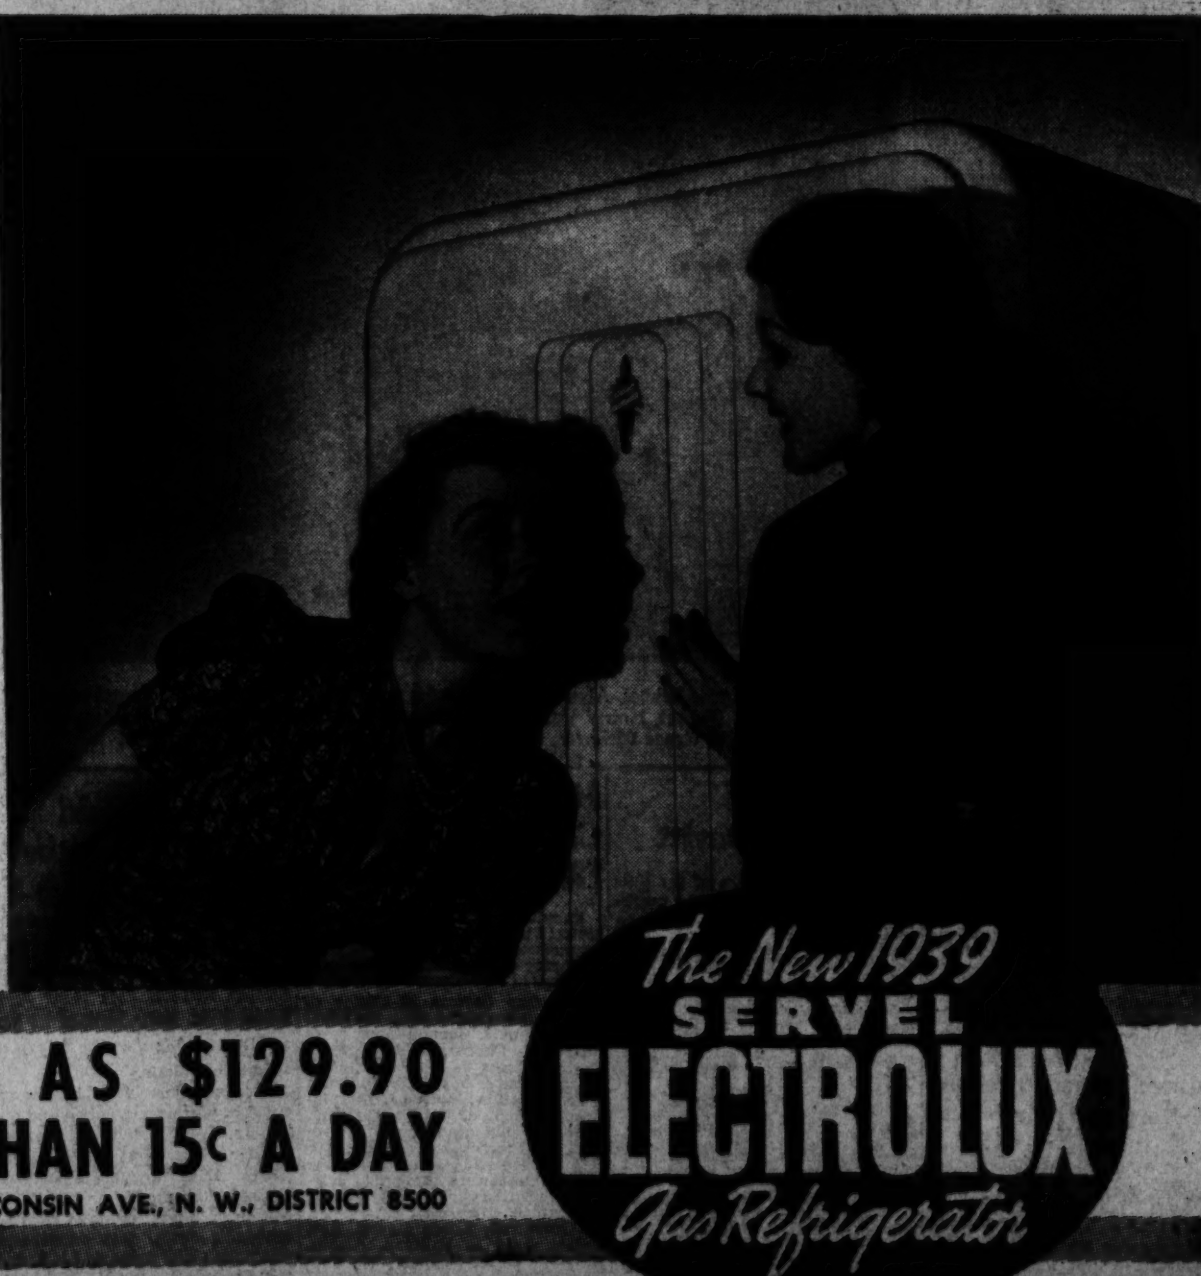

More Than 23,000 Washington Users Know its Greater Savings

The Gas Refrigerator costs just as little to run after years of service as on the day it is installed because its freezing system has no moving parts to wear. This saving over the years is in addition to your savings on foods through better protection, left-overs saved and quantity buying.

Whether you are buying your first automatic refrigerator or replacing your present one—you'll save more for more years with the Gas Refrigerator-Electrolux.

BUY ONE FOR AS LITTLE AS $129.90
NO DOWN PAYMENT • LESS THAN 15c A DAY

WASHINGTON GAS LIGHT CO. • 411 10TH ST., N. W. • 1339 WISCONSIN AVE., N. W., DISTRICT 8500

The New 1939
SERVEL
ELECTROLUX
Gas Refrigerator

COMPARE The AGE!
COMPARE The QUALITY
COUNTRY CLUB

21 1/2 Years Old

35c Half Pint

THE OVERBROOK CO.
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Bishop Tucker Speaks at Graduation

Virginia Seminary Holds 116th Annual Exercises

The Washington Post Bureau

907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.

Phone Times 1791

Delivery Service, Phone Area 447

The Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States, delivered an address at the opening of the 116th annual commencement exercises of the Episcopal Theological Seminary of Virginia yesterday morning in the Seminary Chapel.

The address to the graduating class was made by the Right Rev. Bevelyn Dandridge Tucker, bishop of Ohio, brother of the presiding bishop.

Members of the senior class are John S. Armfield, Fayetteville, N. C.; Diocese of East Carolina; John R. Bentley, Augusta Ga., Diocese of Georgia; Charles E. Berger and Charles W. Carnan, Jr., both of Baltimore, and the Diocese of Maryland; James P. Clements, Washington, D. C.; Diocese of Texas; James R. Davidson, Jr., St. Louis, Diocese of Missouri; Walton W. Davis, Macon Ga., Diocese of Atlanta; C. F. Fletcher, Jr., Raduach, Diocese of Kentucky; R. M. C. Griswold, Wilmington, Diocese of Delaware; Francis W. Hayes, Jr., Austin, Diocese of Texas; William Hamilton Jefferson, the Rosemont, Pa., Diocese of Pennsylvania; Howard Albert Johnson, Long Beach, Cal., Diocese of Los Angeles; Haskin V. Little, Bristol, Va., Diocese of Southwest Virginia; Grant A. Morrill, Jr., Worcester, Mass., Diocese of Western Massachusetts; William Penn Price, Princeton, N. C., Diocese of North Carolina; R. B. Roberts, Boston, Diocese of Massachusetts; Alfred B. Seaborn, Lee Heights, Va., Diocese of Virginia; Richard U. Smith, of Washington, Diocese of Washington; D. C. Edwards, Cabot, S. C., Diocese of South Carolina; George F. Tittman, West Chester, Diocese of Missouri; and Stephen C. Walke, Hagerstown, Md., Diocese of Maryland.

A meeting of the alumni was held at noon yesterday, followed by the alumni dinner, presided over by the president of the group, the Rev. Dr. W. Russell Bowie, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, New York City. Speakers included Dean Noble C. Powell, of Washington Cathedral, secretary of the association, and the Rt. Rev. Frederick D. Goodwin, D. D., Coadjutor Bishop of the Diocese of Virginia.

Ordination service at 10:30 this morning will conclude the exercises.

Parking Is Banned

Police Captain John S. Arnold has announced there will be no parking permitted on Washington street from noon today until after the King and Queen of England have passed through the city. They are expected to pass over the Mount Vernon Memorial Boulevard in Alexandria, between 245 and 315 today. A few minutes before that time, the Washington street will be closed to traffic and will be diverted by way of Patrick and Henry streets.

All members of the Police Department will be on duty, and also 200 soldiers are expected to be assigned to duty in the city, and 100 volunteer firemen will assist.

Merchants of the city will close their places of business from 2:30 until 3:30 o'clock, and city offices will close also.

To Celebrate Anniversary

Friendship Council, No. 28, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of its organization with a banquet and dance tonight in Odd Fellows Hall, starting at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Flora Courtney is general chairman and Charles M. Robey will be master of ceremonies. The Rev. Norman Roberts, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, will give the invocation, and a number of national and State officers will be present, also members of the fraternity from Clarendon and Occoquan councils.

To Graduate 174

George Washington High School, Henry T. Moncre, principal, will graduate a class of 174 this evening with a program starting at 8:15 in the school stadium, if weather permits, or in the school auditorium. The program is entirely a school affair, with no outside speaker.

Shenandoah Area Scout Camporee Will Open Today

Winchester, Va., June 8.—The first annual camporee for the Shenandoah area, Boy Scouts of America, will be held from Friday through Sunday at the Priest's Field, on the Opequon Creek near Middletown, Va. Scout Executive Dan O. Henry, of this city, announced today.

Patrols from Winchester, Martinsburg, Berkeley Springs, Charles Town, Berryville, Boyce, Woodstock, Edinburg, New Market, Mount Jackson, Luray and Front Royal will participate.

Each of the patrols qualified for the area camporee by scoring 500 or more points in district camporees.

Through the courtesy of the Sidney Lust Theaters, coupons will be distributed, equal to five tickets for the best of 12-pound sacks of the

Washington FLOUR

which may be used in connection with the free baseball, basketball and glove sale, are being given by Wilkins-Rogers Milling Company.

Get a Washington Flour baseball circular from your grocer, which will give you all the details, and when you attend the Sidney Lust Theaters get one of these coupons.

The coupons are valid at the Lust Theaters—Boro, Bethesda, A. R. A. D., Hyattsville, Camco, Mt. Rainier, Milo, Rockville, and Marlboro.

Wilkins-Rogers Milling Co., Washington, D. C.

Rites Tomorrow For W. L. Minick At Waynesboro

Special Dispatch to The Post

Waynesboro, Va., June 8.—Funeral services for William L. Minick, prominent 74-year-old businessman of this area, will be held Saturday afternoon. Mr. Minick, active in Republican politics, died yesterday at Waynesboro Hospital after a heart attack.

At the time of his death he was a director of the First National Bank & Trust Co., the South Penn Power Co., the Waynesboro Ice and Cold Storage Co., and the Landis Machine Co. He was a member of the Y. M. C. A. and Waynesboro Hospital board. He was a member of the executive committee of the International Apple Shippers Association and at one time its president.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Virginia Blair Minick; a daughter, Mrs. John B. Gelsler; two sons, William, Jr., and H. Blair, of Waynesboro. Three sisters, Mrs. J. L. Doan, Mrs. John Washington, and Mrs. Bertha Brindle, all of Chambersburg, also survive.

8 State Bureaus To Move in Fall To Office Building

Baltimore, June 8 (P).—Eight State offices now located here will be moved into the new state office building at Annapolis when it is completed in September, the Board of Public Works announced today.

Those to be moved are the Bureau of Mines, State Game and Inland Fish Commission, Conservation Commission, Auditor, Board of Hairdressers and Beauty Cultivators, Board of Parole and Probation, livestock sanitary section of the Board of Agriculture, Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

The new building also will house the State comptroller's division, the director of the bureau of budget and procurement and a clinic and laboratory of the State health department.

Deputy State Comptroller Joseph O. C. McCusker said about $20,000 a year in rent will be saved by the new building.

Mother Seton's Will To Rest in Shrine At Emmitsburg

Special Dispatch to The Post

Frederick, Md., June 8.—A will that remained in the files of the register of wills' office here for the last 118 years was removed yesterday by an act of the Maryland Legislature.

An order was signed by judges of the Orphans' Court yesterday releasing the will of Mother Elizabeth Bayley Seton, founder of the Order of Sisters of Charity in the United States, and St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg, Md. Roy L. Leatherman, Frederick County register of wills, presented the document to W. Clinton McSherry, local attorney, representing the college.

The will was filed in the court-house here on June 11, 1821, and presumably was written in long-hand by the testator. It was released to St. Joseph's where it will be placed in a shrine to Mother Seton's memory. A certified copy of the will is being retained by the court.

The cause for canonization of Mother Seton is now before the Vatican.

Gets 51-Year Term In Triple Shooting

Stuart, Va., June 8 (P).—Convicted of slaying his father-in-law and wounding his wife's sister and mother last March, 51-year-old Patrick County farmer faced today a 51-year sentence in the State Penitentiary.

Judge J. T. Clement, of the Patrick County Circuit Court, sentenced Light to 40 years for the slaying of Jim Lawson, his father-in-law, and added ten years on a charge of shooting Mrs. Lizzie Beasley, an expectant mother, through the abdomen. A third charge of shooting Mrs. Jim Lawson in the lobe of her ear brought an additional year in prison.

Advertising Club Elects

Waynesboro, Pa., June 8.—John T. Bohn was elected president of the Waynesboro Advertising Club, succeeding Lee G. Treble, at the annual reorganization meeting Tuesday night. Other officers named are: first vice president, Herman W. Eichholz; second vice president, Howard E. Blinn; secretary, M. Oneta Sloanaker; treasurer, H. C. Gordon; directors, R. E. Long, S. S. Kauffman, Charles E. Wolf and D. G. Benedict.

Slogan for Safety

Richmond, Va., June 8 (P).—The State police safety slogan today: "An ounce of attention is better than a pound of remorse."

President Asks Zoning Leeway In Bethesda

Urges Commission To Make Exception For Medical Center

MONTGOMERY COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST

2513 Clark Ave., Silver Spring, Md.

Telephone Silver Spring 4300

Co-operation of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission in approving the general plans for the new Naval Medical Center in Bethesda was commended by President Roosevelt in a letter to George N. Palmer, commission chairman, it was revealed last night.

The commission's cooperation "is greatly appreciated by me," President Roosevelt wrote.

"While I realize that the tower designed for the main hospital building exceeds the zoning limit for the over-all height of buildings in the immediate vicinity," President Roosevelt added, "it is felt that your approval of the plan need not be embarrassing to the commission in the future. It is believed that an occasional building of outstanding design will add to, rather than detract from, an environment that is in the process of development."

The President declared it was the hope of the Government to make the contribution outstanding in every respect. "For this reason," he said, "great care was taken in the selection of the site on which the group of buildings is to be erected."

The site to which President Roosevelt referred is in the Rockville pike just west of Bethesda and opposite the new Cancer Research Laboratory now being erected by the United States Public Health Service.

Referring again to the local zoning situation, the President said: "I am heartily in accord with the principles of the zoning restrictions and you can count on my co-operation in regard to all commercial or private projects."

"We are looking forward to the completion of this much-needed Naval Medical Center with a great deal of enthusiasm and my hope is that its realization will prove as beneficial to the local community as I am sure it will be to the naval service."

Hobby Show Arrangements

Silver Spring.—Both the Interior Department and the United States Post Office will have exhibits at the hobby show in the Silver Spring Armory June 22, 23 and 24. It was announced yesterday by William F. Carlin, chairman of the committee of business and professional men sponsoring the show.

In addition to the Government displays, Carlin said, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will exhibit a model of its streamlined train.

The show is open to all boys in the Silver Spring area under 19 years of age and there will be no admission charge. Prizes will be given the best entry in each section of the hobby show, but no prizes will be given for commercial exhibits.

Entries from local boys are pouring in daily, Carlin said last night, and indicate that the most popular hobbies are stamp collecting, model airplanes, and motor boats and photography. The stamp section will have the assistance of Otho Rogers, of the philatelic division of the Postoffice Department, and Albert Kunze and Ralph Waldo Fawcett, well-known Washington newspaper stamp editors.

Gov. O'Connor to Speak

Bethesda.—Gov. O'Connor has been added to the list of speakers at the annual banquet of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, set for Thursday at the Manor Club, Carey R. Quinn, chairman of the banquet committee, reported last night.

Other speakers will include Representative Byron, of Maryland, and Representative Patrick, of Alabama. Musical program will be given by Maxwell Galloway, soprano, of Takoma Park, the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School band, and the Montgomery Blair High School glee club.

Mrs. Wright Wins Divorce

Rockville.—Judge Stedman Prescott in the Circuit Court at Rockville has granted to Mrs. Edith Nutter Wright, of Takoma Park, Md., an absolute divorce from William Wright and allowed her to resume her maiden name of Nutter. Mrs. Wright charged desertion.

Editor Leaves Rockville

Rockville.—Townsend Howes, for several years editor of the Montgomery County Sentinel, left yesterday for Dallas, Tex., with the expectation of locating permanently there. A sinus infection caused him to go to Texas in the hope that the change would benefit his health.

Hawkins Will Probated

Rockville.—The will of David Hawkins, of Montgomery County, which has been admitted to probate in the Orphans' Court at Rockville, makes a small cash bequest to his stepdaughter, Mary Dawson, and leaves the residue to his wife, Ella Hawkins, who is named executrix.

Forbush to Speak

Sandy Spring.—Bliss Forbush, executive secretary of the Baltimore League of the Society of Friends, will speak at the quarterly meeting of the Society of Friends of Baltimore, Fallston, Gunpowder and Sandy Spring in the Friends Meeting House, Sandy Spring, Saturday and Sunday. Saturday afternoon, the ministry and council will meet. Sunday morning there will be a meeting for worship. Forbush's address will follow a business session Sunday afternoon.

Estate Reported Sold For Dorchester Airbase

Baltimore, June 8 (P).—Creation of an airbase for amphibian planes at Taylors Island in Dorchester County, near the mouth of the Choptank River, was predicted today following the sale of a 900-acre estate to L. R. Gruman and Leon A. Swinbul, New York aviation company officials.

Wilbur D. Dashiell, Cambridge real estate broker who announced the sale, said he understood such a base was planned.

County Lifts Tax Rate

Easton, Md., June 8 (P).—County commissioners announced today that an anticipated increase of $30,000 in county expenses had made necessary a tax rate boost of 5 cents a $100 valuation, sending the rate to $1.12.

500 Elks Celebrate

Easton, Md., June 8 (P).—This was a festive and playing ground for 500 Elks today as members of the organization from all over the Eastern Shore gathered to install an Easton chapter of the lodge.

A Woman's New York

By Alice Hughes

New York, June 8.

WITH THE British royal party within the confines of America, the great pulse of New York continued to beat strongly. At the moment of going to press, the metropolis noted no dramatic moves to join us once more to the motherland.

However, the other day a pretty girl named Margaret Vyrner, of the Norma Hartnell salon of London, came to luncheon at the Gotham Hotel and showed a bunch of us fashionettes almost exact duplicates of the dresses her boss has made for Queen Elizabeth. The charming Miss Vyrner began by saying she could not speak of Her Majesty without a lump in her throat, so devoted is she to the Queen. So, speaking with a lump while we looked properly impressed, Margaret told us how her boss performs when Her Majesty is in the mood for a mess of new frocks. When the word reaches Hartnell, he locks himself up in a studio and sketches furiously all day.

Once the designs are in hand and the clothes bustled up, Hartnell makes a date at Buckingham Palace and then proceeds there with the sketches, the clothes and Patsy Quinn, his prettiest mannequin. Once in audience, Patsy models the garments while Norman shows Her Majesty the sketches. Those she chooses, he at once proceeds to make up for her. Of course, the models she selects must come out of his regular line at once, for no one must have the same dress as the Queen.

QUEEN ELIZABETH stands 5 feet 3, and is probably a "little woman's size 16," in our American trade lingo. Her skin, her throat and her neck are especially beautiful, and thus she looks extraordinarily well in décolleté dresses.

We girls were also interested in why Her Majesty always wears light shoes, which are not considered stylish in these parts. We were told that she can do it because she always walks on carpets or marble—in other words, that the regal feet almost never touch the ground.

As for the dresses themselves, it is now well known that Elizabeth dots on pastels—and she is making them more popular than ever in England, and other places, too. Her Majesty has definitely become a fashion influence, which was not true a few years ago. Hartnell likes best to dress the Queen in pale gray-blues—which become her wonderfully. She herself prefers yellow, which is her favorite color, but Hartnell, with astonishing tact, has won her away from yellow—almost without her knowing it.

IT WAS ALSO Hartnell who wheeled Her Majesty out of wearing bangs—"fringes," as she calls them. I think this the most charming anecdote of all.

"Why, Ma'm," said the diplomatic Hartnell, "you have too noble a forehead to hide under a fringe." So the Queen's bangs were no more—and I, for one, think she looks a lot prettier without them.

AFTER A "HARD" DAY!

ICED MESCO COFFEE 33c lb.

NO SHELFL ADGI

M. E. SWING CO.

1013 E. N. W. A. 7601

SPECIALS For FRIDAY!

Selected Choice SOFT SHELL CRABS From 49c DOZEN

The Famous Steamed CHICKEN LOBSTERS (Ready to Serve) 19c ea.

Jumbo Frog Legs .lb. 75c Fancy Shrimp .lb. 24c

Cooked Shrimp .lb. 59c Fancy Crab Lump .lb. 65c

Scallops .lb. 39c Good Crab Flakes .lb. 49c

Open all day . . . every day and Sunday

Potomac Fish Co.

19 Municipal Fish Market (at the foot of 14th St. S. W.)

FREE DELIVERY on orders of $1.00 or more

Phone NA. 5094

TASTE THIS "DIFFERENT" AND REFRESHING FLAVOR AT

Southern Dairies Dealers

... have a house free of insects

"I KILL 'EM QUICK!"

BLACK FLAG

SPRAY OR POWDER

KILLS QUICKER—SURE!

TRIPLE TESTED TO GUARANTEE QUALITY

Use everywhere, that is, wherever you have household insects, or your money back.

BLACK RASPBERRY ICE CREAM

IT'S Sealtest APPROVED

Wouldn't you like a really "summery" dessert this evening? Then here it is—Southern Dairies Black Raspberry Ice Cream. It's made with the juiciest and most flavorful of all raspberries—the black raspberry. And all the tangy, refreshing flavor that Nature puts into black raspberries we bring out in this grand ice cream that's Sealtest Approved for purity and quality. Give your Southern Dairies dealer a call. Let him deliver some for tonight's dessert.

RASPBERRY SUNDAY

Made with Southern Dairies Black Raspberry Ice Cream and topped with fresh raspberries. It's the very latest popular hit at Southern Dairies soda fountains.

Listen in to the Sealtest Program—Your Family and Mine—1:30 P. M.—Station WJBY.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH IN CONES

For real value in ice cream cones go to your Southern Dairies dealer. You get quality as well as generous quantity. Try a Black Raspberry cone today.

SALLY CUP 10c

Press the bottom of a Sally Cup and out pops a dainty, individual mold of delicious ice cream. It's a convenient way to serve ice cream—with no fuss, no bother, no waste. A choice of flavors.

5c

Approved by Sealtest

Southern Dairies Ice Cream

Decorated for June Brides

All decorating done by Mrs. Stephanson and her sister, Miss Celia

Wedding Cake Ornaments $6 to $2.25

Assorted Tea Cakes $1.00 a Dozen

Open Evenings and Sundays

23d & Pa. Ave. S.E.

ATLantic 7900

Stephanson's

Drive Out • Just Across the Bridge!

Wedding Cakes

Washington FLOUR

which may be used in connection with the free baseball, basketball and glove sale, are being given by Wilkins-Rogers Milling Company.

Get a Washington Flour baseball circular from your grocer, which will give you all the details, and when you attend the Sidney Lust Theaters get one of these coupons.

The coupons are valid at the Lust Theaters—Boro, Bethesda, A. R. A. D., Hyattsville, Camco, Mt. Rainier, Milo, Rockville, and Marlboro.

Wilkins-Rogers Milling Co., Washington, D. C.

A Woman's New York

By Alice Hughes

New York, June 8.

WITH THE British royal party within the confines of America, the great pulse of New York continued to beat strongly. At the moment of going to press, the metropolis noted no dramatic moves to join us once more to the motherland.

However, the other day a pretty girl named Margaret Vyrner, of the Norma Hartnell salon of London, came to luncheon at the Gotham Hotel and showed a bunch of us fashionettes almost exact duplicates of the dresses her boss has made for Queen Elizabeth. The charming Miss Vyrner began by saying she could not speak of Her Majesty without a lump in her throat, so devoted is she to the Queen. So, speaking with a lump while we looked properly impressed, Margaret told us how her boss performs when Her Majesty is in the mood for a mess of new frocks. When the word reaches Hartnell, he locks himself up in a studio and sketches furiously all day.

Once the designs are in hand and the clothes bustled up, Hartnell makes a date at Buckingham Palace and then proceeds there with the sketches, the clothes and Patsy Quinn, his prettiest mannequin. Once in audience, Patsy models the garments while Norman shows Her Majesty the sketches. Those she chooses, he at once proceeds to make up for her. Of course, the models she selects must come out of his regular line at once, for no one must have the same dress as the Queen.

QUEEN ELIZABETH stands 5 feet 3, and is probably a "little woman's size 16," in our American trade lingo. Her skin, her throat and her neck are especially beautiful, and thus she looks extraordinarily well in décolleté dresses.

We girls were also interested in why Her Majesty always wears light shoes, which are not considered stylish in these parts. We were told that she can do it because she always walks on carpets or marble—in other words, that the regal feet almost never touch the ground.

As for the dresses themselves, it is now well known that Elizabeth dots on pastels—and she is making them more popular than ever in England, and other places, too. Her Majesty has definitely become a fashion influence, which was not true a few years ago. Hartnell likes best to dress the Queen in pale gray-blues—which become her wonderfully. She herself prefers yellow, which is her favorite color, but Hartnell, with astonishing tact, has won her away from yellow—almost without her knowing it.

IT WAS ALSO Hartnell who wheeled Her Majesty out of wearing bangs—"fringes," as she calls them. I think this the most charming anecdote of all.

"Why, Ma'm," said the diplomatic Hartnell, "you have too noble a forehead to hide under a fringe." So the Queen's bangs were no more—and I, for one, think she looks a lot prettier without them.

AFTER A "HARD" DAY!

ICED MESCO COFFEE 33c lb.

NO SHELFL ADGI

M. E. SWING CO.

1013 E. N. W. A. 7601

SPECIALS For FRIDAY!

Selected Choice SOFT SHELL CRABS From 49c DOZEN

The Famous Steamed CHICKEN LOBSTERS (Ready to Serve) 19c ea.

Jumbo Frog Legs .lb. 75c Fancy Shrimp .lb. 24c

Cooked Shrimp .lb. 59c Fancy Crab Lump .lb. 65c

Scallops .lb. 39c Good Crab Flakes .lb. 49c

Open all day . . . every day and Sunday

Potomac Fish Co.

19 Municipal Fish Market (at the foot of 14th St. S. W.)

FREE DELIVERY on orders of $1.00 or more

Phone NA. 5094

TASTE THIS "DIFFERENT" AND REFRESHING FLAVOR AT

Frozen Dessert Recipes Offer Ideas for Summer Entertaining

Readers Give Ideas on Iced Concoctions

Hundreds Submit Dishes to Keep Palate Cool on Hot Days

By Martha Ellyn.
The Post Food Editor.

OLD BOSSY and the contestants in The Post Recipe Contest must have been in collusion in recognition of National Dairy Month, which is being celebrated during June, for cream, milk and buttermilk were the major ingredients used in the recipes entered.

As rich as a Venetian palace, and just as beautiful, too, will be the frozen desserts made from the recipes which poured in for this week's Post Recipe Contest. Nothing could be more of a treat to the eye and the palate than these frozen concoctions of haunting flavors, as suggested by our readers.

The hundreds of recipes submitted were judged by three outstanding Washington home economists, including Dr. Florence B. King, nationally known food authority, chief, food utilization section, U. S. Bureau of Home Economics; Miss Mary Turner, director, home service department, Potomac Electric Power Co., prominent in homemaking circles, and Mrs. Elinor Lee, home economist of Station WJVS, who is known to a vast audience because of her interesting Aladdin's kitchen programs.

Five-Star Finale

Mrs. Frank E. Edwards, 7 Belle road, Brooklyn Park, Baltimore, Md., is again the winner of the first prize of $3. The judges made this award not only because it is good, but because it is not expensive, is simple to make, is the unusual combination of lemon with strawberries, and because it is seasonal. The following recipe is an answer to a delicious summer dessert.

Lemon Cream With Fresh Strawberries

Beat two eggs until lemon-colored; add 1/2 cup sugar gradually and continue beating. Combine 1/2 cup light cream and 1/4 cup lemon juice. Add to egg mixture. Freeze in tray of automatic refrigerator until just firm. Whip until light and creamy. Add 1 cup crushed and sweetened strawberries. Continue freezing until firm, about 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Garnish with whole berries. Serves 6.

Gotham Winner

Old-fashioned ice, the kind that used to come in with the meat course, are now desserts for chic tables, and are particularly so when made with cantaloupe. Miss Louisa Price, 308 East Fourteenth street, New York City, is the winner of the second prize of $2.00 and sent the food editor the following letter: "Although I left Washington some months ago, I still read The Post, and it is still my favorite paper. I follow your food articles, and I thought the Price tomato recipes were very good. I wonder that more former or part-time Washingtonians do not take part in the recipe contests. This cantaloupe sherbet is really delicious, so delicately flavored, and coolness."

Cantaloupe Sherbet

Combine 1 1/2 cups liquid (juice from cantaloupe and water) and 1 cup sugar, to make a syrup, by boiling for 8 minutes. Soften 2 tablespoons gelatin in 4 tablespoons cold water. Add to first mixture and stir to dissolve. Let cool. Add sieved 2 cups cantaloupe, dash of salt and nutmeg. Put into refrigerator to freeze. Whip 1 cup cream until it begins to hold its shape. Fold into it 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar. As soon as first mixture has been frozen to a mush, fold cream into it. Continue freezing as usual. Serves 6 to 8. May be served with cantaloupe sauce made by combining 2 cups sugar, 1/4 cups cantaloupe

Warm response was given the frozen dessert, Lemon Cream with Strawberries, by the judges pictured above, Mrs. Elinor Lee (left), home economist, Station WJVS; Miss Mary Turner (center), home service director, Potomac Electric Power Co.; Dr. Florence B. King (right), chief, food utilization section, United States Bureau of Home Economics

Recipe Contest

THEME—Summer Beverages. QUALIFICATIONS—Recipes must be kitchen-tested, original, practical and carefully written. CLOSING DATE—Noon, Saturday, June 17.

PRIZES—First, $3; second, $2; third, fourth and fifth, $1 each. Runners-up will receive honorable mention. Photographs of contestants should be sent if possible. Mail entries to Martha Ellyn, Post Food Editor.

loupe juice and water, 3 cups diced cantaloupe and 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Esquire's Killarney

Earle W. Richardson, owner of Richardson's 1914 street northwest, D. C., specializes in interiors—lamps, slip covers, curtains, furniture and upholstery. But he has quite another side. He knows what refrigerators are made for—he does an apron, perches a cap on his head. Mr. Richardson makes a refreshing summer dessert. Because of the originality of the recipe—the ease of preparation and its general goodness, the judges gave Mr. Richardson's Gelatin Mint Julep the third prize of $1.00. Mr. Richardson wrote: "This dessert is not only easy to prepare on a hot summer day but good to look at, refreshing to eat, low in calories and economical. I do quite a lot of cooking and get a big kick out of it."

Gelatin Mini Julep

Soften 1 envelope plain gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water, add 1/4 teaspoon essence of mint, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 to 1/3 cup sugar, 4 drops green vegetable coloring and 1 jigger Bourbon (optional). Mix well and pour into moulds. After gelatin sets a little arrange mint leaves in form of a flower and put a red cherry in center. Chill in refrigerator and serve.

Summer Delight

Comes news from Mrs. M. Hook, 313 Douglass street northeast, Washington, D. C., that the banana of the sunny tropics makes a delicious frozen dessert. Mrs. Hook's winning contribution to the contest is a delectable dish, called Banana Cream Refrigerator Pie.

Mrs. Hook and wins for her a $1 prize. The following is the recipe for its creamy, melt-in-the-mouth smoothness.

Banana Cream Refrigerator Pie Dissolve 1 package orange flavored gelatin in 1 1/2 cups hot

Recipe Given For 'Bubble And Squeak'

THE POST FOOD EDITOR. "BUBBLE AND SQUEAK," a popular dish, has gone by that name for over a century. It was famous in England as far back as the sixteenth century. This traditional dish of fried beef and cabbage may be made from the following recipe as given by Dr. Kitchiner in the Cook's Oracle, 1835 edition.

Bubble and Squeak "For this as for a Hash, select those parts of the joint that have been least done; it is generally made with slices of cold boiled salted beef, sprinkled with a little pepper, and just slightly browned with a bit of butter in a frying pan. If it is tried too much it will be hard. "Boil a cabbage, squeeze it quite dry, and chop it small. Take the beef out of the frying pan, and lay the cabbage in it. Sprinkle a little pepper and salt over it; keep the pan moving over the fire for a few minutes; lay the cabbage in the middle of a dish, and the meat around it." Dr. Kitchiner recommends Wov Wov sauce as an accompaniment to Bubble and Squeak. Here is how it is made.

Wov Wov Sauce

"Chop some parsley very fine, quarter 3 pickled cucumbers or walnuts, divide into small square and set them by ready; put into saucepan butter as big as an egg; when melted stir into it a tablespoon of fine flour and about 1/2 pint of the broth in which the beef was boiled; add a tablespoon of vinegar, and like quantity of mushroom catsup, or port wine, or both, and a teaspoonful of prepared mustard; let it simmer together till it is as thick as you wish, put in the parsley and pickles to warm, and pour it over the beef, or rather send it up in a sauce-boat."

Frozen Pudding

Cover 1/2 cup raisins with cold water, bring slowly to boiling point, simmer for 5 minutes and drain. Combine 1/4 cup drained crushed pineapple, 1/4 cup maraschino cherries sliced and juice. Mix 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 cup pineapple juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, grated lemon rind and boil for 5 minutes to thicken sirup. Beat 1 egg whites stiff, to which 1/2 teaspoon salt has been added.

Glacial Symphony

It is amazing the nourishment and delight you can mix into a simple-to-make dessert. The tantalizing flavors of pineapple, cherries and raisins all combine with cream and eggs to give a smooth, tantalizing dessert. Mrs. Sara Lee Orange, 2025 I street, northwest, Washington, D. C., long a follower and winner in the recipe contests, wins a $1 prize with her recipe for Frozen Pudding.

Glacial Symphony

Combine 1/2 cup liquid (juice from cantaloupe and water) and 1 cup sugar, to make a syrup, by boiling for 8 minutes. Soften 2 tablespoons gelatin in 4 tablespoons cold water. Add to first mixture and stir to dissolve. Let cool. Add sieved 2 cups cantaloupe, dash of salt and nutmeg. Put into refrigerator to freeze. Whip 1 cup cream until it begins to hold its shape. Fold into it 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar. As soon as first mixture has been frozen to a mush, fold cream into it. Continue freezing as usual. Serves 6 to 8. May be served with cantaloupe sauce made by combining 2 cups sugar, 1/4 cups cantaloupe

Recipe Given For 'Bubble And Squeak'

THE POST FOOD EDITOR. "BUBBLE AND SQUEAK," a popular dish, has gone by that name for over a century. It was famous in England as far back as the sixteenth century. This traditional dish of fried beef and cabbage may be made from the following recipe as given by Dr. Kitchiner in the Cook's Oracle, 1835 edition.

Bubble and Squeak

"For this as for a Hash, select those parts of the joint that have been least done; it is generally made with slices of cold boiled salted beef, sprinkled with a little pepper, and just slightly browned with a bit of butter in a frying pan. If it is tried too much it will be hard. "Boil a cabbage, squeeze it quite dry, and chop it small. Take the beef out of the frying pan, and lay the cabbage in it. Sprinkle a little pepper and salt over it; keep the pan moving over the fire for a few minutes; lay the cabbage in the middle of a dish, and the meat around it." Dr. Kitchiner recommends Wov Wov sauce as an accompaniment to Bubble and Squeak. Here is how it is made.

Wov Wov Sauce

"Chop some parsley very fine, quarter 3 pickled cucumbers or walnuts, divide into small square and set them by ready; put into saucepan butter as big as an egg; when melted stir into it a tablespoon of fine flour and about 1/2 pint of the broth in which the beef was boiled; add a tablespoon of vinegar, and like quantity of mushroom catsup, or port wine, or both, and a teaspoonful of prepared mustard; let it simmer together till it is as thick as you wish, put in the parsley and pickles to warm, and pour it over the beef, or rather send it up in a sauce-boat."

Frozen Pudding

Cover 1/2 cup raisins with cold water, bring slowly to boiling point, simmer for 5 minutes and drain. Combine 1/4 cup drained crushed pineapple, 1/4 cup maraschino cherries sliced and juice. Mix 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 cup pineapple juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, grated lemon rind and boil for 5 minutes to thicken sirup. Beat 1 egg whites stiff, to which 1/2 teaspoon salt has been added.

Glacial Symphony

It is amazing the nourishment and delight you can mix into a simple-to-make dessert. The tantalizing flavors of pineapple, cherries and raisins all combine with cream and eggs to give a smooth, tantalizing dessert. Mrs. Sara Lee Orange, 2025 I street, northwest, Washington, D. C., long a follower and winner in the recipe contests, wins a $1 prize with her recipe for Frozen Pudding.

Contest Runners-Up

Mrs. James E. Callan, 4512 Stanford street, Chevy Chase, Md.—Fresh Strawberry Dessert.

Mrs. Eugenia Reid, 117 Patton avenue northwest, Roanoke, Va.—Sour Cream Sherbet.

Mrs. Grace F. Hinkle, 3423 South Dakota avenue northeast, Washington, D. C.—Economy Ice Cream.

Mrs. Virgie Trump, 628 North Market street, Frederick, Md.—Children's Special Frozen Delight.

Mrs. C. Phillips, 1754 Lanier place northwest, Washington, D. C.—Apricot Cream.

Miss Sylvia Klein, Procurement Division, United States Treasury, Washington, D. C.—Banana Delight.

Miss Evelyn Welsch, 4433 Eighth street northwest, Washington, D. C.—English Toffee Icebox Pudding.

Miss Ruth Fullmer, 2319 Minnesota avenue southeast, Washington, D. C.—Caramel Pudding.

Mrs. Beatrice Taylor, 313 Division street, Huntington, W. Va.—Frozen Delight.

Mrs. Lou C. Ward, 711 Forest drive, Hagerstown, Md.—Strawberry Supreme.

Mrs. T. S. Tolar, 700 Park avenue, Baltimore, Md.—A Rainbow.

Mrs. Albert E. Street, 2825 Calles avenue, Huntington, W. Va.—Spanish Cream.

Contest Runners-Up

Mrs. James E. Callan, 4512 Stanford street, Chevy Chase, Md.—Fresh Strawberry Dessert.

Mrs. Eugenia Reid, 117 Patton avenue northwest, Roanoke, Va.—Sour Cream Sherbet.

Mrs. Grace F. Hinkle, 3423 South Dakota avenue northeast, Washington, D. C.—Economy Ice Cream.

Mrs. Virgie Trump, 628 North Market street, Frederick, Md.—Children's Special Frozen Delight.

Mrs. C. Phillips, 1754 Lanier place northwest, Washington, D. C.—Apricot Cream.

Miss Sylvia Klein, Procurement Division, United States Treasury, Washington, D. C.—Banana Delight.

Miss Evelyn Welsch, 4433 Eighth street northwest, Washington, D. C.—English Toffee Icebox Pudding.

Miss Ruth Fullmer, 2319 Minnesota avenue southeast, Washington, D. C.—Caramel Pudding.

Mrs. Beatrice Taylor, 313 Division street, Huntington, W. Va.—Frozen Delight.

Mrs. Lou C. Ward, 711 Forest drive, Hagerstown, Md.—Strawberry Supreme.

Mrs. T. S. Tolar, 700 Park avenue, Baltimore, Md.—A Rainbow.

Mrs. Albert E. Street, 2825 Calles avenue, Huntington, W. Va.—Spanish Cream.

Contest Runners-Up

Mrs. James E. Callan, 4512 Stanford street, Chevy Chase, Md.—Fresh Strawberry Dessert.

Mrs. Eugenia Reid, 117 Patton avenue northwest, Roanoke, Va.—Sour Cream Sherbet.

Mrs. Grace F. Hinkle, 3423 South Dakota avenue northeast, Washington, D. C.—Economy Ice Cream.

Mrs. Virgie Trump, 628 North Market street, Frederick, Md.—Children's Special Frozen Delight.

Mrs. C. Phillips, 1754 Lanier place northwest, Washington, D. C.—Apricot Cream.

Miss Sylvia Klein, Procurement Division, United States Treasury, Washington, D. C.—Banana Delight.

Miss Evelyn Welsch, 4433 Eighth street northwest, Washington, D. C.—English Toffee Icebox Pudding.

Miss Ruth Fullmer, 2319 Minnesota avenue southeast, Washington, D. C.—Caramel Pudding.

Mrs. Beatrice Taylor, 313 Division street, Huntington, W. Va.—Frozen Delight.

Mrs. Lou C. Ward, 711 Forest drive, Hagerstown, Md.—Strawberry Supreme.

Mrs. T. S. Tolar, 700 Park avenue, Baltimore, Md.—A Rainbow.

Mrs. Albert E. Street, 2825 Calles avenue, Huntington, W. Va.—Spanish Cream.

Mrs. James E. Callan, 4512 Stanford street, Chevy Chase, Md.—Fresh Strawberry Dessert.

Mrs. Eugenia Reid, 117 Patton avenue northwest, Roanoke, Va.—Sour Cream Sherbet.

Mrs. Grace F. Hinkle, 3423 South Dakota avenue northeast, Washington, D. C.—Economy Ice Cream.

Mrs. Virgie Trump, 628 North Market street, Frederick, Md.—Children's Special Frozen Delight.

Mrs. C. Phillips, 1754 Lanier place northwest, Washington, D. C.—Apricot Cream.

DISTRICT GROCERY STORES

These prices effective in all stores (unless otherwise specified) until close of business Saturday, June 10th, 1939.

Fancy Quality New York

SMOKED TONGUES lb. 27

Fresh-Killed, Home-Dressed

FRYING CHICKENS lb. 29

Tender and Juicy

CHUCK ROAST lb. 21
CUT FROM U. S. GOVERNMENT GRADED "CHOICE" STEER BEEF

SLICED BACON 1/2 lb. 10

SMOKED SAUSAGE lb. 25

BOLOGNA lb. 23

WHITE CRAB MEAT lb. 31

HADDOCK FILLETS lb. 19

SUGAR CORN 6 ears 25

FRESH LIMA BEANS 3 lbs. 14c

WHITE SUMMER SQUASH 3 lbs. 14c

RED RIPE TOMATOES 2 lbs. 19c

CANTALOUPE each 15

CREAM STYLE CORN No. 2 5

GRAPEFRUIT JUICE 2 large 29

CALIF. SPINACH 2 large 27

RIPE PEACHES 2 large 29

KITCHEN MATCHES 6 boxes 19

EVAPORATED MILK 4 Tall Cans 25

FRUIT COCKTAIL 2 8-oz. Cans 15

PANCAKE FLOUR 2 pkgs. 13

Wilkins COFFEE lb. 27

NEW CENTER MARKET

5TH AND K STREETS N.W.

THIS WEEK FEATURES FRESH

"HOT DOGS"

THE DISH FOR A KING AND QUEEN

Hot Dogs are a Presidential favorite, according to "Private Lives" in last Sunday's Post. You'll enjoy them, too. And you'll enjoy shopping for your "hot dogs" at these stands in the New Center Market.

S. G. Taylor
Stand No. 367
FOR A FULL LINE OF Smoked Sausages
AND COMPLETE LINE OF Cold Cuts

C. E. Grimes
The originator of hot-dog chicken
Serves This Amazing Value
Frying Legs & Breast 47c
All Plymouth Rock Chickens
Free Delivery—District 6500

J. O. Hartman
National 2514
NO. 1 BEEFLESS
FRANKS.....lb. 20c
BLACK HAWK
SLICED BACON.....lb. 28c

Ehrlich Poultry Co.
Stand No. 343-344
Stewing Legs
And Breast.....42c lb.
Frying Legs & Breast.....48c lb.
Fresh killed daily. Call Df. 3073
FREE PARKING
TWO LARGE LOTS

Taste why so many people say.

THERE'S NO STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM LIKE BREYERS

fresh STRAWBERRY

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

THE ORIGINAL

MADE BY KELLOGG COMPANY, BATTLE CREEK, MICH.

Superior quality natural ripened milk in

Cream Top

CHESTNUT FARMS—CHEVY CHASE DAIRY

SANITARY'S PARADE OF VALUES

Same Low Prices in all our
D.C. Stores

Tender, Juicy Meats
Every Time . . . Is Sanitary's Promise

The good news is spreading fast. There's no longer need for any Washington housewife to put up with disappointing meals! Simply by getting all your meats from Sanitary you can be sure of tender, juicy steaks and roasts—mouth-watering chops every time you buy. Your Sanitary market holds to a definite standard in meat goodness.

PORK ROAST

End up to 3 Pounds 12c

KREY HAMS Whole or Half 27c

Butt End . . . 29c Center Slices . . . 55c

SANICO HAMS Whole or Half 27c

Butt End . . . 29c

NUTWOOD HAMS Whole 20c

Butt End . . . 23c

FRESHLY KILLED FRYING CHICKENS

Sanico Fryers 29c White Leghens 23c

RED JACKET GROUND BEEF

Ground from selected cuts of beef and packed in protective "sausage skin" wrapper. You'll like its economy and goodness.

15c

CHUCK ROAST

Neck Cut 15c Center Cut 17c

Frankfurters U. S. No. 1 23c

Frankfurters . . . 19c

Bologna U. S. No. 1 25c

Bologna . . . 17c

Sanico Bacon . . . 15c

Standard Bacon . . . 9c

SMOKED SHOULDERS

Average Weight 15c

Boned and Rolled 25c

SHOULDER VEAL ROAST

25c

Introducing
A New
TEA

CANTERBURY TEA

Green. $\frac{1}{4}$ -lb. 10c Black. $\frac{1}{4}$ -lb. 7c

Black. $\frac{1}{4}$ -lb. 15c Tea Bags 8c

Black. $\frac{1}{4}$ -lb. 27c Iced Tea 10c

BURRY'S

CHOCOLATE SHORTBREAD

Here's a marvelous buy in good cakes. They are small, chocolate-covered pieces . . . a favorite with the kiddies.

10c

Zion Fig Bars 10c

Prices are for District of Columbia, until close of business Saturday, June 10, 1939. Due to the Maryland and Virginia state trade practice acts some prices are higher in those States. No sales to dealers.

Budget Balancers!

PURE LARD 2 lbs. 13c

JELL-O 3 pkgs. 13c

CRISCO Shortening 3 lb. can 47c

SPRY Shortening 3 lb. can 47c

ARGO RED SALMON 1 lb. can 17c

SALMON CHUM 1 lb. can 9c

SHRIMP 5 $\frac{3}{4}$ oz. can 10c

BISQUICK 40 oz. pkg. 25c

SWANSDOWN CAKE FLOUR pkg. 22c

WHEATIES 2 pkgs. 19c

POST TOASTIES 2 pkgs. 11c

CRAX CRACKERS 1 lb. pkg. 12c

DOLE PINEAPPLE GEMS 3 $\frac{1}{4}$ oz. cans 25c

JUICE Unsweetened GRAPEFRUIT 46 oz. can 10c

SANICO GRAPE JUICE full quart 23c

JUICE PHILLIPS TOMATO 20 oz. can 5c

JUICE LIBBY'S TOMATO 20 oz. cans 15c

APPLE SAUCE White House 18 oz. can 5c

R & R BONED CHICKEN can 39c

ANGLO CORNED BEEF 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. cans 29c

SALT COLUMBIA Plain or Iodized 2 pkgs. 5c

KELLOGG'S RICE KRISPIES 2 pkgs. 19c

HERSHEY'S CHOCOLATE SYRUP 4 cans 29c

LAND O' LAKES AGED CHEESE 25c

VAN CAMP'S BEANS With Pork 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. cans 19c

OCTAGON LAUNDRY SOAP 4 bars 15c

Medium IVORY SOAP 4 cakes 19c

CAMAY TOILET SOAP 3 cakes 17c

LUX FLAKES 3 cakes 17c

EGGS Economy Brand 2 doz. 35c

BUTTER JUMBO ROLL lb. 25c

MILK CARNATION, PET or BORDEN'S tall can 6c

CHEESE Longhorn lb. 15c

Our Banquet Margarine . . . 9c

Vim Pop Dog Food . . . 25c

Southern Belle Salad Dressing . . . full quart 25c

Sanico Pancake Flour . . . 5c

Lang's Sour or Dill Pickles . . . quart 9c

Woodbury's Facial Soap . . . 15c

Argo Gloss Starch . . . 1 lb. pkg. 7c

Glenn Aire Grapefruit Segments . . . 2 No. 2 cans 15c

Buy a Pound on Price Alone—Then See How Grand It Tastes. You'll Marvel That Such Good Coffee Costs So Little.

AIRWAY COFFEE

2 lbs. 25c

For Economy With Good Taste . . . Serve Fresh

JUMBO BREAD 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. loaves 15c

B & M BAKED BEANS

28-oz. glass jar 17c

Standard Quality

CORN STRING BEANS or TOMATOES

Your Choice . . . can 5c

MISSISSIPPI TOMATOES 2 lbs. 17c

Ripe Pineapple 3 for 25c

Cucumbers 3 for 10c

Iceberg Lettuce head 6c

Corn on the Cob 3 ears 13c

Stringless Beans 2 lbs. 9c

Asparagus 2 lbs. 9c

BANANAS lb. 5c

Banana days are here again! Use bananas liberally . . . with cream, on cereal, in pie or for the children's "in-between snack." Bananas are good for you.

FOOD STORES

SANITARY

FOOD STORES

SANITARY GROCERY COMPANY INC.

Society Cheers King On Way to Garden Tea

Many Hold Open House Along Massachusetts Avenue as Royal Party Passes; Mrs. McLean's Home Thronged With Friends to Cheer Majesties

By Dudley Harmon

Refusing to be frustrated at not having received magic bids to the British Embassy garden party yesterday, members of Capital society who weren't invited, moved out onto front yards—some even ventured as far as a seat on the curbstone—along the royal route to the tea party along Massachusetts avenue. Residents in the big stone houses, which line the street on either side from Dupont Circle to the Embassy, opened their homes wide to their friends, but others of society's prettiest and most chic preferred to get a closer view and sat on campstools or boxes on the sidewalk, dangling their well-shod feet in the gutter.

The scene along the tree-shaded avenue in this smart residential district yesterday around 5 o'clock rather smacked of a squatter settlement, or bonus army on the march, except that the whole effect was a bit more stylish. And let it be said right here and now that around the quartier Sheridan Circle pro-British feeling runs strong, and the frantic waving of Union Jacks as the royal couple passed eclipsed that seen at the morning parade through more proletarian sections of Washington.

The rococo Walsh mansion, owned by Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, was hung with British and American flags, and the broad porch facing the avenue was thronged with friends and employees of the owner of the Hope Diamond. Her daughter, Miss Evelyn Washington McLean, presided, wearing a blue and white cotton short-sleeved print and sun glasses. Her blond hair was pinned high on the top of her head.

Junior League Filled With Onlookers

A bit farther down, across the street, the modernistic headquarters of the Junior League was the scene of an informal gathering of members and their friends. Miss Cecil Lester Jones, the president, and her housemate, Miss Eleanor Powell, leaned out the big front windows and waved to acquaintances who passed by. The place swarmed with children—Mrs. Robert Wilson brought her little boy, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKnew were others accompanied by their young.

Also gathered at League headquarters were Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Coolican, Mrs. Ernest Warren, Mrs. Theodore Gill and her daughter, Mrs. William B. Kern, and Mrs. Harry Slocum.

Another family group sat on the steps of the Lewis Clark's home. Mrs. Clark wore an "up" hair-do on account of the heat. Patricia Prochnik and Edgar Prochnik Jr., peeked at the parade from the windows of their former home, the former Austrian legation, which was opened for the occasion. Their sister, Mrs. Jean de Sibour, chose to move out to the curbstone. Others seated on camp chairs on the sidewalk included pretty Miss Mary Louise Marsh and Miss Eleanor Pierce.

On the lawn of the Greek Legation stood the French Ambassador, Count de Saint-Quentin, for a preview of royalty before going on to the garden party. He was accompanied by M. and Mme. Charles Lucet, of the embassy.

Across the street the liveried servants of Mr. and Mrs. C. Matthews Dick stood in the sunlight on the steps for a glimpse of royalty.

Mrs. Dorothy Lee Ward draped her Massachusetts avenue home in Union Jacks and the Stars and Stripes and then asked about 40 of her friends in for a drink on the front lawn. Among them were Mrs. Ralph Worthington, Mrs. Mae Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Dudley, Mrs. Daniel C. Stapleton, several White House aides, her niece, Miss Florence Cauthen, and Miss Dorothy James, daughter of Pennsylvania's Governor and Mrs. Arthur James, who is visiting Mrs. Ward.

Diana Rowland, Roberts Give Curb Parties

A block nearer the embassy, Miss Diana Rowland was entertaining at a "curb tea." Her guests rushed upstairs to the library for a glass of the cooling drink and then dashed back again to the sidewalk. Mrs. Henry C. Rowland, mother of the hostess, elected to sit on the steps with Col. and Mrs. John Greeley. Col. Greeley, who is a son of the famous explorer, will sail shortly for his new duties as military attaché at the United States Embassy in Spain. Mr. and Mrs. John Hyde walked over from their home on Wyoming avenue to join the group on the Rowland lawn.

The Secretary of the Italian Embassy and Countess Roberti and Mr. and Mrs. William Lacy, who are neighbors in Massachusetts avenue, both entertained at curb parties. Donna Julia Brambilla, of Rome, sister of Mrs. Phillip Coffin, of Washington, was with the Roberts, and Mr. and Mrs. Lacy's guests included the former's father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Lacy, of Leesburg. Also with them was George Abell, who had entertained at a luncheon beforehand, when his guests included the Lacy family. Mr. William P. McCracken, she in a green print; Mrs. Crosby Miller, Michal Budny, Eugene O'Dunne, Mrs. Sam Conner, the Financial Counselor of the Rumanian Legation and Mme. Boncenco, and the Commercial Counselor of the Netherlands Legation and Mme. Molekamp.

Luncheon, served buffet style, was enjoyed on the terrace of Mr. Abell's apartment, to the accompaniment of guitar music furnished by a colored retainer.

Baron Baeyens And Wife Hosts At Small Dinner

The Second Secretary of the French Embassy and Baroness Baeyens gave a small dinner last night at their home on Kalorama circle.

The guests were Col. and Mrs. John Crane, Capt. Fred Rogers, Capt. Richard McMaster, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Clark, Mrs. Nathan Wyeth and Miss Marcia Umben. Baroness Baeyens will leave the end of the month with her children for the home of her parents in Burlington, Calif.

Joins Family Cavalcade to Europe

MISS SUZANNE MASTEN,

daughter of Mrs. W. S. Masten, who with her mother, her grandmother, Mrs. M. W. Douthett, and her two sisters, the Misses Nancy Lee and Priscilla Masten, will sail June 23 to spend the summer in Europe. Pretty Miss Masten was graduated this month from the Cathedral School.

Anne Moorhead Entertains at Tea In Garden Created in Single Day

While her mother, Mrs. Howell Moorhead, attended the garden party for the King and Queen yesterday afternoon, her daughter, Miss Anne Moorhead, didn't miss out on an outdoor tea. She gave one herself at the Moorhead residence on R street.

Behind the house is one of the most charming small gardens in Washington, where the flowers had been stuck into the earth just for the occasion. Mrs. Moorhead having been out of town recently and neglecting to plant a garden. Surrounding is a wall of bamboo sticks, and a tiny fountain splashes in one corner. Pitchers of iced tea and Bacardi cocktails made things appear even cooler. Small British and American flags were here and there.

The pretty chestnut-haired hostess was a few minutes late to her party, having been among the throngs who gathered on nearby Massachusetts avenue to watch the parade. She wore a street-length frock in shades of brown and russet.

Lieut. Donald MacDonald, White

House aide, had a fascinated group listening to his stories of his morning adventures, when he had ushered the King and Queen about the diplomatic circle which gathered there at noon to meet the royal couple. He was also looking forward to dining last night with the artists who appeared on the program which followed supper.

Others who gathered were Miss Ann Sterrett, in a smart blue and white print; Mrs. Scudder Doeg, exhausted after trailing royalty about all day for the newspaper on which she is employed; Miss Helen Davis, recently returned from a stay at Hot Springs, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams, the former Caroline Cecil wearing a flowered crepe frock; Miss Carolyn Chantry, Miss Ruth Sowers and her fiancé, Lawrence White; Miss Elsie Ekengren, in a snood hat; Miss Dorothea Sowers, Miss Nancy Brereton and Mrs. Robert Swezey. The "extra men" present included Victor Suro, Eugene O'Dunne, James Marsh, Michael Budny, James Parks, and many others.

Zannis Give Children's Fete

The Air and Military Attaché of the Argentine Embassy, Col. Pedro Zanni, and Senora de Zanni, entertained yesterday afternoon at their apartment in 2400 Sixteenth street in honor of the eighth birthday of their daughter, Stella Maris, and also to celebrate the first Communion of Martha Cairo, daughter of Lieut. Comdr. Juan C. Cairo, and Senora de Cairo, of the Argentine Naval Commission.

The dining room of the Zannis' spacious apartment was profusely decorated with balloons of all colors. Stella Maris was gownned in pink silk and small Martha Cairo wore her Communion gown of white with a short veil.

Guests included Liane de Bayle, daughter of the Minister of Nicaragua; Maria Acosta, daughter of the Bolivian Military Attaché; Maria and Isabel de Reinos, daughters of the Minister of Guatemala; Chantal and Marguerite Weiser, daughters of Col. Rene P. G. Weiser, the French Air Attaché; Ann Benesh, daughter of Commander Pierre Benesh, French Naval Attaché; Maria Alvirra Vargas, daughter of the Secretary of the Columbian Embassy, and Raimundo and Raquel Cuervo, children of the Second Secretary of the Mexican Embassy.

Also present were Gege Challer, Susy de la Fuentes, Beretitia and Carlos Fuentes, children of Dr. Rafael Fuentes, Counselor of the Mexican Embassy; Margarita Gaxitua, daughter of the Counselor of the Chilean Embassy, and Senora de Gaxitua, Teresa Castro, Carl Hammer, John and Mark Chramiec, sons of Lieut. Col. Andrzej Chramiec, Military and Air Attaché of the Polish Embassy, and Mme. Chramiec, daughter of Hector Ghirardo, Jr., son of Hector Ghirardo, the newly appointed Minister from Argentina to five Central American countries.

Other guests included Charles Lombard, son of the Military Attaché of the French Embassy; Nancy Wehl, Sonja S. Caster, Betty Jean Harrell, Richy and Bobby Ervell, Robin Campbell, Favin and Favin Davallou, India Bell Towler, Suzanna and Pedro Walsh, Mary Lee Catledge, Jean Louis Luet, son of the Third Secretary of the French Embassy, and Mme. Luet; Joanna Segal, Jerry Jackson, Nancy Whittemore, Jane Simon, Maria Teresa Cosmelli, daughter of Giuseppe Cosmelli, Counselor of the Italian Embassy, and Signora Cosmelli, and Pedro Zanni, Jr., son of the hosts.

A feature of the party was a program of Mickey Mouse movies.

Miss Prentiss, Ensign Cruise, To Wed in Canal Zone Today

Dr. Voegeli to Officiate at Rites
In Ancon; Bride-Elect Graduate
Of Washington Schools

Of wide interest in Washington is the wedding, which takes place today in the Canal Zone, of Miss Anne Randolph Prentiss, daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Augustin M. Prentiss, and Ensign James Hamilton Cruise, U. S. Navy. Ensign Cruise is the son of Col. Fred T. Cruise, Field Artillery, U. S. Army, and Mrs. Cruise, of Madison, Wis.

The wedding will take place at 8 o'clock at St. Luke's Cathedral, Ancon, Canal Zone, with the Rev. Dean C. Alfred Voegeli officiating. Tall white candelabra, palms, ferns and Easter lilies will decorate the church.

The bride, whose father will give her in marriage, will wear a gown of white tulle over slipper satin, fashioned with a heart-shaped neckline, short puffed sleeves and shirred close-fitting bodice trimmed with seed pearl buttons from her mother's wedding dress. The full skirt ends in a long circular train and her tulle wedding veil will be held in place with fresh gardenias. She will wear elbow length kid gloves, and carry a shower bouquet of gardenias and white orchids.

Miss Doris Henry

Maid of Honor

Miss Doris R. Henry, daughter of Col. William R. Henry, of Fort Amador, Canal Zone, will be the maid of honor. She will wear white Swiss organdy over white taffeta, made with wide insertions of lace which form the waist and trim the square neckline and full skirt. The skirt of the gown ends in a slight train and she will wear a broad-brimmed hat of white lace, trimmed with wide white moire ribbon ending in streamers. She will carry a bouquet of white gladioli and tuberoses.

Bridesmaids will be Miss Isabella Henry, daughter of Col. W. R. Henry; Miss Elizabeth Tilton, daughter of Col. James Tilton, of Quarry Heights, Canal Zone; Miss Mary Hobson, daughter of Lieut. Col. William H. Hobson, of Quarry Heights; Miss Jean Sullivan, daughter of Col. John Sullivan, of Fort Clayton; and Miss Helen Cruse, sister of the bridegroom.

All bridesmaids will be gownned alike in white organdy over white taffeta, fashioned to match the gown of the maid of honor. They will wear wide brimmed white horsehair hats trimmed with green ribbon, and will carry shower bouquets of white Shasta daisies and baby's breath.

Ensign Boyd Clapham, son of Col. Lathrop Clapham, U. S. A., will be the best man. He is a classmate of the bridegroom.

Ushers include Lieut. (j. g.) E. G. Johanson, Ensign Robert Phillips, U. S. N.; Ensign Daniel Waite, U. S. N.; Lieut. Brooke Hatch, U. S. M. C.; Lieut. Wayne Brown, U. S. M. C., and Ensign Gerald Taylor, U. S. N.

Reception at Club

Follows Ceremony

Immediately following the ceremony there will be a reception at the Fort Clayton Officers' Club. The bride's mother will wear a dusty rose silk marquisette, fashioned with a shirred bodice and long shirred sleeves, full three tiered skirt and a small hat to match. The bride's aunt, Mrs. William Dow Boutwell, will wear a dusty rose silk marquisette, fashioned on the same lines as the costume of the bride's mother and a small matching hat. Both the bride's mother and aunt will wear orchid corsages.

The couple will sail on the S. S. Sixola for a honeymoon in San Jose, Costa Rica. For a traveling costume the bride will wear a brown and white print crepe with a matching jacket and turban and white accessories. For the next few months they will make their home at Ancon, Canal Zone.

Among the out-of-town guests will be Mrs. William Dow Boutwell and her daughter, Jane, of Washington; Mrs. Fred T. Cruise and Miss Helen Cruise, from Madison, Wis.

The bride attended the Corcoran School of Art and the Abbott School of Fine and Commercial Art in Washington.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Naval Academy of the class of 1937. He is at present stationed on the U. S. S. Tatnall, which is attached to the special service squadron, based at Balboa, Canal Zone.

Parties Honor Miss MacDowell

Miss Annetta MacDowell, who will be married tomorrow to William Stuart Harrington, son of Col. Francis Harrington, WPA administrator, at St. James Episcopal Church in New York, is being widely feted before the ceremony.

Tomorrow Miss Joyce Ward and Miss Hilda Holloway, who are among the attendants, will give a combined breakfast and luncheon in the bride's honor at the River Club. Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Finch will entertain at dinner in her honor at their New York home. Their daughter, Miss Louise Finch, is to be an attendant in the wedding party.

On Wednesday Miss MacDowell was honor guest at a large luncheon given by Mrs. James Colwell in the Ladies' Annex of the Metropolitan Club.

Miss MacDowell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah MacDowell, Jr., of New York and Waterford, Conn., who will give a reception after the ceremony in the clubhouse of the New York Junior League.

Col. Harrington will leave tonight for the wedding, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Mary Eleanor Harrington, and his cousin, Miss Victoria Baker, of Bristol, Va. He will act as best man for his son.

Mrs. McKinley Gives Luncheon

Mrs. W. H. Wheat, wife of Representative Wheat, of Illinois, and Mrs. W. H. Boone, of Champaign, Ill., were honor guests at a luncheon given Wednesday by Mrs. Robert P. McKinley, of Tilden Gardens.

Other guests included Mrs. Charles A. Myers, Mrs. Henry H. Knipe, Mrs. F. H. Firey, Mrs. A. R. Bailey, Mrs. Dabrowsky and Mrs. F. F. Harper.

Still others were Mrs. James A. Hoffman, Mrs. Frank J. Kennedy, Mrs. James H. Hanley, Mrs. Ralph W. Bonnett and Mrs. T. A. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Tittmann Are Hosts at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tittmann, Jr., entertained for ten at dinner last evening at their residence in Georgetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Tittmann have not yet completed plans for a summer vacation, as they recently received word that Mr. Tittmann had been transferred by the State Department to Geneva. They expect to leave in August.

Miss Thompson's Wedding June 17

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morgan Thompson have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Helen Davis Thompson, to Albert Alford Heckel on Saturday, June 17, at the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation.

The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. After the first of July the couple will make their home in Presidential Gardens, Alexandria.

Miss Thompson attended George Washington University and was graduated from William and Mary College. She is a member of Phi Mu Sorority.

Mr. Heckel, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Heckel, of Cartersville, is a graduate of George Washington University and is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

New Yorkers At Dinner of French Envoy

Mrs. Vanderbilt
Among Guests of De Saint-Quentin

The French Ambassador, Count Rene de Saint-Quentin, gave a dinner last night at which were several socially prominent New Yorkers who came here to attend the British embassy garden party for the King and Queen. They included Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Aldrich and Mrs. Ogden Mills. Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich and Mrs. Mills have been staying with Mr. and Mrs. George Angus Garrett.

Other guests were the Minister of Finland, Dr. Hjalmar Procopé, the Counselor of the Belgian Embassy and Baroness de Gruben, Baron and Baroness Watteville-Beichheim, who are visiting Mrs. William McClellan Ritter, M. and Mme. Louis Gilet, Mr. and Mrs. Garrett, Mrs. Cary Langhorne, Mrs. Arthur Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss and their houseguest, William Tyler, Mrs. John Garrett, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis, M. le Pasteur Liotard, Vicomtesse de la Noue, and from the embassy staff, the Counselor, Jacques Truelle, the Air Attache and Mme. Weiser, Jacques Dumaine and M. and Mme. Charles Lucet.

This afternoon Countess de Saint-Quentin, mother of the Ambassador, will receive about 40 ladies at tea at the embassy.

The Ambassador gave a large luncheon in the Japanese Garden of the Ritz Carlton Hotel in New York on Wednesday in honor of Jean Zay, French Minister of National Education, who was awarded the honorary degree of LL. W. by Columbia University at the commencement exercises held last Tuesday.

Among the guests at the luncheon were Mme. Zay, Mme. Jacqueline Zay, Count and Countess Charles de Ferry de Fontenayville, Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Cartier, the Third Secretary of the Embassy and Mme. Charles Lucet, Mr. and Mrs. William Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Rene Tanqueray, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Claudel, Mr. and Mrs. David Sarnoff, M. and Mme. Garreau Dombasle, Prof. and Mme. Edmond Mers, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. Morin de Lincelays, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Valeur.

Also Mrs. Pierre Brodin, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Roux, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roux, Leroy Beaujeu, Antoine Morand, Henry d'Ornano, Lucien Jouvard, Baron Hubert de Jeanne, Stephen Duga, Andre Desarrois, and Forsyth Wickes.

Miss Adrienne Mayer. Alan Barth to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mayer have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Adrienne Mayer, to Alan Barth, formerly of New York and now of Washington. The wedding will take place in the summer.

Miss Mayer is a graduate of Goucher College and Mr. Barth was graduated from Andover and Yale University.

Mr. and Mrs. Belin Sail for Europe On the Queen Mary

Mr. and Mrs. F. Lamont Belin are en route to Europe to spend the summer. They sailed on Wednesday on the Queen Mary. They intend to pass part of their stay in the south of France.

Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Belin, who went up to New York to see them off, will remain until Monday or Tuesday. They are staying at the Ritz-Carlton.

Notes of Society

Official and Residential

Senator Ernest W. Gibson and his daughter, Miss Doris Gibson, have been joined at the Wardman Park Hotel by the former's son, Ernest W. Gibson, Jr., of Brattleboro, Vt., and Frank G. Shumway, of Medford, Mass.

Representative and Mrs. Walter Chandler, of Tennessee, will spend the week-end in New York, where they will visit the Fair.

The Political Adviser to the State Department and Mrs. James Clement Dunn entertained at dinner last night at their residence on Observatory Circle.

Miss Frances Clark, daughter of Commander and Mrs. Volney O. Clark, and Miss Jacqueline Jones, daughter of Mrs. Roy K. Jones and the late Commander Jones, are at West Point for the June week festivities at the Military Academy. Miss Clark is a student at American University and Miss Jones will take a graduate course at Gunston Hall next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Clark are at West Point, where the former is celebrating his fifty-fifth class reunion. Later they will go to Magnolia, Mass., to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Haley, of Arlington, Va., gave a dinner at the Shoreham Terrace on Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Dorothy Mae McDonough and Edward Saulnier, who will be married on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin B. Chapman are at the Hotel Commodore, in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Dowell, of 4428 Cathedral avenue, are at the Waldorf-Astoria, in New York.

Mrs. Lester Neuman is spending a week in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Beall, of New York, are at the Hay-Adams House. Also staying there are the Misses Elizabeth Lawton and Elizabeth Zerbo, of Oakland, Calif.

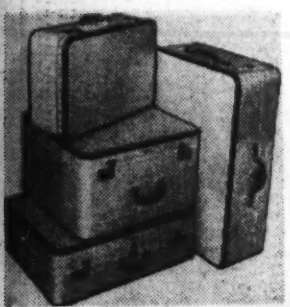

Col. and Mrs. Edward B. Clark are at West Point, where the former is celebrating his fifty-fifth class reunion. Later they will go to Magnolia, Mass., to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Haley, of Arlington, Va., gave a dinner at the Shoreham Terrace on Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Dorothy Mae McDonough and Edward Saulnier, who will be married on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin B. Chapman are at the Hotel Commodore, in New York.

Exclusive OSHKOSH LUGGAGE With Us

ENSEMBLE LUGGAGE

Here's an inexpensive ensemble made of good quality tan fabric with brown cowhide binding. Each piece is perfectly matched in appearance and quality. A fine ensemble for one whose travel needs are not heavy.

COMPLETE FOR 48.00

18" Overnight 8.50
21"-3" dress hanger 12.50
21"-3" dress hanger 12.50
21"-3" dress hanger 12.50
21"-3" dress hanger 12.50

Also made in Men's 1 and 2 Suits to match at 13.50 and 15.00

Camalier & Buckley
Fine Leather Goods

1141 CONNECTICUT AVE.
2 Doors Above the Mayflower

The Palais Royal

6 Street at Eleventh District 4400

They Wear Longer... Our Ringless, Crepe Twist

Thrifty-i-Silk Hose

Exclusively at The Palais Royal

74c
Pair

Thrifty-i-Silks are constructed to stand the wear and tear of every day usage. They are available in a business sheer chiffon weight, with a deep run check top, with well reinforced feet and with cradle soles. Economical for a thrifty shopper... appealing to a "smart" shopper, because they come in the smartest colors. Sizes 8½ to 10½.

The Palais Royal, Hosiery... First Floor

At SLOAN'S ART GALLERIES 715 13th St. N.W.

VALUABLE COLLECTION OF

Antique and Modern Furniture, Valuable China and Glassware, Rare Silver and Plated Ware, Oriental Rugs, Paintings, Unusual Prints, Chinese Art Objects, Upholstered Davenport and Chairs, Decorative Mirrors, Bric-a-Brac, etc.

TO BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Within Our Galleries

715 THIRTEENTH STREET

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday
June 13th to 17th inclusive, 1939

AT 2 P. M. EACH DAY

From the Estate of Helen P. Childs

Dorothy Schaff Clement, Trustee

The Estate of Julia Edie O'Donnell

R. Aubrey Bogley, Attorney

The Security Storage Co. and Other Sources

ON EXHIBITION

TOMORROW AND MONDAY

JUNE 10th and 12th

* Catalogues on Application To

C. G. SLOAN & CO., Inc., Auctioneers

ESTABLISHED 1891

The Integrity of the store from which you buy is of Importance

Julius Garfinckel & Company

AN AMAZING OPPORTUNITY IN THIS STORE.

We Have Taken

FINAL, DRASTIC REDUCTIONS

ON MANY REMARKABLE SALE GROUPS ON THE FIFTH FLOOR

The Extraordinary Prices Are Now as Follows:

BEAUTIFUL TEA GOWNS	$12.95	$16.95	$19.95
HOUSE COATS, NEGLIGEEES	$8.95	$12.95	$14.95
LOVELY NIGHT GOWNS	$3.95	$4.95	$5.95

All Sales Final

F at Fourteenth

Mary Haworth's Mail

Morbidly Homesick, but Deeply in Love With Husband, Bride Knows No Happiness; What to Do?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 33 and my husband is 28. He is a Government worker, skilled in a type of work which, in private industry, would pay him perhaps about half what he gets now. He has been here four years. A year and a half ago we married and I came here from our home town to live. I was always very attached to family and community, but I thought that our love would be strong enough to conquer homesickness.

During our marriage we have had the usual financial difficulties experienced by most young couples living on a small income; and, of course, the usual "first year" adjustments to make, but I believe we have successfully met both. We have few friends, as my husband is not the "social" type, preferring his home to outside diversions. While I am quite the opposite, and we differ occasionally, this isn't our major problem.

The thing which is ruining our marriage is this: Day by day I am pining for home, and this longing is affecting my health and mentality. I am not doing my share in the partnership. Some say I should go to work to occupy my mind, but I had my fling in the business world before marriage, and, besides, I prefer to take care of my apartment and prepare my husband's meals as he likes them, and I feel I couldn't do justice to two jobs.

I have tried to find other interests but my mind wanders constantly to home and family. Each time I go home for a visit (which is never less often than once a month) I never enjoy myself because of the thought that I must return. So these visits do nothing for us. I love my husband very much and he possesses all the qualities of a good husband, except, perhaps, the desire to go places and see people, which isn't so very important. I am hurting him by my depressed and morbid actions. We are looking to you for advice and hope we have stated our problem clearly.

HOMESICK.

Infantile Attitude

DEAR HOMESICK: Your excessive attachment to family and community is an infantile attitude, comparable to that of the child who weeps in woe on his first day at school, or who languishes in despair during his first summer away from home at camp. Except that your attitude is going to be more difficult to cope with, because more deeply ingrained. There is no overnight remedy for your problem of homesickness. The cure will be found in coming of age, psychologically.

As a result of your present state of mind and morbid performance (which will undoubtedly wreck your marriage unless corrected) you are confronted with the uncompromising alternative of (a) going back home "for good," as we say, thus resigning yourself to the prospect of remaining psychologically or emotionally forever a child; or (b) setting forth on an adventure of self discovery and character development which will eventually deliver you from your imaginative enslavement to your childhood's idols and environment.

If you were a more mature individual, with healthier reactions, you would have hailed with delight the "brave new world" of endless opportunities for social and cultural growth which your marriage opened up to you, by bringing you to Washington. But no. You are so preoccupied with sickly sentimental memories of the past that you have neither eyes to see, nor the will to improve, the chances that are yours. And this will never do. It is not alone your privilege, it is your inescapable responsibility—if you aspire to a happy and successful life—to relate yourself in personally satisfactory and socially contributive ways, to such successive environments in which you find yourself.

Under the circumstances, there is nothing laudable about your tentative decision to devote yourself entirely to housekeeping duties. In my opinion, it is a mistaken decision, calculated further to stultify your already stunted personality. It implies either incapacity or refusal to treat with your new surroundings in an adult and effective manner. Either you are afraid to try your luck at getting and holding a job; or you are just plain lazy—since no able-bodied woman could possibly find enough to do, in a small apartment, to keep her energies wholesomely exercised.

Since your husband is socially seclusive, and since at least half your dollars are probably due to being "cooped up," day after day and night after night, in a small apartment, after having been accustomed since childhood, no doubt, to the more spacious surroundings of the suburban householder—I think you have a many-faceted necessity to get a job. For one thing, it would bring you into constant contact with new personalities, affording fresh points of view; for another, it would force you into a change of mental pace, in meeting the demands of the job; and for a third thing, it might provide the means of having a small house in the suburbs, the enabling you to approximate the kind of life you have known before.

Same living, for you, probably means having neighbors who are friends (and vice versa) who attend the same church, belong to the same clubs and pursue the same social pattern generally. Since your husband is home-loving, capitalize upon it, to the advantage of both, by working to the end that he may have his own garden to plant, his own lawn to mow, his own furnace to fire and his own hedges to trim, while you have your friends across the fence to visit with, borrow from, confide in and turn to in minor emergencies.

I think it has been a selfish mistake for you to spend so many week-ends with your family, since marriage, for one thing, it was foolishly pampering a weakness, which should have been resisted, rather than indulged; and for another thing, the time and money could have been much better invested in promoting acquaintance with the city in which you live, through visiting its shops, museums, galleries and other places of interest. Your problem of homesickness cannot be solved by running home to mother, since, as you submit, such visits amount merely to a variation of suffering. It can only be solved by working a change in your emotional attitude toward your family, plus a concomitant change in social attitude toward your new environment.

Since you will probably need to be led more or less by the hand, through the initial stages, at least, of your emotional reform leading to recovery, I suggest that you take your problem to Dr. Benjamin Halperin, of the Washington Institute of Mental Hygiene, 1404 Columbia road northwest, telephone Adams 1033. Dr. Halperin's experience as a psychoanalyst should enable him to throw immediately helpful light on the source of your distress. And to understand that much is to be half-cured already.

Mrs. Haworth will be glad to help in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

Woman With as Little as $3 to $5 to Spend Can Find Interesting Father's Day Gifts

Washable Robes Can Lead Double Life, At Home and Beach

By Marshall Adams.
The Post Fashion Editor.
News relating to men's fashions appears every Friday on the women's pages.)

WHILE NEW YORK is combing its bypaths for the typical American father, we have just been reminded that typical Washington wives and children have only eight more days to search the town for gifts. We thought that in last Friday's column we had about covered the realm of what to give Dad, June 18, until long came requests for gift hints to purse-shy women. It seems that cocktail sets, humidors and radios are excellent suggestions for the wife or daughter who has money to burn. But what shall the woman on a small budget buy?

Washable Robe Acceptable

Consider the merits of the washable robe. If wisely designed, it can lead a double life of lounging at home or on the beach. One such robe we spotted is of air-cooled ratine, a washable, preshrunk fabric. Even with an exotic-looking dragon embroidered across the shoulder blades it costs a little less than $2. It should be becoming to every age and type because it has a nice shawl collar, three big pockets and a wrap-around belt.

For around $1.50 we found a first-rate broadcloth shirt. One local store is stressing these shirts with father's three initials embroidered on the sleeve. Along with the shirt a tie and handkerchief set would prove your added thoughtfulness. For $1.50 we found attractively boxed slippers and hand-rolled silk kerchief in matching colors and stripes, plaids or checks.

Braces, Garters, Belts

As for the woman on the more than limited budget, we have been told by the men themselves that the little things in life really do count on Father's Day. We and that even braces, garters and belts can be engaging—especially when priced around a dollar or so apiece. Take belts for instance. There have been such innovations here that it's impossible to guess their lowly price any more. The new gabardine belts are especially handsome and they have a big stretch which gives and gives as Dad breathes.

Then, there are amusing leisure hour moccasins. They are often oiled and leather-thonged like a Redman's for stealth during Dad's midnight raids on the icebox. There are cheaply priced black and white rubber beach sandals too and inexpensive burrches either with pull-up back tabs or crepe soles in white or tan for the gay young Father.

Toiletries Welcome

Our final suggestion is the best yet. It has come to us directly as a plea from the fathers themselves. They tell us that the luxury of "beautifying" themselves is one they never indulge in unless a fastidious wife or daughter gives them the hint by presenting a big bottle of toilet water, shaving cream, skin freshener or faintly scented soap. You have no idea how much the man of the house likes to indulge in toilet preparations—entirely his own. According to most men, the tingling old spice scent is tops. This old spice is made by a man who himself supervises the blending of herbs, the combination of spicy scents and the packaging of his early American toiletries.

Here are Father's Day gift suggestions for daughters or wives on close budgets. We sketched these items at local stores for their serviceability and smartness. Upper right—Dad shaves himself from a fragrantly spiced old shaving soap formula, in a decorative early American porcelain mug. He is wearing a lightweight robe of ratine, embellished with a ferocious dragon. Upper left—A matching silk tie and handkerchief set, brightly plaided. The cool cucumber crepe pajamas beneath are gayly striped. The white shirt (lower left) has father's own initials embroidered on the sleeve. Lower right—The white elk moccasins have all the pussy-foot ease of an Indian's.

BEST & CO.

4432 CONNECTICUT AVE., N.W., NEAR ALBEMARLE ST. Emerson 7700
VISIT BEST'S WHEN YOU GO TO THE FAIR

Exclusive

THE ALICE MARBLE SHORT TENNIS DRESS

8.95

FROM BEST'S collection of authentic tennis clothes designed by Alice Marble for comfort - in - action, functional beauty, and bandbox freshness. We have made the collection with the dependable quality and good form typical of Best's. Illustrated is one of the newly-important short tennis dresses. White rayon sharkskin. Sizes 12 to 20.

AIR CONDITIONED FOR YOUR SHOPPING COMFORT

The Gentler Sex

A Queen Passes

She had declared she was not going downtown to be caught in the mob, but at the last moment she weakened. After all, everybody else was going and besides you didn't see a Queen—or a King—every day . . . maybe not again in a lifetime. And then she had read so much about them, seen their pictures, yes, even studied about their forebears in history. Why—why, this was Queen Victoria's great-grandson. The vision of the little old queen with the drooping mouth and the widow's bonnet rose before her . . . then the impressive countenance of Edward VII . . . the dark and beautiful Queen Alexandra in her gay 90's finery . . . George V with his Van Dyke . . . Queen Mary with her familiar hat . . . Edward, the once glamorous Prince of Wales . . .

How close and familiar they seemed! Why it would be almost like seeing old friends. Of course she would go.

Standing in the glaring sun on the sidewalk, pushed and jostled by the crowds, she almost regretted her decision. Masses of perspiring people lifted flushed expectant faces toward the avenue, fighting to hold their vantage grounds. Children whined, cried and munched popples, youths bumped spectators with their cameras, tired matrons fanned themselves with their handkerchiefs, and every five minutes it seemed, someone was carried to the first-aid tents on a stretcher.

Now why on earth had all these people come downtown? Was it just curiosity? The love of a circus? The lure of royalty? The crowd instinct?

The woman next to her was trying to silence a small girl. "Just in a few minutes now, darling, and you'll see the Queen . . . Yes, the Queen . . . No, she's not a princess, but her little girls are princesses . . . No, no, they won't be along, but you'll get to see the QUEEN!"

On her other side two women were talking. "I just don't see how on earth she stands it . . . all those receptions . . . and being in crowds . . . and standing on her feet so much."

"Say, I bet she'll be glad when she can kick her shoes under her own bed again."

A sudden swarming roar overhead and a formation of moving silver crosses in the sky. Soon a stir among the crowd, more elbowing and jostling from the rear, more surging against the ropes in front as the procession of armored tanks passed.

Then—"There they come!" and the throng merged in one swaying mass. Cheers, confetti, the clapping of hands, the waving of handkerchiefs, the leaping of agile spectators into the air.

"There she is! See, with Mrs. Roosevelt!" . . . Yes, in the second car with Mrs. Roosevelt. . . Yes, in white! Yes, with Mrs. Roosevelt! Hurrah!

A tiny mother has a large 6-year-old boy hoisted on her shoulders. She cannot see herself but she joins the crowd's cry. "See, Sonny, the Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt!" . . . In the second car—the Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt! The Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt! The boy strains forward. Every one strains forward. On all sides the echo, "The Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt!" as the car with the small, bowing, waving figure in white sitting beside a tall woman in blue passes.

The wobbly mother lowers her son from her shoulders. "I seen 'em! he cries, starry-eyed. 'The Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt!'"

A woman emerges from the front lines, her hat awry, her face streaming with perspiration. "Well, I saw 'em," she pants to her less intrepid companions. "What did she have on?"

"All in white—with a white parasol."

"What did Mrs. Roosevelt have on?"

"Blue—a light blue."

"What did the Queen look like?"

"She's sweet and she just kept waving her hand like this . . ."

"They say the Queen is very gracious. Oh, say—did you see the King?"

"The King? . . . Oh, yes, he was in the front car with President Roosevelt."

BY MALVINA LINDSAY

Turning away from the crowds she suddenly realized that she had missed seeing the King—Queen Victoria's great-grandson! She had been straining her eyes on the second car—for the woman in white beside Mrs. Roosevelt.

OPEN ALL FACULTIES BEHIND
BY BEST TYPE OF ESSORT PAPERS, TOGETHER WITH NATURAL BEAUTY AND RE-
FRESHMENT. OUR ILLUSTRATED
BOOK . . . WILL EXPLAIN DUTY AND CIVIL LIFE.
SPRING LAKE BEACH, N.J.
Write to CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
On the Ocean 10 miles from New York

Lansburgh's

SEVENTH, EIGHTH and E STREETS District 7575

Giant Size VITA-RAY LIPSTICK

(actual size)

1.00

Alluring lip loveliness! That's what you may expect from the new GIANT SIZE Vita-Ray lipstick. Try it! Eight flattering shades in the newest smart colors to match any complexion day or evening. It will last you all summer.

Air Cooled Toiletries Dept.—Street Floor

Order a Summer's Supply!

KLEENEX TISSUES

3 boxes, 500 sheets each

83c

You'll find a down-and-one use for these efficient, disposable tissues! For pinches, for sniffling, for heavy tears, for mopping up, for taking off excess lipstick and makeup.

Single 500 Sheet Box 28c

Mail & Phone Orders Filled Dist. 7575

Air Cooled Toiletries Dept.—Street Floor

Lansburgh's

SEVENTH, EIGHTH and E STREETS District 7575

New! Colorful 7-Pc. FIESTA Pottery FRUIT JUICE SET

1.00

In This Six Color Ensemble

• Yellow • Blue • Flame
• Turquoise • Green • Ivory

Now you can match your Fiesta service with this fruit juice set. Or you can use it separately on porch or lawn. Set consists of flat-topped ice-lipped jug and six fruit juice tumblers. Genuine Fiesta pottery.

Lansburgh's—Fiesta Ware—Sixth Floor

See the demonstration on our street floor this week! Parchmentized Lamp Shades MADE BY HAND

Watch an expert shade-maker fashion them right before your eyes. See them decorated in lovely designs.

1.00

You can buy them in sizes for bridge, table and reflector lamps. Choose from scores of designs and patterns in Gesso, Composition Board, Scenic Panel and Hand Scored effects. Durable paper parchment processed to look and wear like genuine parchment.

Lansburgh's—Street and Sixth Floors

Scatter Beauty With Your Scatter Rugs

Says "Mary Annette," Decorating Hostess of
The Hecht Co.

For a long, long time the scatter rug was a sort of "make-shift" item . . . just a something-to-keep-you-from-slipping, when your Winter rugs were up. Nowadays, they've become so good-looking, that they are used . . . and used with real effect, the whole year through. Most of you are well acquainted with hand-hooked rugs in lovely soft-colored colorings, looking so well in maple-furnished rooms especially. You may not know the Wool-O-Rug, closely braided all wool rugs, fringed all around, and available in rich solid colors. Then there are Shag-Way rugs, with soft, velvety pile and wide chenille fringe, which come in various shapes and in an amazing range of both pastel and deeper shades. Then there is a group known as Old Homestead rugs that are a sort of glorified version of the old rag rug, just the thing for a maple bedroom. Take a look at the scatter rug department the next time you shop at The Hecht Co. You'll be amazed at the selection.

Consult "Mary Annette" or any member of our staff of Decorators, at any time without any cost or obligation whatsoever. If you prefer an appointment, just call NA. 5100, Branch 500, or if your question can be answered by mail, write to us, and you will receive an answer promptly.

THE HECHT CO.
7 St. at Seventh National 5100

Halifax Warns England Is Ready to Fight

Aggressors Will Meet Resistance, He Tells Lords

By the Associated Press.
London, June 8.—Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax served notice today on the "men who have it in their power to precipitate conflict" that any attempt at aggression in Europe would "meet with wide and resolute resistance."

Halifax said he gave this warning lest "their judgment may be misled them as to the nature of the risk they are running and as to the purpose and temper of those against whose convictions they may be moved to act."

The foreign secretary made his statement in the House of Lords reviewing details of British efforts to win Soviet Russia and other nations into the British-French front.

Europe is faced by complicated problems "which are only too likely to lead to war if roughly handled," he said.

He added, however, that he did not share the view of "those who believe war is unavoidable," because he was convinced that the prospect of certain resistance would deter any nation tempted to risk war.

Halifax said he doubted, however, that an international conference at the present time offered any remedy, because first of all mutual confidence must be established.

Meanwhile, the British government pushed its efforts to bring Soviet Russia into a mutual assistance agreement with Britain and France. The Soviet ambassador, Ivan Maisky, called at the foreign office for clarification of some points in the prime minister's statement yesterday announcing Britain's intention of sending a special envoy to Moscow to speed negotiations.

William Strang, foreign office expert, who is to be the special envoy, arrived by plane from Warsaw to get instructions which he will take to Moscow.

He is expected to depart by air either tomorrow or Saturday.

Roosevelt Signs $100,000,000 War Materials Bill

President Roosevelt today signed the May bill providing for the purchase of $100,000,000 worth of strategic war materials as a House appropriations sub-committee approved a bill providing $305,000,000 to build up the air force.

Both measures are vital parts of the rearmament program. The new military bill, brought up for House action next week, carries funds to give the army 5,500 war planes in the next two years.

Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson yesterday announced the award of contracts totaling $1,494,112 for airplanes, engines and spare parts. The largest award went to Curtiss-Wright Corp. for $1,117,811 for spare parts and material for modification of aircraft.

Bendix Declared Bankrupt; Debts Put at $3,000,000

South Bend, Ind., June 8 (AP).—Vincent Bendix, 38, president of Bendix Aviation Corp., who entered the automotive industry nearly 30 years ago with the first practical self-starter, was formally declared bankrupt today by Referee in Bankruptcy Alvin F. Marsh.

Chicago holders of real estate bond issues, which Bendix personally guaranteed more than 10 years ago, petitioned the Federal court here May 24 that Bendix be held bankrupt. They contended his liabilities exceed $3,000,000, and that his assets were less than $500,000.

Movie on Brazil Tonight

Films on public health activities in Brazil will be shown by Dr. Leonidio Ribeiro, director of the Instituto de Biologia Infantil of Rio de Janeiro in the Pan-American Union Building at 8 o'clock tonight.

Nazi Army Rules Czech City After Slaying of German

'Further Measures' Threatened Unless Killer of Policeman Is Surrendered; Disorder Reported Throughout Protectorate

By the United Press.
Prague, June 8.—The Nazi rulers bring the former Czechoslovak territories more tightly under Nazi control.

Many Communists
Kladno is a leading mining and industrial city and, before Hitler absorbed the remainder of Czechoslovakia last March, had a large Communist vote.

"On the night of June 7," the proclamation said, "a German policeman, Wilhelm Knies, was treacherously murdered in front of the high school at Kladno. The murderer escaped. The Reich protector thereupon decreed the following measures for the police district of Kladno, to remain in force until further notice:

"First, the prohibition of all open-air meetings.

"Secondly, the closing of all theaters, motion picture theaters, and public places.

"Thirdly, the closing of all schools because of agitation activity on the part of a great portion of the faculty.

"Fourthly, the doors and windows of houses to remain closed from 8 p. m. until 5 a. m. and all open windows will be shot into.

"Fifth, removal of the mayor and city representatives of Kladno.

"Sixth, appointment of a government commissar.

"Seventh, disarming and taking into custody of the Czech state police of Kladno for non-fulfillment of duty.

"Should the murderer or murderers not be in custody by 8 p. m. June 9 further measures will be taken.

Czech Police Arrested
Schools, theaters and other public places were closed by Neurath's order. Residents were warned that any open windows would be fired into, an 8 p. m. curfew was imposed, the mayor and other city officials were removed and the Czech state police were taken into custody for failure in their duty.

The Kladno police were disarmed publicly in the market place to tonight as Lieut. Gen. Otto Kamps, of the Nazi police, and State Secretary Karl Frank arrived to begin an investigation.

Mounting tension and brawls between Czechs and Germans throughout Bohemia and Moravia led to speculation that Hitler might alter the status of his protectorate to a full province.

Budget Director Asks for Board to Direct Spending

By the Associated Press.
Harold D. Smith, new director of the Federal budget suggested today the creation of a planning board to fix the Government's long-range spending policy.

What he wants, he explained, amounts to a fiscal road map so that when a costly undertaking is advocated, a look at the map will show whether it is on the same road as the other Federal spending activities.

Smith would not say whether he favored the budget balancing idea of Secretary Morgenthau or the "borrow money in bad times—pay off in good times" theory of Chairman Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board.

But he would like to have some definite policy decided in advance so that the budgets of the next few years can fit into it.

Tentatively, he proposes that the national resources board, headed by Frederick A. Delano, do the broad planning. Then he would have another group such as the President's Fiscal and Monetary Committee—which includes Smith, Morgenthau and Eccles—translate the general policy into specific projects and appropriation requests.

Gen. Malin Craig To Retire Aug. 31

The War Department announced yesterday that Gen. Malin Craig will retire August 31, and indicated that he probably will be relieved as chief of staff of the Army by Brig. Gen. George C. Marshall, July 1.

Gen. Craig has been granted leave from July 1, it was said, but whether he will leave the War Department on that date depends upon Gen. Marshall's plans during the visit of the Brazilian army chief, Gen. Monteiro.

Montero on a tour of Army posts, the retiring chief of staff will probably remain after July 1.

Craig's retirement orders direct that he be retired with the rank of full general.

Nazis Reported Rounding Up 10,000 to Exile

May Deport Those With Polish Passports, Jail Those Without

By the Associated Press.
Berlin, June 8.—Polish Jews who number more than 10,000 in Germany were reported being rounded up today by the Gestapo (secret police) either for deportation or concentration camps, in a new Nazi effort to get rid of foreign Jews.

Jews said groups were being escorted to the Polish frontier daily. So far only men have been invoked in the drive.

In Munich 400 Jews were reported under arrest. Undetermined numbers were in custody in Berlin and Breslau.

Those who lost their Polish passports last November are being taken to concentration camps, while those whose passports are in order are being put across the frontier.

Jews said the Gestapo told them Germany would not tolerate foreigners without passports, and that it was a measure to counter recent Polish deportations of German citizens.

Exiles Are Hopeful
Havana, June 8 (AP).—Hope was held out today to some of the 97 German Jewish refugees aboard the French liner Flandre that they might be permitted to land in Cuba.

The Flandre, bound back to Europe, arrived here today from Mexico, where her Jewish passengers, having first been refused entry here, also were rejected by Mexican authorities.

Capt. Juan Estevez, aide to President Federico Laredo Bru, met the ship and said some of the emigrants who had families in Cuba might be permitted to land temporarily if they could deposit $500.

N. W. Settlement House
Central Neighborhood Council will hold its final meeting of the year at 3:30 p. m. today at the North West Settlement House, 515 M street northwest.

McHenry to Conduct Great Smokies Tour

A three-day tour of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, conducted by Park Naturalist Donald Edward McHenry, begins tonight. Accommodations are available for 100 persons. The party will leave Washington via the Southern Railway at 7 p. m.

Ohio Mayor Wants WPA Continued

Stoppage of WPA projects would be a blow to the welfare of the small towns of America, Fred Marvin, Mayor of Barberton, Ohio, yesterday told the National Right to Work Congress.

THE HECHT CO.

8 STREET AT SEVENTH NATIONAL BLDG

1.99

THEY LOOK LIKE DRESSES

THEY'RE COMFORTABLE AS SLACKS

Cyclottes

The whole sports wardrobe in one!

1.99

Crisp pique cyclotte to keep you fresh and cool at sport or play.

Divided skirt with shirt top (all in one piece) with matching button skirt.

In white and pastels. 12 to 20.

2.99

Printed cotton in color combinations that make this cyclotte pretty enough to wear shopping. Bright prints on natural grounds. Round club collar.

12 to 20.

3.99

As well styled as your more expensive dresses! Pretty printed spun rayon with brief bolero that removes to reveal a sunback cyclotte. Pastels. Sizes 12 to 20.

3.99

Beach 'n' Sport Shop, Third Floor, The Air-Conditioned Hecht Co.

Md. Woman Elected

Detroit, June 8 (AP).—Mrs. Raymond A. Pearson, of Hyattsville, Md., was elected corresponding secretary of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association today and all other officers were re-elected.

Mint Head to Speak

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, Director of the Mint, will speak at commencement exercises for 350 members of the graduating class of the Washington School for Secretaries at 8 p. m. today in the National Press Club auditorium.

Bridges Hearing Deferred

The Labor Department yesterday postponed a hearing on deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, West Coast C. I. O. Maritime Union leader, from June 26 to July 10. Bridges, a native of Australia alleged to be in this country illegally,

THE HECHT CO.

8 STREET AT SEVENTH NATIONAL BLDG

72c

Sale! 79c, 89c, '1 and '1.15

HOSIERY

2-Threads for Evening 72c

89c 3-Threads with Lace-Top for Dress 72c

79c 4-Threads with Stretch Top 3 lengths 72c

79c 7-Thread Service-Weights with Lisle Soles 72c

$1 Fine Silk Meshes for Sports 72c

$1.15 2-Thread Action Back Stockings 72c

$1 3-Threads with Lace Toe and Heel 72c

Air-Conditioned Hosiery Department, Main Floor, The Hecht Co.

THE HECHT CO.

8 STREET AT SEVENTH NATIONAL BLDG

Summer In Sandals $1.95

Let your imagination run riot. It's a sandal season and you can be as mad and different as you please.

Wrap a bandana round your ankle. Liket-hop long the boardwalk on wooden soles. Turn peasant with bright Tyrolean colors. Everything goes in sandals and sandals go everywhere there's sun and fun.

Air-Conditioned Shoe Department, Main Floor, The Hecht Co.

THE HECHT CO.

8 STREET AT SEVENTH NATIONAL BLDG

Bring a Breeze Indoors With This Powerful

List $8.95 Westinghouse

'FROST-AIRE' 10-Inch

Oscillating Fan

6.98 (discontinued)

A stunning streamlined, two-toned fan that throws a refreshing breeze over an amazingly wide area. Rotary snap switch with positive action, conveniently mounted on the side. Fully enclosed, drip-proof oscillator with finger-tip release for non-oscillation.

Mail and Phone Orders—District 9400

Householdings—Fifth Floor—The Hecht Co.

The Hecht Co. Completely Air-Conditioned

AND A HUGE MODERN PARKING BUILDING FOR YOUR CAR RIGHT AT THE REAR OF THE STORE. NOMINAL RATES

California's crew trained yesterday in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for the Intercollegiate Regatta June 17. Left to right—Dietrich, coxswain; Smith, stroke; Gibson, Freeborn, Bergh, Emerson, DeVarona, Backland, Roe.

SECTION
III
Racing
Baseball

The Washington Post

Classified
Comics

SECTION
III

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1939

23

Snead's 68 Leads Open; Guldahl Tied for Fourth

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Cleveland, June 8.—Elmer's here in Cleveland. He reported to the Nats today, fresh out of the University of Michigan. And Bucky Harris, in sheer desperation, may give him the first base job right away.

He's Elmer Gedeon, and he bears a famous baseball name, although he's never seen his cousin. Joe Gedeon, who was some shucks as an infielder for Washington, St. Louis and other American League clubs.

In fact, he never saw Bucky Harris until today, nor did he ever see Clark Griffith, who offered him a Washington contract. Griffith saw Elmer, however. He was watching from the stands last month when Gedeon was playing for the Michigan varsity against the University of Maryland at College Park.

A letter from Griffith, containing offer of a bonus for signing, fetched Elmer to the Nats. He donned a Washington uniform today for the first time, and in a uniform he is something to see. He's 6 feet 4 inches, a strapping 200-pounder, and has all the physical specifications of a swell first baseman.

Tigers Overlooked Young Nat

He took batting practice today, and it would be nice to be able to state that he walloped the ball all over the lot and out of the park. But he didn't. He didn't even get a decent hit. But he was in something of a spot, because the batting-practice pitcher was Bucky Harris, the manager he is supposed to impress, and the lad was visibly over-anxious and off in his timing.

The impression among the Nats is that he will hit. They like his batting stroke and they've been told about his .330 average for Michigan which contained more than a sprinkling of extra-base knocks. But there is one disturbing angle concerning Elmer—the Detroit Tigers scout Michigan pretty thoroughly. Few ball players in that sector escape the Tiger scouts. And apparently they rejected Elmer as a big league prospect.

"I'm not sure, though," Harris was saying today. "The Tigers are well heeled for first basemen, with Hank Greenberg and Rudy York available. A boy they wouldn't be interested in might be all right for us. My information is that he may do well."

Elmer may get his chance at a big league job immediately. Sammy West, who has made no claims of being a first baseman, is not giving the Nats adequate protection at the bat. Today he muffed two balls and showed his unfamiliarity at the position. What can be said for West, though, is that he is probably the best outfielder first baseman in the league.

Certainly it's a glowing opportunity for Gedeon, if he has any ability. No other rookie ever faced such an inviting chance to break into the big leagues and stick, because the Nats at this time have no first baseman.

Redskins Might Use Elmer

If he doesn't make the grade with the Nats, George Preston Marshall might be interested in Elmer. For three years he was a varsity end at Michigan. Football, baseball and track were his dishes and he seems to have done pretty well in all of them. In fact, he did well enough in track to win the Big Ten Conference indoor high hurdles championship last year and this year, and he's passing up a probable trip to Finland for the 1940 Olympics because he wants to play baseball.

He was chosen, too, on the Big Ten all-star baseball team which leaves tomorrow for a tour of the Pacific Coast—Hollywood and the San Francisco Fair. But Elmer can't be bothered. He wants to play baseball, and he's smart enough to know that with Washington he has a chance to break into the big league pronto, if he can produce.

Elmer's 21 years old, a Cleveland boy. And the first baseman he hopes to succeed is Jimmy Wadell, who was also a Cleveland sand-lotter, but was discharged by the Nats as a first baseman ten days ago. Elmer was considerable of a figure on the Cleveland lot, competing with the somewhat famous Fisher Foods team that won the national amateur championship in 1938.

Another thing about Elmer. On June 17, when his class graduates at Michigan, Elmer will graduate, too. But he won't be there to receive his bachelor of arts degree and his diploma, or to see the commencement exercises. But he'll graduate, nevertheless. His sheepskin will be delivered by Uncle Sam. He'll graduate by mail.

Paul Derringer Brouillard, And Cincinnati Abrams Box Here June 19

Big Red Ace Beasts Mulcahy in Duel Under Flood Lights

Goldie Ahead to File Signed Contracts With Commission Today

By International News Service.

Philadelphia, June 8.—The Phillies lost the second home night game in its history tonight to the Cincinnati Reds before 16,000 fans in Shibe Park by the score, 3-2.

The game, played in city sulking in heat, was decided in the third inning when the Reds pushed across two runs to lead 3 to 2—the final score.

In the first inning the Reds scored a run when Bill Werber doubled and came home on Lonnie Frey's single to center. But the Phillies came right back the same inning to score their two runs. With two out, Whitney singled to left and Morrie Aronovich pumped out a double that scored Whitney. Aronovich came in on Joe Marty's double.

In the second inning, Werber doubled and came home on Lonnie Frey's single to center. But the Phillies came right back the same inning to score their two runs. With two out, Whitney singled to left and Morrie Aronovich pumped out a double that scored Whitney. Aronovich came in on Joe Marty's double.

In the third inning, Werber doubled and came home on Lonnie Frey's single to center. But the Phillies came right back the same inning to score their two runs. With two out, Whitney singled to left and Morrie Aronovich pumped out a double that scored Whitney. Aronovich came in on Joe Marty's double.

By Al Bailey.

Moving into the heavier brackets of fight talent, Promoter Joe Turner yesterday completed negotiations for a ten-round match June 19 between George Abrams, Washington middleweight, and Lou Brouillard, former world's middleweight and welterweight champion, in Griffith Stadium.

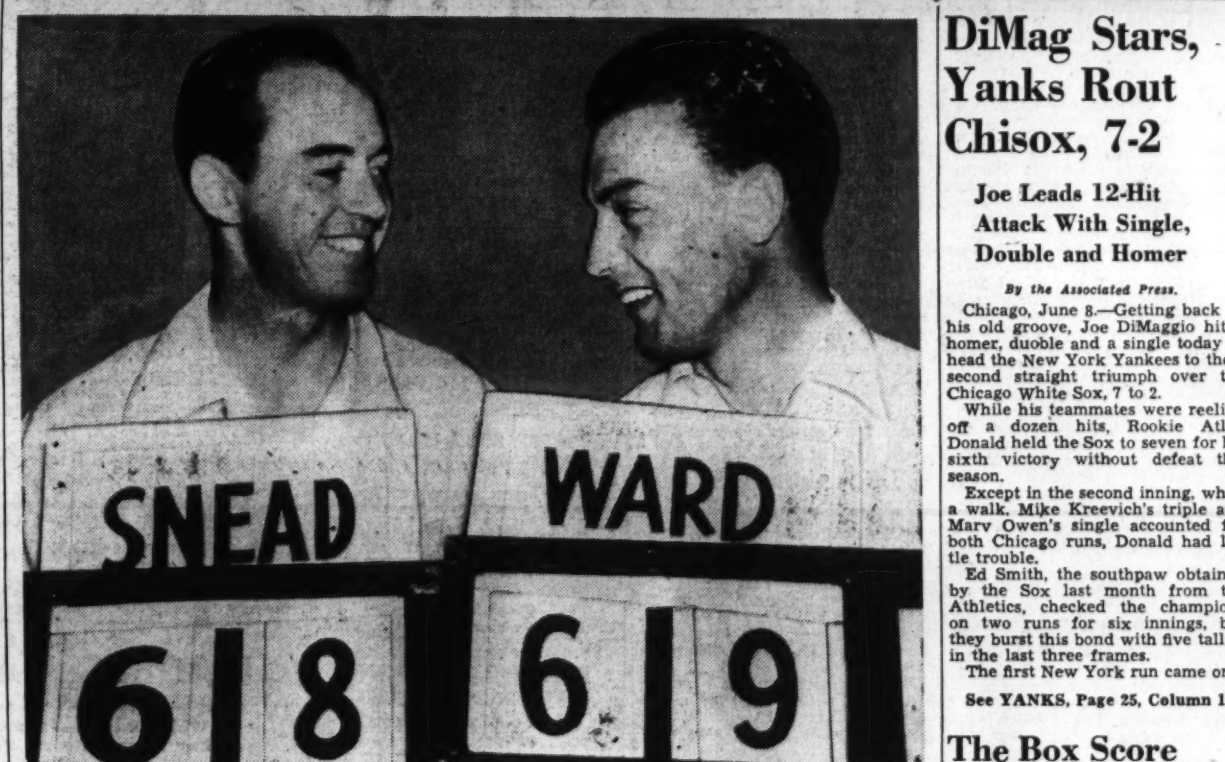

Signed contracts were received yesterday from both Abrams and Brouillard by Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn. He will file them with the District Boxing Commission today, he said.

Ahearn said he had been seeking to match Abrams and Brouillard several weeks, but had been given the cold shoulder by both. Chris Dundee, who manages Abrams out of New York, and Johnny Buckley, Brouillard's manager, until yesterday.

Brouillard's southpaw fighting stance was Dundee's chief objection. Goldie confided, adding modestly that he sold Dundee the match when he promised to help Abrams solve the southpaw situation as he is an old-time southpaw fighter.

Abrams, recovered from a back injury which once promised to end his boxing career, has been receiving wide acclaim of New York boxing experts as a result of his victory over Harry Balsamo there recently. The Washington boy has blossomed out as a promising challenger for Solly Krieger's middleweight crown. Brouillard, who returned six weeks ago from a European trip, defeated Henry Chmielewski, Polish middleweight champion, in Worcester, Mass., his home town, Saturday.

Bethesda Pro Swings Out—Snead Displays Score

Upper—Frank Cunningham (right), Bethesda, Md., professional, drives off the first tee, beginning of the first round of the National Open Golf championship over the tough Spring Hill course in Philadelphia yesterday. Stockton Rogers, 16-year-old amateur, Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., waits to follow Cunningham, who shot an 82. Lower—Sammy Snead (left), of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., displays his first round leading 68, while Marvin Ward, Spokane, Wash., puts on almost as equally proud an expression over his 69, giving him a tie for second place with Lawson Little.

Nat Errors Help Indians Win, 7-5

Joe Krakauskas' Pitching Wasted By Bad Support

By Shirley Povich.

A Staff Correspondent.

Cleveland, June 8.—The Nats succeeded in winning a ball game for the Cleveland Indians today. At least the Nats were potent adversaries, for they tossed five errors and a passed ball into the proceedings.

The score was 7 to 5, and four of the Cleveland runs were outright gifts by what was supposed to be the Nats defense.

Their pitiable performance in the field amounted to sabotage of Joe Krakauskas' pitching. Krakauskas was not entirely superb himself out on the mound, but he pitched well enough to win, barring the treasonable antics of his mates in the field.

Krakauskas' eighth defeat of the season is directly traceable to a sixth-inning when the Indians came up with three runs, because Buddy Myer and Taft Wright collaborated ludicrously in a failure to catch a pop fly, and because Buddy Lewis dropped the ball after tagging a runner at third base. There were various other Washington errors, but those misplays were the pay-off incidents.

Like the Indians, the Nats collected nine hits, and they batted Mel Harder out of the box in the seventh, but Oscar Vitt then called upon one of his starting pitchers to do a relief job, and Willis Hudlin slammed the door in the Nats' faces thereafter.

For three innings Krakauskas and Mel Harder were in complete charge of the hostilities, with each pitching one-hit ball and allowing no runs. The Nats escaped without damage in the third inning despite a miff by Sammy West, another by Krakauskas and a passed ball by Ferrell, but they didn't escape in the fourth.

In that inning after Krakauskas walked Heath and pitched a single to Keltner with one out, Grimes drove in a run with a double off the rightfield wall and the Indians scored another when Travis booted Webb's grounder.

The Nats restored the score 2 to 2 in the next inning. Specifically, Bobby Estalella did it. After Krakauskas had singled, and Case had walked, Estalella blasted a two-

Estalella Drives in Three Tallies With Pair of Doubles

seventh, but Oscar Vitt then called upon one of his starting pitchers to do a relief job, and Willis Hudlin slammed the door in the Nats' faces thereafter.

For three innings Krakauskas and Mel Harder were in complete charge of the hostilities, with each pitching one-hit ball and allowing no runs. The Nats escaped without damage in the third inning despite a miff by Sammy West, another by Krakauskas and a passed ball by Ferrell, but they didn't escape in the fourth.

In that inning after Krakauskas walked Heath and pitched a single to Keltner with one out, Grimes drove in a run with a double off the rightfield wall and the Indians scored another when Travis booted Webb's grounder.

The Nats restored the score 2 to 2 in the next inning. Specifically, Bobby Estalella did it. After Krakauskas had singled, and Case had walked, Estalella blasted a two-seventh, but Oscar Vitt then called upon one of his starting pitchers to do a relief job, and Willis Hudlin slammed the door in the Nats' faces thereafter.

DiMag Stars, Yanks Rout Chisox, 7-2

Joe Leads 12-Hit Attack With Single, Double and Homer

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, June 8.—Getting back in his old groove, Joe DiMaggio hit a homer, double and a single today to head the New York Yankees to their second straight triumph over the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 2.

While his teammates were reeling off a dozen hits, Rookie Alex Donahue held the Sox to seven for his sixth victory without defeat this season.

Except in the second inning, when a walk, Mike Kreevich's triple and Marv Owen's single accounted for both Chicago runs, Donald had little trouble.

Ed Smith, the southpaw obtained by the Sox last month from the Athletics, checked the champions on two runs for six innings, but they burst this bond with five tallies in the last three frames.

The first New York run came on a

See YANKS, Page 25, Column 1.

The Box Score

WASHINGTON, AB R H O A E

Case, cf. 4 2 0 0 0

Estalella, lf. 4 2 0 0 0

Lewis, 3b. 4 0 0 2 2

Wright, rf. 3 1 0 0 0

Weiss, cf. 1 0 0 0 0

Travis, ss. 5 1 2 3 1

Myer, 2b. 4 0 1 4 3

West, lf. 2 0 0 7 1

Ferrell, c. 2 1 1 3 0

Krakauskas, p. 2 1 1 1 1

Kelly, p. 0 0 0 0 0

Early, p. 1 0 0 0 0

Masterson, p. 0 0 0 0 0

Totals 35 9 24 11 5

*Batted for Kelley in eighth.

CLEVELAND, AB R H O A E

Hemsey, c. 5 1 1 3 0 0

Campbell, rf. 4 1 2 0 1 0

Chapman, cf. 0 0 0 0 0

Heath, lf. 4 0 0 0 0

Trosky, 1b. 3 2 0 10 2 0

Keltner, 3b. 5 1 2 0 2 0

Grimes, 2b. 4 0 1 4 5 1

Webb, ss. 4 1 1 3 6 0

Harder, p. 3 1 0 1 2 0

Hudlin, p. 1 0 0 0 0

Totals 38 7 27 17 1

WASHINGTON, 000 021 110-5

Cleveland, 000 213 10x-7

Runs batted in—Grimes, Webb, Estalella (3), Trosky, Myer, Hemsey, Chapman (2), Hudlin, Trosky, 1b. 4

Left on bases—Washington, 10; Cleveland, 11. First base on balls—Off Harder, 7; off Masterson, 1; off Kelley, 1; off Grimes, 1; off Webb, 1; off Travis, 1; off Case, 1; off Estalella, 1; off Lewis, 1; off Wright, 1; off Weiss, 1; off Myer, 1; off West, 1; off Ferrell, 1; off Krakauskas, 1; off Kelly, 1; off Early, 1; off Masterson, 1.

Umpires—Fitzgarrald, Kolls and Geisel. Time of game—Two hours 26 minutes.

Houghton's 73 Paces Five District Golfers; Walper, Cox Get 74's

Bobby Brownell Shoots 77 and Cunningham Gets 82 at Philadelphia

By Merrell W. Whittlesey

A Staff Correspondent.

Philadelphia, June 8.—Al Houghton, golf instructor at Georgetown Prep School, was off to his best start in ten National Open championships here today at Spring Mill, a four-over-par 73 that placed him five shots back of Sammy Snead, the leader, but atop the District's five-man entry.

The veteran of 18 national championships, the only man that has ever played in the public links-amateur-P. G. A. and open, Houghton was out in 37, three over par, and back in 36, with six fours on the finishing holes, including the last where he dropped his first long putt of the day for his initial birdie, a 25-footer.

A stroke back, and in the low 50 scores in the field of 165, were Leo Walper, East-West highway driving range pro, and Wiffy Cox, Congressional, with rounds of 74. A duplication tomorrow would qualify them for Saturday's twin and final rounds. The low 60 and ties will play after tomorrow's first elimination.

Brownell Gets 77

Washington's amateur representation, Bobby Brownell, Manor Club, was well down the list with a 77, a score duplicated by Baltimore's Simon-pure champion of the Middle Atlantic area, Otto Greiner, the other qualifier at Congressional. Frank Cunningham, Burning Tree mentor, who gained considerable publicity by being first off the tee in the forty-third championship, gained little notice from his score, a 13-over-par 82.

Houghton played the most consistent golf of the five, Walper the most sensational—while Cox was the only one to perfect figures on the afternoon downpour. But it indirectly cost him 4 strokes. Brownell, who did not play well in practice rounds, was content with his 77, while Cunningham had three 2-over-par holes to blame, that cost him at least 6 shots.

Traps on the first and third and 3-putts on the eighth cost Houghton 3 strokes to perfect figures on the nine. He scored a great par on the eleventh, after trapping his tee shot on the 100-yard par 3, and standing virtually on one foot to blast out, then dropping a 10-foot putt. He sliced a four-wood on the twelfth, the ball was partially buried, and he took a spoon on the par-3 thirteenth. He finished in regulation par until the birdie finally came on the last hole.

Walper Stars Well

Walper started like he was off to one of his hot rounds. He missed par on the tough second hole, a par 3 that requires a driver from the tee, but dropped birdie putts of 8 to 2 feet on three and four, for a feat not duplicated during the day. He 3-putted the fifth, however, to lose one of the strokes, and then suffered a lapse around the sixth green by taking 4 to get down from the edge.

He was trapped and buried on the ninth, taking 5 to get down from a sliced drive and 4-foot putt to him strokes to par on ten and twelve, he dropped a birdie on the fifteenth, his longest putt of the day, 10 feet, but, with par for a 72, finished poorly, 3-putting the seventh and playing the last hole in trouble all the way for the 77.

Cox was buried in a footprint in a trap on the second, when a workman neglected to rake the sand, and went two over par with a five. He lost two more strokes to par before a birdie on the ninth, via a three-foot putt, put him out in 36. The rain, that caught all the late finishers, hit Wiffy on 11 and he went over par four holes in a row. A birdie on 15, with two fine shots and a short putt, left him five over and he finished even with the card for the 74.

Brownell, played with George

See D. C. PLAYERS, Page 24, Col. 2.

Baseball's Big Six

By the Associated Press

BATTING (Three leaders in each league)

Player, Club, AB, R, H, O, A, E, Pct.

Aronovich, Phillies 43 166 29 67 494

Medina, Browns 44 178 38 64 580

Bonura, Giants 44 160 32 54 526

McCormick, Reds 39 181 33 63 548

Campbell, Indians 39 89 20 31 348

Keltner, Indians 44 160 32 55 544

Sullivan, Braves 32 98 16 35 344

RUNS BATTED IN

American League

Wright, Senators, 29; Goodman, Reds, 40

Williams, Red Sox, 28; Lombardi, Reds, 28

Walker, White Sox, 28; McCormick, Reds, 27

HOME RUNS

American League

Greenberg, Tigers, 13; Lombardi, Reds, 10

Sullivan, Yankees, 10; Campbell, Dodgers, 10

Fox, Red Sox, 9; O'Halloran, Yankees, 9

Miner, Cardinals, 8

McCormick, Reds, 8

Games Today

Pittsburgh at Boston.

Klinger (4-5) vs. Fesefeldt (4-3).

Chicago at New York.

French (4-3) vs. Lohman (3-2).

St. Louis at Brooklyn.

Warneke (6-2) vs. Pressnell (2-3).

(Only games scheduled.)

Games Tomorrow

Pittsburgh at New York.

Cincinnati at Brooklyn.

Chicago at Detroit.

St. Louis at Philadelphia.

Sammy Scores One Of Most Brilliant Birdies in History Of National Open

By Bob Considine.

Philadelphia, June 8.—Just when his game had begun to resemble that of a Sunday morning duffer, Slamming Sammy Snead stepped into a deep sun-baked trap here today, lashed savagely at the ball, and it soared up, hit the putting green and gurgled contentedly into the cup.

The shot—one of the most brilliant birdies in the 43-year-old history of the U. S. Open—gave Snead a new lease on life. And from there, the twelfth hole, he swung home contentedly to card a sub-par 68. It gave him a 1-shot leadership over the field of 165 of the country's finest pros and amateurs with 54 holes of the tough Spring Mill course left to play.

Breathing heavily on Sam's sun-burned neck came a latter-day miracle—a good amateur, Bud Ward, a member of the last Walker Cup team, slammed his way home with a par 69. The 24-year-old youngster played the treacherous course with light-headed abandon and hit two magnificent woods to reach the edge of the green on the 558-yard eighteenth. But with a chance to tie Snead, he swallowed uncertainty, poked timorously with his putter, and needed three putts to coax the pill into the bucket.

Lawson Little, roly-poly slugger who gave up amateur golf after twice winning the U. S. and British crowns, streaked home at twilight with a 69 to tie Ward for second place. Little started off with a blunder that would have disheartened a less courageous player. He looked up as he hit his first tee shot and the ball dribbled hardly 50 yards. But he plugged in there, took a 36 for the first nine, then not a brilliant 33 coming home, bagging birdies on the fifteenth and sixteenth and a great eagle on the eighteenth.

Little and Ward were joined later in the day by one of the last starters, Mat Koval, of nearby Philmont, Pa.

Just behind them was a little knot

See OPEN, Page 24, Column 2.

The Majors

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Standing of the Teams

W. L. Pct. G.B.

New York 35 9 795 ...

Boston 24 26 690 ...

Chicago 24 26 687 ...

Cleveland 23 21 523 12

Detroit (1-4) vs. Benton (1-3).

Philadelphia 18 26 469 17

WASHINGTON 18 27 400 17 1/2

St. Louis 13 31 295 22

Yesterday's Results

Cleveland, 7; WASHINGTON, 5.

New York, 7; Chicago, 2.

Detroit, 8; Philadelphia, 4.

Boston, 8; St. Louis, 7 (second game, rain).

Games Today

WASHINGTON at Cleveland.

Chase (3-6) vs. Feller (9-2).

New York at Chicago.

Hadley (5-9) vs. Rigney (3-3).

Philadelphia at Detroit.

Ross (1-4) vs. Benton (1-3).

Bagby (3-3) and Wilson (2-3) vs. Kennedy (2-6) and Kramer (4-4).

Games Tomorrow

WASHINGTON at Detroit (2).

New York at St. Louis.

Philadelphia at Cleveland.

Boston at Chicago.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Standing of the Teams

W. L. Pct. G.B.

Cincinnati 31 15 574 ...

Indian Spring Junior Horse Show June 18

Record Entry List Expected for Event At M. Curran Farm

A new addition to the local horse show circuit, the Indian Spring Junior Horse Show, will make its bow June 18 at Marrian Curran's Indian Spring Valley Farm, Silver Spring, Md.

A record list of entries is expected, Vincent P. Lester, secretary, said, predicting one of the largest crowds ever to witness an Indian Spring farm show will be on hand.

There are 15 classes in the show, limited to riders under 19 years of age.

Riders who will be seen in action include Frank "Happy" Christman, Eddie Talbert, Elaine McDowell, Mickey Magill, Jimmie Edelblut, Don Armiger, Jr., Harriet Crowder, Buck Magill, June Curran, Mercer Fidelity, Margaret Hill, Margaret Sanderson, Hubert Klempner, 3d, David Belding, Helen Randall, Jack Devereaux, Frank Owens, Dean Rathburne and Preston Cox.

The classes of competition are small and large jumping ponies, novice horsemanship class, good hands class, road horse, hunter, working hunters, open jumpers, touch and out, triple bar, corinthian and championship. Marrian Curran may be reached at Kensington 123.

Wisconsin, Syracuse

Greens Clash Today

Syracuse, N. Y. June 8 (AP)—Coach Ralph Hunt put his rangy University of Wisconsin oarsmen through a final workout today on Onondaga Lake, where they will meet the Syracuse University crew in a 3-mile pull tomorrow.

"It will be the first dual meeting between Wisconsin and Syracuse crews since 1937, when Ned Ten Eyck, now Orange, mentor, was coaching at Madison.

First-Round Results in National Open Golf Play

"Denotes amateur.

Bob Brand, White Sulphur Springs 35-38

Marvin Ward, Spokane, Wash. 35-40

Raymond Little, Elgin, Ill. 35-40

Max Koval, Philadelphia, Pa. 35-40

W. McQuinn, Winchester, Mass. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Gray Wood, Mammoth, N.Y. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Danny Shute, Huntington, N.Y. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Snead Leading In National Open

OPEN, from Page 23.

of seasoned pros, locked in the cloudy embrace of a four-way tie. They were Tommy Armour, winner of the open in 1927; Olin Dutra, 1934 winner; Craig Wood, who tied for the British Open in 1933; Lloyd Mangrum, of Los Angeles; Danny Shute, British Open champion in 1933 and twice P. G. A. titled holder, and Harold J. McGowan, of Winchester, Mass., runner-up to Shute for the latter crown in 1927. All shot 70's, a fine score on what has been judged the toughest course in the history of the open event.

Guldhall Gets 71

Tied at 71 with two amateurs and the veteran, Harry Cooper, was the tournament's 6-to-1 favorite, flabby Ralph Guldhall. He played his usual game for 17 holes, hypnotized by his great concentration, but on the eighteenth—50 yards from the green—he asked his caddy whether to use a No. 8 or No. 9 with which to chip. They chatted about this awhile, while the big gallery hung silently. Then Guldhall took the caddy's advice and made a bad shot with the club he chose. He missed his putt, too, the ball rimming the hole. Guldhall again, for the second time, missed it again. Guldhall is the shortest-priced betting favorite in the history of the event.

The classes of competition are small and large jumping ponies, novice horsemanship class, good hands class, road horse, hunter, working hunters, open jumpers, touch and out, triple bar, corinthian and championship. Marrian Curran may be reached at Kensington 123.

Wisconsin, Syracuse

Greens Clash Today

Syracuse, N. Y. June 8 (AP)—Coach Ralph Hunt put his rangy University of Wisconsin oarsmen through a final workout today on Onondaga Lake, where they will meet the Syracuse University crew in a 3-mile pull tomorrow.

"It will be the first dual meeting between Wisconsin and Syracuse crews since 1937, when Ned Ten Eyck, now Orange, mentor, was coaching at Madison.

First-Round Results in National Open Golf Play

"Denotes amateur.

Bob Brand, White Sulphur Springs 35-38

Marvin Ward, Spokane, Wash. 35-40

Raymond Little, Elgin, Ill. 35-40

Max Koval, Philadelphia, Pa. 35-40

W. McQuinn, Winchester, Mass. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Gray Wood, Mammoth, N.Y. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Danny Shute, Huntington, N.Y. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Alta Dritz, Los Angeles, Calif. 35-40

Bill Ackerman

on Fishing

It is very likely this week-end will see striped bass fishing taking the spotlight, for where is the angler that can continue bottom fishing when these gamesters are around? Some really fine catches have been made in the Chester River, in Eastern Bay and in the Choptank, and from now on, worth trying any time. Eastern Bay is the most accessible place for western shore boats. Guides from Annapolis and South River, West River and Herring Bay fish this section.

From any one of them, it is hardly more than an hour's run.

Live shrimp, for chumming as well as bait, is by far the sportiest manner in taking them, when the shrimp are to be had.

For a week or two we are going to have a lot of fun with this fish, for your convenience, of captains and guides whom we have always found reliable. If you have any idea of fishing at these points, clip them for your own use.

For hardheads, as we noted last week, write your own ticket. By that we mean fish from your favorite grounds, for they have practically taken possession of the whole of Chesapeake Bay. Some of the boats continue to fish Eastern Shore waters, but there is little use of an hour's run when they are biting so well on this side.

Last Sunday, in the Herring Bay area, we never saw so many large strings of hardheads in our life. It is open to anyone, regardless of membership—just give Bob Wilson or Milton Gordon a ring.

For any degree of success, in landing large fish with such light line, keep in mind the fact that your rod and reel must also be light. We have known of stiff buggy whips being fitted with a tip and ferrule of this kind of fishing—and it was remarkably successful. A light bait-casting or fly rod will do as well, seeing that buggy whips are hard to obtain outside of museums.

Prizes for Victors

There are prizes, as well as certificates for those who catch a fish over 10 inches long. To that, add the possibility of making the grade in the G. C. Murphy contest for the outstanding fishing achievement of 1939 wherein the manner of taking counts more heavily than the actual weight of the fish. A 5 or 6 pound hardhead on No. 24 thread isn't far out of the running against almost any kind of a fish. And if that hardhead is over 6 pounds—don't forget there is no record of the species on the books. It looks as though it is possible to kill even more than two birds with such a shot, and after you see that, you will cry out for a set, shortly to go on display along with many other prizes, we know you're going to be out there trying.

With us it has always been hats off to the Miami Beach Rod and Reel Club, not only for their very real and outstanding accomplishments, but also for the manner of their doing.

In their Boys Day Afloat announcement this week a note at the bottom calls attention to the fact that any member who might not have a boy—one will gladly be furnished. We should have a rod and reel club here, and a Boys Day at least once each month.

Even though some local anglers think we shouldn't digress from local fishing at this season of the year, to us, however, in other places, we feel different—particularly when we think of the many telephone calls during the past 10 days for news of the Cat Cay Tournament.

Now that it is over, that easily rates as the outstanding four-star marine show that has ever been staged anywhere in the world. The only headache in the whole affair was the lack of adequate press coverage. For with the exception of one New York angling editor and Miami's A. Roman, both of whom covered the 10-day fishing affair for their own papers, there was no coverage.

We owe our good luck in getting the results to our good friend Tommy Aitken, who directed the recent Miami tournament, and who was over to Cat Cay as a spectator.

44 Anglers Competed

Forty-four anglers (one to a boat) from almost every part of the United States were competing. The best three days out of ten were counted in the scoring, with the decision to fish or not being made before 10 a. m. . . 146 un-mutilated fish were caught in the actual event and entered . . . average weight was 440 pounds each . . . another 100 were mutilated by sharks. A really high percentage of loss, for a mutilated fish cannot count in the scoring. There was a total of 55 tuna caught during the second official day. Seven hundred were hooked in the three days the men fished. In the ladies' day competition 20 women fished and 13 of them landed 17 fish. Mrs. Julien Bishop first, Mrs. Tatem Wofford second and Mrs. John K. Weeks third.

For the men, Julio Sanchez, of Havana, captain of the international Cuban angling team last year at Nova Scotia, was first with fish totaling 4,177 pounds. Second was Laddie Sanford, well-known polo player of New Amsterdam, N. Y., with 11 fish totaling 4,510 pounds. T. H. v. d. I. Sanchez, Julio's brother, was third with 10 fish weighing 4,460 pounds. The win with the smaller number of fish was due to the use of 39-thread line. Had he used 44-thread as did the others, he would have taken at least half a dozen more fish.

At least $20,000 worth of tackle was broken and lost. Tommy Aitken says the way rods, reels and lines were broken and fishing chairs as well as other gear went to pieces was breath-taking. A new Bahamas record of 652 pounds was set by John Nichols, of Chicago.

Greatest of Contests

C. N. Cook (Cookie), manager of Cat Cay, is credited with staging the greatest fishing contest of all time, not only as to picking just the right time, but to the smallest detail for the comfort of the contestants and guests. It is hoped it will be an annual affair. The 65,000 pounds of tuna were cleaned and refrigerated aboard the United States Coast Guard Cutter Mojave and taken to Miami for distribution to the needy.

Sea trout are running better and heavier along the Maryland and Delaware beaches. Another week should see the run at the Delaware beach, water going strong. At Wachapreague, Va., they are scaling as high as 9 pounds and running in numbers up to 50 to the boat. Catches of channel bass are continuing good at almost every point from Oregon Inlet to Fox Hill Levels just below Ocean City. In many sections night fishing is in full swing, particularly at Nags Head and Oregon Inlet.

At Ocean City the Game Fishermen's Association is offering a rod and reel week for the largest bluefish taken. The first one (last week) was won by a Washington angler, A. H. Johnson, 1240 Ninth street northwest, fish- ing from Capt. Joe Bunton's boat.

Capt. Jim Whaley caught six nice ones this week, most of them running better than 4 pounds. At the same time 44 Boston mackerels were taken by Capt. W. J. Monday caught 92 Boston mackerel and several blues. From the reports, the blues are laying south, but not in heavy numbers. Quarter, while the mackerel are caught to the north near Fenwick Shoals.

50 BOATS

On the Bay

Shortest Route to the Coast, Day or Night Parties. We Never Sleep.

Capt. Weldon G. Parks

PRINCE FREDERICK 10-7-4

Ocean City, Md.

EM-PRISS II

CAPT. JIM WHALEY

MARLIN FISHING

Phone Ocean City 194M

Ocean City, Md.

CAPT. LEO DROUGHTON

DIESEL CRUISE BOAT

MARLIN FISHING

PHONE OCEAN CITY 10

Foxhill Levels, Md.

FINEST SURF FISHING

PINE TREE GUN CLUB

CAPT. SELBY PURNELL

Gloucester Point, Va.

On Route No. 17

CAPT. T. S. CLOPTON

FINE BOATS

GOOD FISHING

PH. Gloucester Point 9711

Seaford, Va.

E. A. WHITE & SON

OVERNIGHT PARTIES

3 Large Modern Boats

PH. YORKTOWN 2391

Cape Charles, Va.

CAPT. BRYAN TRAVIS

CHANNEL BASS

PH. Cape Ch. 145

Get Better Fly PICK

The right fly for the job

J.T.'s Soft Finish fly line for your rod, better cast, better catch.

ing, take more big bass. Fine quality braided silk. Soft finished under high vacuum—weighty, smooth, tough, elastic, smooth, freely level and tapered along. Popular prices. . . See them today, at your regular dealer's.

Always Buy Only

Clarke Troller

World's Lightest

Outboard Motor

Weight 9½-lb.

Height 21"

• ACTUAL HORSEPOWER 12

Adjustable Pitch Propeller.

No Exposed Moving Parts.

Available for Demonstration and Immediate Delivery

$34.50 DETROIT

CAPITOL BOATS

12th and UPHUR ST. N.W.

Now 5¢ PINT (WAS $1.15)

86.9 Proof, Contains 75% Grain Neutral Spirits

OLD MR. ROCKING CHAIR WHISKY

BRAND

Not only expert blending, but con- siderable time and effort in the special blending process—the secret of Rocking Chair's famous flavor. You'll agree at first sip!

OLD

ORATION

17th Street at G

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

President of the City Bank of Washington, founded 33 years ago today

New York Stock Exchange

Stocks

Dow Jones Stocks

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Express, General Motors, and Ford.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like United Fruit, International Harvester, and Consolidated Tires.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Telephone, Western Union, and Bell Telephone.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like General Electric, Westinghouse, and Edison.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like International Paper, United States Paper, and American Paper.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Lumber, United Lumber, and National Lumber.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Oil, United Oil, and National Oil.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Coal, United Coal, and National Coal.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Steel, United Steel, and National Steel.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Iron, United Iron, and National Iron.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Copper, United Copper, and National Copper.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Lead, United Lead, and National Lead.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Zinc, United Zinc, and National Zinc.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Silver, United Silver, and National Silver.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Gold, United Gold, and National Gold.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Platinum, United Platinum, and National Platinum.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Palladium, United Palladium, and National Palladium.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Rhodium, United Rhodium, and National Rhodium.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Iridium, United Iridium, and National Iridium.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Osmium, United Osmium, and National Osmium.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Rhenium, United Rhenium, and National Rhenium.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Vanadium, United Vanadium, and National Vanadium.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Niobium, United Niobium, and National Niobium.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Tantalum, United Tantalum, and National Tantalum.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Zirconium, United Zirconium, and National Zirconium.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Hafnium, United Hafnium, and National Hafnium.

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, Change, and Volume. Includes stocks like American Thallium, United Thallium, and National Thallium.

Bank Clearings Yesterday

Says: Big Insurance Companies Are Backward

First Such Decline in 4 Weeks Caused by Shrinkage in New York

New York, June 8.—Although up sharply from the previous holiday week, total bank clearings in the city, according to the Federal Reserve Bank, were $1,401,000,000 yesterday.

Clearings for the week ended Wednesday, June 7, according to the Federal Reserve Bank, were $1,398,000,000. This compared with $1,398,000,000 for the week ended June 6.

Bank clearings at leading cities, together with percentage changes from last year, follow:

Table with 3 columns: City, Clearings, and % Change. Includes cities like New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Washington.

Washington Volume

The Washington Clearing House reports total clearings of $23,786,000 for the week ended Wednesday, June 7, compared with $23,558,000 for the week ended June 6.

Compared with a total of $21,312,000 for the previous week of five days, clearings increased 22.8 per cent.

Constantine Brown of Washington also addressed the convention. His topic was "The World's Economic Situation."

Local Produce

Prices paid shippers net f. o. b. Washington.

U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

U. S. Standards, large, 1.00; small, .75.

New York Curb Stocks

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

The Best Sellers at the Lowest Prices Want Ad Rate—NA. 4200

To Place A Want Ad.
If you have anything to rent or sell, or if you're looking for help, use Post Want Ads. Call National 4200—or take your ad to any of these Post Want Ad branches:

- Gallaudet Pharmacy, 1000 Florida Ave. N.E.
- Kay Drug Co., 5th & K Sts. N.W.
- Smoot Pharmacy, 1548 N. J. Ave. N.W.
- Standard Drug, 1748 7th St. N.W.
- Suter's Drug Store, 1841 Columbia Rd.
- Williams Pharmacy, 501 First St. S.W.
- Bell's Cigar & News Stand, 1126 H St. N.W.
- Argyle Pharmacy, 17th St. & Wood Rd. N.W.
- For Street Pharmacy, 6130 Ca. Ave. N.W.
- Levy's Confectionery, 500 8th St. S.E.
- Smith Pharmacy, 14th & Clifton Sts. N.W.

Additional branches are listed on opposite page.

Post Classified Ads—National 4200. Personal Loan Cos. 88. Operating Under Uniform Small Loan Laws. LOANS UP TO $300. MAKE BOTH ENDS MEET WITH A CASH LOAN TODAY.

SIGNATURE—AUTOMOBILE OR FURNITURE LOANS. Call, Write or Phone. MARYLAND PERSONAL BANKERS. 7912 Georgia Avenue. Silver Spring, Md. Phone 58.252.

AUTOMOBILE LOANS. We'll supply the cash to buy a good used car. You need no down payment. Select the model you want from a reliable dealer—then see us for the money to pay for it. Very small monthly payments. Phone or come in.

DOMESTIC FINANCE CORPORATION. A SMALL LOAN CORPORATION. ROSSLYN, VA. 5093 SPRING RD. Phone 5829. Phone 5829. Phone 5829.

Trucks for Sale 97A. CHEVROLET—1935 1/2-Ton Panel. This truck is far above average condition and we will sell to suit purchaser. Special price. $1,200.00. STOKESMAN. 3307 M St. N.W. ME. 1646.

SALE—Automobiles 98. BUICK—1937 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 Convertible Coupe. One of the smartest and best preserved cars we have. Excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

BUICK—1938 "41" 4-Dr. Trunk Sedan. Large and roomy and one of the finest Buicks ever made. Beautiful interior and excellent condition. Only $1,200.00. EMERSON & ORME. 17th and M Sts. N.W. DI. 8100.

SMOKEY STOVER

WINNIE WINKLE

When the Cat's Away

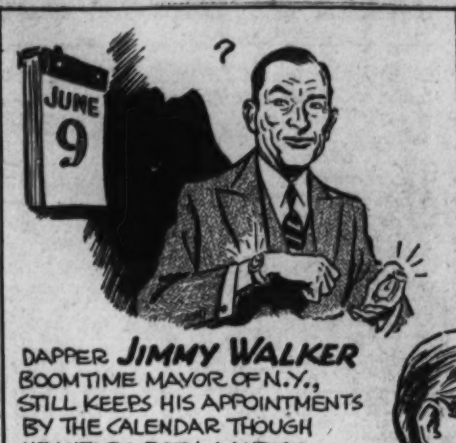

The Line Forms Here

BY BRANNER

PRIVATE LIVES

DAPPER JIMMY WALKER BOOMTIME MAYOR OF N.Y., STILL KEEPS HIS APPOINTMENTS BY THE CALENDAR THOUGH HE WEARS BOTH A WRIST AND A POCKET WATCH!

A ROYAL AUTOGRAPH FAN IS YOUNG KING FAROUK OF EGYPT. HE RECENTLY WROTE FOR AND GOT THE JOHN HANCOCKS OF GARBO AND LOMBARD!

GUESTS OF PRODUCER DANIEL FROHMAN

BELOVED DEAN OF BROADWAY, NEVER HAD TO HURRY DINNER TO SEE HIS SHOWS. UNTIL RECENTLY HIS HOME ADJOINED THE GALLERY OF HIS THEATRE, AND YOU COULD WATCH THE PLAY THROUGH A WINDOW.

Contract Bridge

By Florence Osborn.

Champions come and go; the winning club rubber players decay with years; old masters, however often they play, are obliged to hark back to triumphs of former games to enjoy applause.

Charles Goren, No. 1 man on Shepard Barclay's list of outstanding bridge players for the year, is on the crest of the wave. For years he plugged through tournament after tournament in comparative obscurity, to burst forth recently as a leader of champions.

Today's hand, taken from the Canadian-American championship, played two weeks ago at Niagara, N. Y., displays his compelling urge for improvement in the refusal to be satisfied with the obvious way of playing it. The result was that he was the only declarer in the tournament to make 11 tricks on the hand. It was not that the play was beyond the other experts' abilities, but rather that they took the easier way, Goren plumed further, chose the hard way, which was to reverse the dummy and declarer hands, and was rewarded by winning top on the board.

Concerning the play, he says: "There is a great temptation to clatter right up with the ace of diamonds, enter the closed hand with the diamond king and ruff a diamond. If the spades and clubs break 2-2 and 4-3, five-odd ruffs right in. In order to overcome a bad spade break, the diamond ace on the board is needed for the dummy-reversal operation."

Goren won the first trick with the diamond king, and led the five of clubs, which was taken by East with the club nine. East made a good defensive play in returning the

The Post Radio Time Table

King George and Queen Elizabeth are received in the Rotunda of the Capitol by Vice President Garner, Speaker Bankhead and the members of Congress—WJSV, WMAL and WOL, 11 a. m.

The royal visitors lay a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery—WMAL, WJSV, 3:15 p. m.

The Washington Senators play the Cleveland Indians—WJSV, 3:30 p. m.

Ted Husing summarizes the second day's play in the National Open from the Philadelphia Country Club—WJSV, 5:45 p. m.

Bob Trout reviews the royal couple's day—WJSV, 6:45 p. m.

Lucille Manners sings "Goodbye" from Stolz's "White Horse Inn" and "Liebestraum" while Dr. Frank Black conducts music from Delibes, Rimsky-Korsakov and Goldmark—WRC, 7 p. m.

Congressman Martin Smith talks on "More Employment Ahead"—WOL, 9:45 p. m.

The King and Queen entrain from Union Station en route to New York—WMAL, 11:15 p. m.

Friday, June 9

Washington Eastern Standard Time

WMAL 476M-630K	WRC 316M-950K	WOL 229-1,230K	WJSV 206M-1,460K
6:00	Gordon Hittmark	Arthur Godfrey	6:00
6:15	"	"	6:15
6:30	Today's Prelude	Art Brown	6:30
6:45	"	"	6:45
7:00	"	"	7:00
7:15	"	"	7:15
7:30	STATION	News	7:30
7:45	PDS	Art Brown	7:45
8:00	PRESENTS	Gordon Hittmark	8:00	News Reporter
8:15	"	"	8:15	Arthur Godfrey
8:30	Earl Godwin	News	8:30	Magic Carpet
8:45	Jack Fay	Gospel Singer	8:45	Bachelors' Club
9:00	Thunder	Central City	9:00	Kitty Kelly
9:15	Josh Higgins	John's Other Wife	9:15	West & Margo
9:30	Jack Berch	Just Plain Bill	9:30	Hilltop House
9:45	Sweethearts	Woman in White	9:45	Stagnation
10:00	Mary Martin	David Harnam	10:00	It Happened
10:15	Vic and Sade	Lorenzo Jones	10:15	Baines
10:30	Fran Allison	Widow Brown	10:30	Keep It to Music
10:45	T. Danieroff	Road of Life	10:45	Musical Potpourri
11:00	King & Queen	The Carters	11:00	King and Queen Royalty at Cap
11:15	At U. S. Capitol	The O'Neills	11:15	At U. S. Capitol
11:30	National	Mary Mahon	11:30	Nancy Trent
11:45	Farm and	"	11:45	Our Gal Sunday

AFTERNOON PROGRAMS

12:00	Home Hour News	Happy Gang	Goldbergs	12:00
12:15	Let's Talk	Devotions	Life Beautiful	12:15
12:30	Peabody	Home Folks Frolic	Lunchtime Music	12:30
12:45	News	Words and Music	V. of Experience	12:45
1:00	Women in the	Betty and Bob	Popular Medley	1:00
1:15	Making of Amr.	Grimm's Daughter	Tony Wakeman	1:15
1:30	Rhythm	Valiant Lady	"	1:30
1:45	School	Betty Crocker	"	1:45
2:00	Navy Band	Mary Martin	"	2:00
2:15	"	Ma Perkins	"	2:15
2:30	"	Pepper Family	"	2:30
2:45	"	Guiding Light	"	2:45
3:00	Club Matinee	Backstage Wife	News	3:00
3:15	King at Arlington	Stella Dallas	Tony Wakeman	3:15
3:30	At Arlington	Vic and Sade	"	3:30
3:45	N. B. C. Orch.	Midstream	"	3:45
4:00	Barry McKinley	Rhythmair	"	4:00
4:15	Yoichi Hiroaka	"	"	4:15
4:30	Anthony's Affr	On With Dance	"	4:30
4:45	Soap Box Derby	Orphan Annie	"	4:45
5:00	Jimmy Allen	Castilla Twins	Muted Music	5:00
5:15	News	Paradise Isle	Music of Today	5:15
5:30	Tune Types	News	Cocktail Capers	5:30
5:45	Lowell Thomas	The Plainman	Johnson Family	5:45

EVENING PROGRAMS

6:00	Herman's Orch.	Melody Time	Sports Resume	Amos & Andy	6:00
6:15	District News	Jimmy Fidler	Walter Compton	Lum & Abner	6:15
6:30	The Revelers	Gordon's Orch.	Lone Ranger	Buddy Clark	6:30
6:45	Sports Review	Buccaneers	"	Bob Trout	6:45
7:00	Home Sweet	Concert	Fulton Lewis, Jr.	First Nighter	7:00
7:15	Home Anniv.	Lucille	Back Rogers	"	7:15
7:30	Interzone	"	Edwin C. Hill	Burns and Allen	7:30
7:45	"	"	"	"	7:45
8:00	Plantation Party	Waltz Time	Milk Situation	To Be Ann.	8:00
8:15	"	"	Student	Syncope	8:15
8:30	Horlick's	Death	Assembly	Catholic Action	8:30
8:45	"	Valley Days	"	"	8:45
9:00	The 1,001	Lady Esther	News	Grand Central	9:00
9:15	Wives	Serenade	Ridge Runners	Station	9:15
9:30	Frank T. Bow	V. of Yesterday	Revue of Week	Believe It or	9:30
9:45	Behind Headlines	Cameras in Action	Rep. Smith	Not Ripley	9:45
10:00	Glen Miller's	News	Variety Program	News, E. C. Hill	10:00
10:15	Orchestra	Starlight Roof	McLean's Orch.	Int'l. Scores	10:15
10:30	Baukhawk Talk	Richard Himber's	News	Cab Calloway	10:30
10:45	Dorsey's Orch.	Orchestra	Garber's Orch.	M. Davis' Orch.	10:45
11:00	Car & Don Orch.	Sports Resume	Sammy Kay's	Alexander's	11:00
11:15	Royal Departure	Musical	Glen Gray's	Orchestra	11:15
11:30	Musical Yea	"	"	"	11:30
11:45	"	"	"	"	11:45
12:00	Night Watchman	Sign Off	J. Reichman's	Weather	12:00
12:15	"	"	Orchestra	Sign Off	12:15
12:30	"	"	Ted Black's	Orchestra	12:30
12:45	"	"	"	"	12:45
1:00	Sign Off	"	"	"	1:00
1:15	"	"	"	"	1:15
1:30	"	"	"	"	1:30
1:45	"	"	"	"	1:45
2:00	"	"	"	"	2:00

ANY RADIO REPAIRED!

REGARDLESS OF CONDITION

FREE Pickup & Delivery

S & S Radio Service Co.

1420 Wisconsin Ave. N.W.

75c Parts Reasonable

Michigan 4333

MR. AND MRS.

The Limit of Endurance

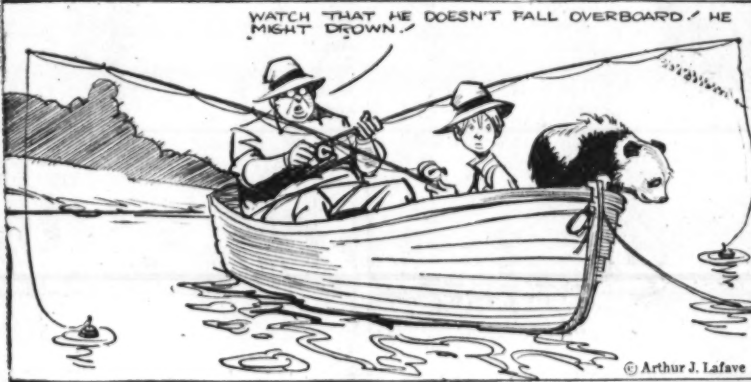

BY ARTHUR FOLWELL AND ELLISON HOOVER

NADIE MAN AND UNCLE ELLY

BY CLIFFORD

JOE PALOOKA

Off to Frisco

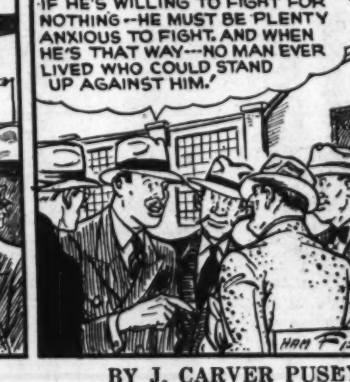

BY HAM FISHER

BENNY

He's Off Again

BY J. CARVER PUSEY

By The Diarist

The Federal Diary

The visiting royalty, motoring up Pennsylvania avenue yesterday, saw a number of Government employees that is perhaps the greatest in any capital of the world. Unless their number has decreased since April (which isn't likely), they swarmed the streets yesterday to the tune of 121,903—and these are employed in the executive branch of the Government. There are many more.

The April figures on the employment in the executive branch set a record for all time in the District.

Total personnel, both here and in the field, was 885,262 during the month, an increase of 5,758 over March. However, the aggregate pay roll for April was approximately $1,150,000 less than the March figure, due to the fact that there were fewer working days in the former month.

In the District, the increase in number of employees was 1,120 compared with 4,638 outside the Capital.

Of the 885,262 employees in the executive branch of the Federal Government in April, 775,357 were full-time workers on regular pay rolls, 76,846 were hired on a "force account" basis—mostly construction employees on naval vessel or road building—and 33,059 were part-time workers engaged in other activities.

Government employees on relief projects totaled 68,459—most of them in the Works Progress Administration.

Largest personnel increases in Washington were in the War, Navy, Interior and Agriculture departments. In addition, sizable increases were reported by the Labor Department, Civil Aeronautics Authority, General Accounting Office and Social Security Board. Decreases occurred in Treasury and WPA.

Outside the District, increases were reported by War, Postoffice, Navy and Agriculture, while seasonal decreases in personnel were reported by Treasury, Commerce, CAA, Panama Canal and Tennessee Valley Authority. The large increase in WPA resulted from a reduction in the temporary force.

Of the Washington contingent, 115,732 are full time employees, 5,581 are on "force account" pay rolls and 680 are part time workers.

The Treasury Department continues as the largest single employer—agency in the Capital, with 22,240 workers. Its nearest competitors are Interior, with 12,974, and Agriculture, 12,036.

Bob Burns Says—

In a great many instances, it's the little things in life that are the most important. In married life, for example, my wife gets more kick out of me givin' her the last biscuit on the plate than she does when I give her a diamond bracelet. That is, she says she does. When I get rich I'm gonna give her a diamond bracelet just to see if she's been lyin' to me.

I guess my Uncle Fud knows the value of little things better than anybody else. He runs the Royal Palace Gem Theater in Van Buren. Once he was complainin' to his landlord that the theater was just over-run with mice and the landlord said, "Well, Fud, them mice is bein' enticed in here by that little popcorn machine in the lobby. Why don't you get rid of it?"

Fud said "Nothin' doin'! Last month I made $65 on my pictures, and $120 on my popcorn!"

Graduating Radio Engineers to Hear Curran Tonight

Judge Edward M. Curran will give the chief address at a graduation banquet for 54 students of the Capital Radio Engineering Institute, to be held at 7 tonight in the Willard Hotel.

E. H. Rietze, president of the school, will present diplomas and special awards for technical excellence in radio engineering. Graduates are:

George C. Ahrens, Enrique J. A. Armond, J. de Leon, G. R. Beckham, E. Walter Berger, John Birmingham, Walter P. Brantley, James A. Brown, Robert Harding Burns, Howard S. Caldwell, Franklin Earl Haughwout, Cornell Hunter, Edward L. Jones, James L. Koonce, Homer C. Korman, Clyde C. McCormonda, John P. Kossel, James A. Malloy, Warren L. Marvin, Jr., Meri P. Miller, E. Allen Orren, Fred C. Petersen, Vivian E. Ayre, Renee R. Black, R. E. Diller, Thomas F. Edwards, Raymond P. Hoesfeld, Correy T. James, Alan G. Davidson, Charles L. Day, Richard M. Eddy, Robert Gaston Fox, Lawrence O'Brien, Robert Mark Gilbert, Oscar C. Griffith, Meredith Howard Griffith, James Whitmore Haines, Robert Donovan Hixson, Oscar D. Shalley, Donald S. Smith, Thomas Smith, James M. Stewart, Maurice J. Stewart, Eustace Taylor, J. Kenneth Taylor, Francis John Ward, Robert S. Ware, Robert John Weisband, Walter R. Zimetstein, William O. Zimetstein, Henry W. Mason, Paul W. Reed, Oscar Siegel, T. Marshall Spencer, Horace Anthony Talmaki.

PULITZER PRIZE NOVEL

THE YEARLING

By Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings

Jody is the 12-year-old son of Penny and Ma Baxter, who live on an upper branch of the St. Johns River in the Florida backwoods. Jody wanders through the woods, browsing and watching the wildlife, at every opportunity. Old Julia is Penny's house, his horse is named Caesar and Rip is the bulldog. All of which is a brief fore-runner in one of the grandest and most appealing characterizations in many years.

CHAPTER III.

He felt as foolish as a bird dog caught chasing field mice. He looked at his father sheepishly. His father's pale blue eyes were twinkling. "Tell the truth, Jody," he said, "and shame the devil. Wait! the bee tree a fine excuse to go a-ramblin'!"

Jody grimaced. "The notion taken me," he admitted, "before I studied on the bee tree."

"That's what I figured. How come me to know, was when I was drivin' along to Grahamsville, I said to myself, 'There's Jody now, and the hoin' ain't goin' to take him too long. What would I do this fine spring day, was I a boy?' And then I thought 'I'd go a-ramblin'.' Most anywhere, long as it lived the ground."

A warmth filled the boy that was not the low golden sun. He nodded.

"That's the way I figured," he said.

"But your Ma, now, Penny jerked his head toward the house, 'don't hold with ramblin'.' Most folks can't see for their lives how a man loves so to ramble. I never let on you wasn't here. She said, 'Where's Jody?' and I said, 'Oh, I reckon he's around somewhere.' He winked one eye and Jody winked back.

"MEN-FOLKS has got to stick together in the name of peace. You carry you Ma a good bait of wood now."

Jody filled his arms and hurried to the house. His mother was kneeling at the hearth. The spiced smells that came to his nose made him weak with hunger. "That ain't sweet 'tater pone, is it,

Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings

Ma?" "Hit's sweet 'tater pone, and don't you tellers be too long a time now, piddlin' around and visitin'. Supper's done and ready."

He dumped the wood in the box and scurried to the lot. His father was milking Trixie.

"Ma says to git done and come on," he reported. "Must I feed old Caesar?"

"I done fed him, son, sich as I had to give the pore feller." He stood up from the three-legged milking stool. "Cherry in the milk and don't trip and waste it outen the gourd like you done yestiddy. Easy, Trixie."

He moved aside from the cow and went to the stall in the shed, where her calf was tethered. "Here, Trixie. So gal—"

The cow lowed and came to her calf.

"Easy there. You greedy as Jody," He stroked the pair and followed the boy to the house. They washed in turn at the water-shelf and dried their hands and faces on the roller towel hanging outside the kitchen door. Ma Baxter sat at the table waiting for them, helping their plates. Her bulky frame filled the end of the long narrow table. Jody and his father sat down on either side of her. It seemed natural to both of them that she should preside.

"You-all honry tonight?" she asked.

"I kin hold a barrie o' meat and a bushel o' biscuit," Jody said.

"That's what you say. Your eyes is bigger'n your belly." "I'd about say the same," Penny said, "if I hadn't learned better. Goin' to Grahamsville allus do make me honry."

"You git a snort o' shine there, is the reason," she said.

"A mighty small one today. Jim Turnbuckle treated."

"Then you shore didn't get enough to hurt you."

JODY HEARD NOTHING: saw nothing but his plate. He had never been so hungry in his life, and after a lean winter and slow spring with food not much more plentiful for the Baxters than for their stock, his mother had cooked a supper good enough for the preacher. There were poke-greens with bits of white bacon buried in them; sand-burgers made of potato and onion and the cooter he had found crawling yesterday; sour orange biscuits and at his mother's elbow the sweet potato pone. He was torn between his desire for more biscuits and another sand-burger and the knowledge born of painful experience, that if he ate them, he would suddenly have no room for pone. The choice was plain.

"Ma," he said, "kin I have my pone right now?" She was at a pause in the feeding of her own last year's frame. She cut him, dexterously, a generous portion. He plunged into its spiced and savory goodness.

"The time it takened me," she complained, "to make that pone—and you destroyin' it before I git my breath—"

"I'm eatin' it quick," he admitted, "but I'll remember it a long time."

Supper was done with Jody was replete. Even his father, who usually ate like a sparrow, had taken a second helping.

"I'm full, thank the Lord," he said.

Ma Baxter sighed. "If a feller'd light me a candle," she said, "I'd git shut of the dish-washin' and mebbe have time to set and enjoy myself."

Jody left his seat and lit a tallow candle. As the yellow flame wavered, he looked out of the east window. The full moon was rising. "A pity to waste light, ain't it," his father said, "and the full moon shinin'."

He came to the window and they watched it together.

"Son, what do it put in your head? Do you mind what I said we'd do, full moon in April?"

"I dis-remember."

SOMEHOW, THE SEASON always took him unawares. It must be necessary to be as old as his father to keep them in the mind and memory, to remember moon-time from one year's end to another.

"You ain't forgot what I told you? I'll swear, Jody, they, boy, the bears come outen their winter beds on the full moon in April."

"Old Slewfoot! You said we'd lay for him when he come out!"

"That's it."

"You said we'd go where we seed his tracks comin' and goin' and criss-crossin', and likely find his bed, and him, too, comin' out in April."

"And fat, fat and lazy. The meat so sweet, from him layin' up."

"And him mebbe easier to ketch, not woke up good."

"That's it."

"When kin we go, Pa?" "Soon as we git the hoein' done. And see bear-sign."

"Which-a-way will we begin huntin' him?"

"We'd best to go by the Glen springs and see has he come out and watered there."

"A big o' doe watered there today," Jody said. "Whilst I was asleep, I built me a flutter-mill, Pa. It run fine."

Ma Baxter stopped the clatter of her pots and pans.

"You sly scaper," she said. "That's the first I knowed you been off. You gittin' slick as a clay road in the rain."

He shouted with laughter. "I fooled you, Ma. Say it, Ma. I got to fool you once."

"You fooled me. And me standin' over the fire makin' potato pone—"

She was not truly angry.

"Now, Ma," he coaxed her, "suppose I was a varmint and didn't eat nothin' but roots and grass."

"I'd not have nothin' then to rile me," she said.

At the same time he saw her mouth twist. She tried to straighten it and could not.

"Ma's a-laughin'! Ma's a-laughin'! You ain't riled when you laugh!"

HE DARTED BEHIND HER and untied her apron strings. The apron slipped to the floor. She turned her bulk quickly and boxed his ears, but the blows were feather-light and playful. The same delirium came over him again that he had felt in the afternoon. He began to whirl around and around as he had done in the broom-sage.

"You knock them plates offen the table," she said, "and you'll see who's riled."

"I can't hep it, I'm dizzy."

"You're addled," she said. "Jest plain addled."

It was true. He was addled with April. He was dizzy with spring.

He was as drunk as Lem Forrester on a Saturday night. His head was swimming with the strong brew made up of the sun and the air and the thin gray rain. The flutter-mill had made him drunk, and the doe's coming, and his father's hiding his absence, and his mother's making him a pone and laughing at him. He was stabbed with the candle-light inside the safe comfort of the cabin; with the moonlight around it. He pictured old Slewfoot, the great black outlaw bear with one toe missing, rearing up in his winter bed and tasting the soft air and smelling the moonlight, as he, Jody, smelled and tasted them. He went to bed in a fever and could not sleep. A mark was on him from the day's delight, so that all his life, when April was a thin green and the flavor of rain was on his tongue, an old wound would throb and a nostalgia would fill him for something he could not quite remember. A whip-poor-will called across the bright night, and suddenly he was asleep.

To Be Continued Tomorrow

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

BIG CHIEF WAHOO

MICKEY FINN

DIXIE DUGAN

DONALD DUCK

DON WINSLOW OF THE NAVY

NED BRANT—A Story of College Athletics

APPLE MARY AND DENNIE

If a Body Meets a Foreign Body

Another Shock!

General Cleanup

Fresh-Air Fiend

Gangway!

THE WORKSHOPS!

BY BOB ZUPPKE

BY MILTON CANIFF

BY LANK LEONARD

J. P. McEVROY AND H. J. STRIEBEL

BY WALT DISNEY

BY FRANK MARTINEK

BY BOB ZUPPKE

BY MARTHA ORR

Grin and Bear It

By Lichty

"I hope you noticed how they tried to wangle a week-end invitation out of us—not once did they ask about our new summer cottage!"

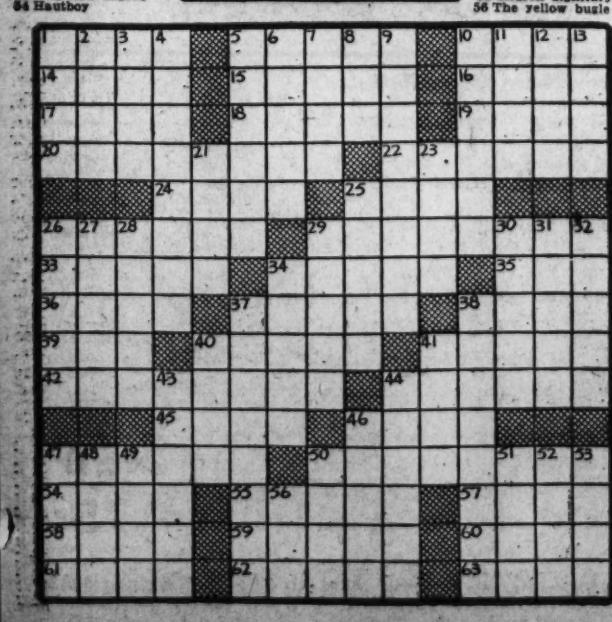

Daily Cross Word Puzzle

ACROSS.

- 1 Denomination
- 2 American plant
- 3 Scorch
- 4 Cupid
- 5 Rounded, convex molding
- 6 Part of harness
- 7 Turkish gold coin
- 8 Metal
- 9 Will-woven silk
- 10 Hula-hoop
- 11 Ornamental knob
- 12 Compliment
- 13 Ornament thought to bring good luck
- 14 Monetary coin
- 15 Soft-finned food
- 16 Fish
- 17 Serap
- 18 Extreme bodily pain
- 19 Fustile
- 20 Twist of surgical hair
- 21 Pinchable to declare for a state
- 22 Prior
- 23 Weaver's reed
- 24 Sprines up
- 25 Brownish purple color
- 26 Facial expression
- 27 Half mask
- 28 Disputed ancestry
- 29 Hauberk

DOWN.

- 1 Brine
- 2 Arabian military commander
- 3 Persian satellite
- 4 Exceed
- 5 Travel back and forth
- 6 Keep clear of
- 7 Salmon in its third year
- 8 Wistful part
- 9 Susceptible of being explained
- 10 Circumspect
- 11 Aureole
- 12 Abbess
- 13 Erect
- 14 Petrifying
- 15 Fencing stake
- 16 Misere
- 17 Algonquian Indian
- 18 Disheasure
- 19 Loose garment
- 20 Intoxicating principle in liquors
- 21 Burnt sugar
- 22 Devious
- 23 Secure hat
- 24 Ancient Greek coin
- 25 Tail of meter
- 26 Infold
- 27 Direct
- 28 Anglo-Saxon slave
- 29 Church dignitary
- 30 The yellow bugle

Peace Ahead, Columbus U. Class Is Told

U. S. to Stay Out of War, Sen. Andrews
Tells 350 Graduates

Senator Andrews (Democrat), of Florida, last night told 350 members of the largest class ever to graduate from Columbus University to "chart your future economic, social and professional courses without fear of our country's engagement in a foreign conflict."

Senator Andrews, speaking at commencement exercises in Constitution Hall, declared it was his belief that "this country will not engage in any overseas conflict."

"This is the trend of the State Department, the Navy Department, the War Department, the White House, and the Congress," said Senator Andrews. "The horrors of the World War still are vividly etched in the memories of those of us in responsible positions."

He advised graduates to: "Tear off the shackles of doubt and apprehension, and with the freedom of good American citizens, resolve to advance with progressive forces who will believe in the future of their country."

President William E. Leahy presented diplomas to the graduates following an address of welcome by George E. Herring, chairman of the board of trustees, and invocation by the Rev. William J. Sweeney, of St. Gabriel's Catholic Church. Dr. William G. Feely, university vice president, awarded prizes.

Degrees were conferred on:

Master of Laws

Philip Sanford, Robert Bailey, Georgina Binsert, James Burke, Jr., Robert Clifford, Robert Deas, Cecil Dowd, William Downing, Jr., Bernard Eder, Kenneth Foster, Melva Graney, Thomas Grant, Arthur Hobart, Helen Hughes, Henry Hyde, John Johnson, Arthur Jones, Augustus Leavitt, Helen Malone, Paul Martin, Agnes McMullen, William Naylor, George Regent, William Richards, James Schryver, William Stirling, Fred Traub, Jacqueline Young.

Master of Patent Law

Robert Brady, John Combs, John Crawford, William Downing, Jr., Bernard Eder, Arthur Jones, William McMahon, Jr., William Naylor, Harvey Nichol, Raymond Reed, Edgar Whitehead.

Master of Commercial Science

Gus Chaconas, Martha Antney, Joseph Bailey, Vincent Corrado, Edward DeLillo, Morris Gabel, Richard Harron, John Hunter, Morris Kruser, Albert Liewer, George Freese, Russell C. Rainwater, Harry J. Rheas.

Bachelor of Laws

Albert Walters Clayton, Thomas Clements, Allen Raymond, Andrew Arnold, Mary Grace Ausberson, Arthur P. Austin, Beatrice V. Ball, David Baughner, Barlow, Edward Oscar Barnes, M. Oliver Benson, Joseph B. Boylan, Raymond Boylan, Kenneth Clayton Bradley, Antonette Adelaide Brem, William B. Burehsh, Abby E. Culler, Catherine Carr, Harry Lewis Carr, William Hershel Caver, Mary Ann Cimino, Kenneth A. Cive, Richard J. Clinton, Leo Edward Covalek, Charles M. Cox, John L. Cronkite, James J. Cullane, Joseph Pius Cullane, Thomas J. Curran.

Henry Raymond Dame, Patrick A. Deck, Doris Evelyn Debeach, Edward J. Diamond, Jr., Joseph J. Dunery, Joseph Charles Dugan, Paul J. Dunn, Henry Everett Edmunds, Paul J. Evans, Paul Vincent Evans, Clara Mildred Fieldman, Joseph Vincent Fieldman, Floramond, Francis Spates Fisher, Broadway Green, William H. Fullaway, Allen Mosier Fuller, Raymond Alexander Gallagher, Thomas Vincent Gannon, Leo Joseph Gaudier, Andrew John Gerber, Alma W. Gerstner, Richard M. Gibson, Richard Calvert Gifford, Katherine Goldberg, Charles Henry Gordon, Edward M. J. Gwynn, Charles F. Gropper, Kenneth Lowell Haas, Clifton O. Haller, Sarah M. Hanagan, Francis P. Harriman, Amy Josephine Harrison, John Parker Hebrew, M. Beatrice Heslin, Leslie A. Hiller, Robert L. Hinkle, Jr., Val House, Gwynne Lester Holden, John E. Hoppe, Arthur Howard, Beulah Benton Howard, John Eliot Howard, Mildred P. Howard, William Parker Howard, William V. Hoy, Lenwood H. Hulvey, William Luther Hunt, Jr., Beatrice Mary Isaac, Irene Laine Jervis, Ruth Elizabeth Jarvis, Fred A. Jilison, Edward C. Jones, Oliver B. Jones.

Edward W. Kelly, James Francis Kelly, Mary Joseph Kelly, John Stuart Kelly, Ruth Greenagan Kenny, Joseph C. Khuen, John Peter King, Thaddeus E. Kiemen, John J. Kuehl, John E. Lander, Edna E. Leatherwood, John J. Leech, William Eugene Lefebvre, Sam J. Leitch, Gilbert Roland Lev, J. Harry Lewis, John A. Loftus, Edna B. Loomis, Ann Josephine Lovelace, Thomas P. Lynch, Lionel G. Lyons, Lynn P. Lyons, Mary H. Mandis, R. Herbert Manning, Richard P. Marzouk, DeForest C. Mather, Wallace E. Matthews, Sylvan L. Maso, Clara Smith McCarthy, Walter Thad McDaniel, Thomas Jefferson McDonald, W. Vincent McGuire, John Douglas McKinney, Raymond G. McKnew, John J. McLaughlin, John S. McLeod, Francis Cyril McNamary, Robert Ernest Melcalfe, Charles M. Miller, Mary Elizabeth Miller, Robert Truitt Miller, James P. Minnet, Charles W. Minor, John Philip Mohr, Joe Ewald Moody, James Edward Mortuary, Minnie B. Morton, Charlotte Mott, John Joseph Murray, Neely David Morrison, Neely William Black, Neely Neely, Jr., Frank J. Obery, Elaine R. O'Brien, Maurice O'Connor, Francis J. Olsen, Sidney Scott Palmer, Alice A. Parrish, Michael Leahy Platt, Edward Platt, host Edward Oley Poole, Leo I. Proslie, John Lester Quader, Francis J. Racioni, Mark A. Raciopod, Evelyn Frances Rees, Florene F. Richey, Joel C. Robinson, Joseph Paul Rogson, Grace K. Roby, Henry Donald Romer, Robert Louis Rowe, John Henry Rorer, Jr., Richard Paul Rorer, Elizabeth Marie Ryan, Herbert Franklin

Station PDS Presents Singer as Guest

Carl Womack, 516 E street northeast, will be the featured soloist on the PDS program this morning. Mr. Womack has appeared with several orchestras in Florida. He has been heard locally over Station WOL and at the Earle Theater.

"Station PDS Presents" broadcast by Lee Everett from the Peoples Drug Store Studios, Eleventh and G streets northwest, is presented each week morning from 7:30 to 8:30 by Peoples Drug Store in co-operation with The Washington Post. Anyone over 16 years old may participate in the auditions at 7:30 p. m. Tuesdays at the N. H. C. auditions. Performers are paid $5 for their appearance on this program.

Backs, William James Scanlon, Gerald J. Schumaker, Harold M. Seamen, Anthony J. Scilliano, Fred Cone Sikes, Louis Vincent Silverman, Leo Edward Simon, Henrietta M. Simpers, Charles Herbert Stanley, Mildred C. Stanley, William Parvin Starr, Charles Grant Steiter, J. Howard Suddam, David Smith Taylor, George Leo Tighe, Jr., James J. Torillo, Alice Margaret Tubby, Vladimir Vasa, Max C. Vogt, Jr., Mildred E. Walder, Rose Mary Walker, Thomas Ewell Walker, Woodrow R. Walton, Philip Victor Warman, Vivian Mae Webb, Bernard Weinstein, Helen Rita Weisberger, Francis J. Wendorf, Harold C. Wilson, Ruth Melling Woolley, Lloyd C. Young.

Bachelor of Commercial Science, Richard James Conkley, John Howard Allen, Francis William Apple, William Augustine Blute, Paul William Bonick, George Vincent Bolter, Augustus Knish Bowles, Joseph Ambrose Brandt, Arthur Banks Brown, Harold John Bruninga, Robert E. Burke, Paul James Coger, Matthew Ronald Cortes, Robert Leo Costello, Anna Rita Dalry Thomas Joseph DeFrancis, Joseph P. DeMarco, Juliana C. Downey, James Jeremiah Duran, James Eliot Ferry, Leo Vernon Finn, Dan Howard Freshman, Gaston Joseph Gagner, John Aloysius Galvin, Charles Francis Garcia, Helen Lawrence Glenn, Ernest M. Gold, Francis Edwin Grimes, Lester Marcus Haddad, Francis X. Hanagan, A. Albert Heimbach, Fred Paul Herzer, Walter J. Hollywood, Benjamin Ralph Horwitz, Jack Robert Hurwitz, John Alfred Janik, Margaret Frances Kahn, John Kansas, Allen S. Kilmer, Leonard Carl Knott, Joseph Gordon Lane, Irvine Livshin, Louis Livshin, Hendrick Machobian, J. Rayburn McChesney, Raymond Holden McChesney, Joseph McMurray, Nicholas O. Michael, George Donald Miller, Harry Aloysius Miller, Thomas S. Monson, J. Gerald Moore, Hyman David Nattal, L. Franklin Norwood, Max Packard, Tom George Parnich, Louis Payne, Vincent Ignatius Peters, Walter Ignatius Plant, Julian E. Raper, Catherine Louise Repetti, Wayne Carr Richey, Brad Jean Rinehart, Rodney M. Russell, Irvine Van Dyck Sax, Albert J. Schaffer, Robert Wallace Seay, Joseph James Shatz, Hugo C. Sica, Aaron David Singer, Charles A. Siver, Francois E. Taverrier, D. Theodore Thabers, Lindsey Key Thomas, Silvio N. Valore, Doris Marie Vessel, Asantha J. Warner, Lester M. Zimmerman.

THE HECHT CO.

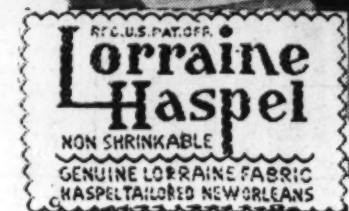

7 STREET AT SEVENTH

NATIONAL 5100

2½ Pounds Lighter... than your year around suit...

LORRAINE-HASPEL

Seersucker Suits

$10

Coat and Trousers

Harry Yudelevit Granted Parole

The parole board yesterday granted freedom to Harry Yudelevit serving a ten-year sentence at Lorton for assault to kill. The board said he had been an accomplice of another man who shot and wounded a policeman in a scuffle.

Yudelevit had been paroled in July, 1934, but was returned in December of that year for violating parole regulations. He had a perfect record at Lorton.

Pedestrian Hurt By Falling Glass

A pane of glass from a ninth-floor window of the National Press Building crashed to the sidewalk at the Fourteenth street entrance yesterday, striking a pedestrian.

Samuel Silverman, 1700 Lanier place northwest, suffered a painful laceration to his arm and received first aid at Emergency Hospital.

USE OUR HUGE MODERN PARKING BUILDING RIGHT
AT THE REAR OF THE STORE. NOMINAL RATES.

French, Shrier
& Urner
Tan-and-White
Saddle Oxfords
5.95

Made by nationally famous French, Shrier & Urner... the final touch of distinction. The shoe is all white with a tan saddle across the instep. (Easy to keep clean, too.) Popular red rubber buttons for comfort and easy walking.

Men's Shoes—Main Floor

Surplus stock of a men's fine hosiery manufacturer
Special Purchase!
Summer Hose

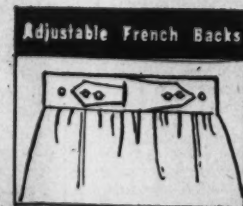

29c

Regular lengths and short socks with stay-up lastex tops. Genuine wraps in clocks, plaids and checks, stripes, genuine 63 Lisle ribs. Lises, rayon-and-silks and rayons. Sizes 10 to 12.

Men's Furnishings—Main Floor

A New Shipment! Men's All Woven
55c French Back Shorts

Fine Quality Woven Broadcloths and Oxfords with French Backs!

Cool meshes and lightweight Sheers with French Backs!

29c

Everything about this sale is unusual! The fine Fabrics... the French Backs... the Single Needle Stitching... the Tailoring Details. And coming right at the start of the summer season makes it even more unusual. All you need do is see them. Waist sizes 30 to 44. Athletic Shorts in Swiss and 6x3 Ribs. Sizes 34 to 46.....29c

The Air-Conditioned MAN'S Store—Main Floor—The Hecht Co.

TRY A

Gibson COOLER

Jigger Gibson's XXXX Rye*
Juice ½ lemon
½ teaspoonful Grenadine
(or 1 teaspoonful sugar)
Shake well with ice
Pour in tall glass
Fill with soda
Serve with straws

*The blended straight whiskeys in this product are 4 years or more old. 90 proof. Copyright 1939, Gibson Distilling Co., N. Y. C.

"GREAT FROM THE 1ST SIP"

COMPLETELY AIR CONDITIONED ON ALL SELLING FLOORS